LEVIATHAN HERE WITH MEN WHO WON HONORS IN BATTLE

Giant Transport Brings More Than 8,000 of America's Armed Forces.

HARBOR IN WILD TUMULT

New York Gives Its Greatest Welcome as Ship Moves Up the Bay.

VIVID STORIES OF WOUNDED

Numbers Aboard Who Won Decorations for Bravery—Whole Waterfront Joins in the Welcome.

After being held by the fog outside of Sandy Hook for twenty-four hours and delayed thirty-six hours on the voyage from Brest by a series of westerly gales and head seas, the American transport Leviathan arrived at Pier 4, Hoboken, at 8:45 yesterday morning, with 10,829 persons on board.

This number included, according to the figures of the Executive Medical Officer, 4,746 supernumeraries of the United States Navy, 3,630 enlisted men and officers of the United States Army, 170 civilians, 5 marines and 2,278 officers and men of the crew of the Leviathan. Of the soldiers, 1,500 were sick and wounded. In all there were 8,381 men of America's armed forces aboard.

A great many of the wounded belonged to the 27th and 30th Divisions, which suffered heavily in the fighting on the Hindenburg line near St. Quentin, which terminated in the capture of that German stronghold on Sept. 29.

Numbers of soldiers among the wounded on the Leviathan had been decorated by the French Government as well as their own for bravery in the field, including several ambulance drivers who had picked up men under heavy fire.

Commencing with the arrival of the Mauretania, the returning soldiers have received sincere and enthusiastic greetings from New York, but yesterday there was almost as much tumult down the bay, when the Leviathan came up from her anchorage as there was in this city on the day the armistice was signed. The noise continued until the ship was made fast at her pier, and for nearly an hour afterward.

The Leviathan, which weighed her anchor at 6:45 o'clock, was met off the Statue of Liberty by the Police boat Patrol, with the Mayor's Committee of Welcome on board, including his Secretary, Grover A. Whalen, Rodman Wanamaker, the Chairman; Colonel William E. Wood, Captain James W. Hallock of the Marine division of the New York Police; the Police Band, and the forty members of the Women's Police Reserves. The fireboats Thomas Willard and George B. McClellan joined the escort and sent up high streams of water ahead of the sharp bow of the transport as she moved swiftly to her pier. Cheers came from the passing ferryboats and from thousands assembled in Battery Park.

As the transport was being warped into her pier bands played martial music. The pier was thronged with workers of the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., and Knights of Columbus, who cheered heartily. These workers later provided the soldiers with coffee and sandwiches when they debarked to enter the trains which conveyed them to Camp Merritt. The Navy Department sent naval tenders to the end of the pier for the 4,746 supernumeraries brought over by the Leviathan. Sailors and soldiers, the sick and the well, were all glad to get home and said so.

On the voyage from Brest four sailors and one soldier died. One of the sailors died late on Sunday night when the vessel was at anchor. The surgeon reported that there were 150 cases of influenza on the voyage, but they were of a mild character.

Men from City Regiments.

Among the wounded and the enlisted men on board were many members of the former 71st and 12th New York Regiments, the 23d and 14th Regiments from Brooklyn, and the 2d, 3d and 74th Regiments from up-State. The senior army officer on board was Major Gen. George Barnett, and the civilians included Colonel Lord Decies, son-in-law of George Jay Gould, who was not in uniform, and three women passengers, Mrs. S. B. Forbes, wife of the United States Consul at Brest; Mrs. Crean, and Mrs. Good, wives of two navy officers.

The passenger in whom the younger soldiers and sailors on board took the most interest on the voyage was Captain Ty Cobb, the Detroit baseball player, who has been serving in France with the Chemical Warfare Corps. Before leaving he invited his fellow voyagers to attend some big game in which he was taking a part. The password at the gate, he said, would be that the applicant was on the Leviathan when Ty Cobb tried to make a speech during a minstrel show at sea.

The Leviathan had erased her camouflage and was painted gray. The vessel made twenty-three knots when the weather was moderate on 1,050 tons of coal in twenty hours, the executive officer said, and could make twenty-four knots if the navy wished to burn the extra coal.

All sorts of wild reports had been circulated while the war was on, the officer said, about attacks by U-boats

Ex-Kaiser Will Not Heed Dutch Request to Leave

Copyright, 1918, by THE NEW YORK TIMES. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Dec. 16.—The Amsterdam Telegraaf reports this morning that the ex-Kaiser has been requested to leave the country voluntarily, owing to the precarious position of Holland if her hospitality to him continues. According to the Telegraaf, the ex-monarch refuses to heed the request.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The Berlin Börsen Zeitung states that an inventory of the former Emperor William's private possessions at the palaces of Berlin and Potsdam, according to a dispatch from Amsterdam, showed 596 military and naval uniforms, German or foreign.

A great number of horses were found in the stables, all said to have been his personal property, although supposed to have been bought with public funds.

REFUSE TO ACCEPT COLLIER'S ESTATE

Dunne, Garvan, and Payne Whitney Ask Court to Give Widow $5,000,000 Property.

THE WILL CUT HER OFF

Publisher Left Bulk of Estate to Friends—They Decline to Serve as Executors.

The will of Robert J. Collier, head of P. F. Collier & Son, Publishers of Collier's Weekly and of other publications, who died suddenly at his home, 1,067 Fifth Avenue, on Nov. 8, on the day he returned from France, left the bulk of his estate to his friends, Payne Whitney, Finley Peter Dunne, and Francis P. Garvan, as residuary legatees. They have had charge of his business affairs since 1914. He made no bequest to his wife, Mrs. Sarah Steward Collier, on the ground that her father, James J. Van Alen, had provided for her amply. The residuary legatees, who were also named as executors, renounced their right to act and to take the property, valued at more than $5,000,000, and in a letter to Mrs. Collier, made public when Mrs. Collier filed a petition yesterday for the probate of the will, said:

"Much as we regret being placed in a position in which we might appear to disregard the wishes of our friend, as expressed in his will, we feel that we must, nevertheless, decline the bequest of these properties. We feel that the estate should now go to its natural ultimate destination and that we should, therefore, renounce this bequest of the residuary estate in your favor."

The will, dated July 9, 1917, gave $150,000 to George G. Kennedy and $50,000 to Frank H. Rice, both officers of P. F. Collier & Son, who have been associated in the business for many years, "for long and faithful services" to the decedent and his father, the late P. F. Collier, with the direction that the bequests be paid out of the profits of P. F. Collier & Son at any time within three years. As a result of the renunciation by Mr. Collier's three friends of their right to act and to take the residuary estate, the law would then give precedence to these two business associates. In order that Mrs. Collier's sole right might be unquestioned Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Rice also renounced their right as executors.

Mrs. Collier is her husband's sole next of kin, and for that reason she becomes the sole legatee of the residue left to Messrs. Dunne, Whitney and Garvan. The estate consists almost entirely of the publishing business and Collier's Weekly, his other properties, including his extensive country place, Wickatonk, in New Jersey, having been vested in Mrs. Collier during her husband's lifetime.

The letter of renunciation, dated Dec. 9, and written to Mrs. Collier by the three residuary legatees, said:

"We believe that we understand and appreciate Mr. Collier's motives in making this will. He was intensely interested in perpetuating the paper which he had built up and the publishing business which he had inherited from his father. We all remember the serious illness in 1914 which culminated in the stroke which he suffered in September of that year, and his great anxiety that this business should be carried on without reference to his personal affairs or his personal participation, and it was this that led him to entrust the business to a committee of his friends in order to enable it to be carried on for him. This trust is still in existence. We have no doubt that in making the will in the form in which we find it he intended to create a similar trust for these properties, but if conditions existed at the time which made such a will advisable, we think they no longer exist.

"In taking this action we believe that we are doing what Mr. Collier would have wished under the conditions that exist today; and we wish to assure you very earnestly that we will co-operate in the most friendly spirit in aiding you to carry on the administration of the estate and arrange for the future conduct and disposition of the business, and we hope that you will not hesitate at all times to call upon us freely for all the advice and assistance that we can give you."

Messrs. Whitney, Dunne, and Garvan enclosed the renunciation of Messrs. Kennedy and Rice to act as executors as well as their own, and in reply Mrs. Collier wrote Mr. Whitney for himself and his two associates that she appreciated their acts and would apply for administration letters for the estate, which she did yesterday. She expressed her "appreciation and gratitude" for their offer to co-operate with her, and said she would gladly avail herself of their "generous offer of advice and assistance."

SOVIET LEADERS GATHER IN BERLIN FOR CONVENTION

Moderates Win Big Victory in Poll for Delegates by the Councils.

RADICALS LOSE IN CAPITAL

COUNCILS REPRESS PLOTS

Queer Methods in Municipal Government—Big Strikes at Coal Mines.

BERLIN, Dec. 15, (via Copenhagen.)—Delegates from the Soldiers' and Workers' Councils of all Germany will meet in Berlin tomorrow to elect a common Executive Committee in place of the present one and to vote on the question when the National Convention is to be assembled.

In Berlin the election of delegates resulted in an overwhelming victory for the Majority Socialists, who elected four, against the Independent Socialists' two, meaning that the latter and their allies, the Spartacides, have definitely lost their hold on the German capital. This, however, does not preclude the possibility of some strange manifestations that may prove to tomorrow's convention that Liebknecht, Luxemburg & Co. are not dead yet.

Delegations from most of the other districts will, according to all indications, be even more anti-Spartacus than Berlin's, and most probably the vote will be for a very much earlier election to the National Convention than that fixed by the Government thus far. If one considers that on the convocation of the National Convention the Soldiers' and Workers' Councils will cease to exist, the delegates and their constituencies will certainly deserve to be commended for their patriotic attitude in voting to accelerate their own termination in office.

Councils' Odd Methods.

The agitation in nearly the whole press, with the exception of that of the Independents' and the Spartacides' organizations, against the Soldiers' and Workers' Councils is to a large extent responsible for this spirit. Doubtless most of the Councils have the best intentions, but their activity in many cases has assumed not only a grotesque but even a lawless aspect, especially so in certain suburbs of Berlin and other large cities, such as Bremen, Hamburg, Dresden, Düsseldorf, and Munich.

In Neukölln, Reinickendorf, and Mariendorf, all suburbs of Berlin, the Soldiers' and Workers' Councils, with the aid of the Spartacides, have introduced Bolshevist methods, dealing with the municipal office holders as if they were office boys, and removing them ad libituni. Neukölln has already been nicknamed New Moscow.

The Mayors and Municipal Parliaments of all three suburbs have been discharged by ukase of the Soldiers' and Workers' Council, which disputed their legality on the ground that they were elected by the old three-class ballot system. The chiefs of the Soldiers' and Workers' Councils are dividing the patronage and other spoils among themselves and their friends in true Tammany Hall fashion. Some of these new-fangled bosses delight in playing Haroun al Raschid in most unexpected ways.

Easy Route to Divorce.

A number of the soldiers who have returned from the war found their hearts changed and wanted divorces, but either could not find any court to pronounce decrees against their wives or would not even take the trouble of proceeding against them. So they called on the all-mighty Chief of the Soldiers' Council, who without ceremony cut the knots that neither priest nor Judge would untie.

But what these chiefs like best, because it increases their popularity with the people, is to descend upon the house of some unsuspecting rich hoarder and despoil his storerooms of his jams, coffee, butter, cheese, and other good things, which are then publicly sold at prices fixed by the Government, much below those of legitimate trade. In many cases, too, the spoils of such raids are simply appropriated by the raiders themselves.

These Council bosses are very jealous of each other, and delight in undoing each other's orders, creating an incredible confusion, which works havoc with industry and public affairs.

These Soldiers' and Workers' Councils, however, have some points to

Seeking Allied Views on the Full Attainment of His Ideals.

UNDECIDED AS TO BOYCOTT

But Our Delegates Are Willing to Discuss Economic Pressure on Warmakers.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—The President has been in Paris since Saturday without indicating in any authoritative way the attitude he will assume in dealing with the allied representatives on the problems relating to the negotiation of the peace treaty.

It is becoming apparent, however, from what is said by those in a position to know his mind, that he has not come to France with a hard and fast formula for the adjustment of these problems. On the contrary, his notion appears to be that no single nation will be able to determine what is best to insure future world peace.

It is no secret that fear has existed in Europe, and to some extent in America, that the President had formulated views which would not admit of compromise.

Quite the opposite seems to be true, and there is reason to believe that the representatives of the allied Governments will find him ready to understand and appreciate the considerations brought forward by them which seemingly conflict with the popular conceptions of American Governmental aspirations.

The President has come to Paris, according to reliable information, with the purpose of having a frank exchange of views with the allied plenipotentiaries—this exchange to be preliminary to any actual determination of the American program.

For example—and this cannot be too strongly emphasized—he is not inflexible in his views as to the organization of the League of Nations for the preservation of peace. His heart is set on the league project, but it is understood that he is impressed by the fact that, with a divergence of opinion among the associated nations on this subject, it may be impossible to effect an agreement which will go to the extent that some hope for it—ex-President Taft, for example.

Likely to Favor an Informal League.

In this spirit of accommodation the President may be expected to take the position that the league at the outset should be loosely formed—that is, not bound by terms which pledge its members to use armed force to discipline other members which violate the principles of the league.

He is expected to be willing to concede that it is not feasible, certainly at this time, to organize the league as a world-Government, with executive heads and judicial tribunals with power to determine what the member nations shall do to obviate war in the event of serious disputes between them.

It is understood that the views of the President do not contemplate what would amount to an offensive and defensive alliance. It is felt by the American delegation that the American people would hardly approve such arrangement and that the American Senate would decline to ratify a treaty of that character.

One gathers since the arrival of the Presidential party that a set program for the formation of a League of Nations has not been drafted by the American delegation. The members of that delegation, including the President, desire to hear the ideas of the allied representatives on the subject before reaching a determination on the course of the United States.

The matter of arrangements for the employment of an economic boycott to discipline offending members of the league is a case in point. The President and his American associates are believed not to have made up their minds as to the feasibility of such preventive means and to be more than willing to discuss the question freely with the representatives of the Allies.

What has been said indicates the frame of mind in which the President and the other American negotiators have come to France. It is true that the President has definite views as to what constitutes the freedom of the seas, and is convinced that an interpretation of the principles involved should be included in the peace treaty. It is equally true that he is inclined toward adjustments that may not dovetail with the present ideas of European allied statesmen. But that he has come to Paris in an unconciliatory spirit or without a true appreciation of the sensibilities and local problems of European Governments and peoples is far from the truth.

It may be taken for granted that he expects to meet the heads of the allied peace delegations in the friendliest spirit. Everything that is known suggests this. Taken all in all, his position, when set forth, is likely to create a favorable impression and justify hope for the continuance of a close relationship between the allied nations which will work for permanent peace.

PARIS NOW REALIZES WILSON'S SYMPATHY

Convinced by Hotel de Ville Speech That He Understands France's Sufferings.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.
Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—President Wilson today laid the foundation for cordial dealings with the French Government in his address at the Hôtel de Ville, when he spoke of the sufferings of the people of France. The whole tone of his address was in accord with the sentiments expressed here prior to the President's coming.

Press and private comment had made it evident that some nervousness was felt in all circles over the supposition that the President might not fully appreciate what France had gone through in the long years of war. This feeling was at the bottom of the general desire that the President should visit the devastated regions before entering into exchanges with the representatives of the Allies.

The President, however, has risen to the occasion, and has relieved anxiety as to his understanding of conditions in France.

Widespread sentiment exists in France in favor of punishing Germany for the wrongs committed in this country. Part of the anxiety among officials and people was due to fear that President Wilson would be inclined to an overlenient policy toward Germany. But today he said the very things that France desired to hear from his lips when he spoke, in his very first speech to the Paris public, of "the shameful ruin that was wrought and the cruel and unnecessary sufferings brought upon you."

Paris did not know the President's attitude in this connection when he rode through the streets to and from the Hôtel de Ville. The cordiality of the reception given him is all the more significant on account of that lack of knowledge.

The people of Paris are evidently determined to leave nothing undone to show their appreciation of America's effort in the war and Wilson's personal part in it. Today the spectacle was practically a repetition of Saturday's great demonstration in his honor.

How enthusiastic was the greeting the President received on Saturday is indicated by Henry White, the American Peace Commissioner and former Ambassador to France.

Wilson to Take Christmas Dinner With Our Troops; Goes to See Foch Today and Visit Marne Battlefield

PARIS, Dec. 16.—President Wilson will leave Paris Christmas Eve and go to American General Headquarters. From headquarters he will proceed to the American front. He will have Christmas dinner with the American troops, (one report says at Treves,) and not with the American Commander in Chief or other officers.

He will proceed tomorrow to Senlis, Marshal Foch's headquarters, to confer with the allied Commander in Chief. Later he will visit the battlefield of Château-Thierry, and also Rheims.

From the above it would appear that it is the purpose of President Wilson to have his Christmas dinner on German territory in the region of Coblenz, with the American forces of occupation.

PARIS HAS LEARNED HOW TO CHEER

President's Visit Gives the City Its First Peace-Time Holiday Since 1914.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—"It is far worse than when the Czar of Russia visited Paris—you would think every Parisian had determined not to rest happy until he had a close personal view of President Wilson." The speaker was a veteran gendarme attached to the force guarding the entrances of the Rue de Monceau, where Prince Murat's house is situated, from the overcurious crowds. That the job was no sinecure was clear enough.

Somehow the news had spread yesterday—as news does spread in Paris—that the President had been to church and would return at about noon. The result was an enthusiastic gathering before the police barriers—hundreds of people, quiet and well-behaved, in their Sunday clothes, but resolved not to leave the spot before the President had passed.

Suddenly a boy on the outskirts of the crowd cried: "Le voilà!" as a limousine turned the corner. Hats came off, flags and handkerchiefs were waved, and the air rang with shouts of "Vive Wilson! Vive le President!"

Smiling with unaffected pleasure, the members of the Presidential party passed through the hedge of spectators down the street, deserted save for a group of Belgian soldiers at salute and rigid gendarmes at the door of the Murat mansion.

In the courtyard American officers and a squad of soldiers were standing at attention, and in double file on the right a company of picked gendarmes, all war heroes, wearing the War Cross or Military or Colonial medals. Their commander, Captain Barthélemy, has the Legion of Honor and the War Cross with four palms, earned on the battlefield.

After a few minutes' wait, the Presidential party went out again to lunch with Colonel House. As they entered the car, the guards stood again at attention, and a drum maintained a steady rat-a-tat, like the "ruffles" of the American Navy, until the automobile had gone out of the gateway.

Not the least striking feature of the President's popularity is that Parisians have learned how to cheer in order to greet him properly.

"Ambassador Jusserand kept warning us that Parisians didn't cheer," said one of the party on the George Washington, "but so far I have seen no signs of anything wanting in that respect."

A few minutes ago, as I drove down the Rue Royale, twenty motor trucks clattered past with an enthusiastic cargo of doughboys. The crowd gave them back shout for shout, waved flag for flag. The American alliance has taught so much thoroughly.

There has been another change in the city during the last few weeks. Paris is recovering its old gayety. During the armistice celebration there were profound gladness and rejoicing, but it was too soon after the nightmare to be really lighthearted. Now, with illuminations in Wilson's honor, confetti have reappeared on the boulevards, until the pavements are covered with the bright-hued jetsam. President Wilson's visit is more than an occasion for demonstrating sympathy and gratitude toward America. It has become the first real peacetime holiday that Paris has known since August, 1914.

PRESIDENT BREAKS TWO PRECEDENTS

Pays Visit to Premier Clemenceau and Accepts Invitation to Diplomat's Dinner.

FORM CONFERENCE PLANS

Allied Premiers in Paris Soon and First Meeting May Be Held on Monday.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—Two official functions claimed the President's presence today—the formal presentation to him, by the Municipal Council at the Hôtel de Ville, of the great gold medal of the City of Paris, and his call upon Premier Clemenceau at the Ministry of War. Before the ceremony at the Hôtel de Ville, the President and Mrs. Wilson drove in an automobile to Versailles. After his return from the Ministry of War he received Premier Venizelos of Greece.

The President's journey to the War Ministry was made by way of the outer boulevards through Montmartre, the Seine being crossed by the Alexander III. Bridge. So great were the crowds that access to the inner boulevards was impossible. At the Ministry of War old Territorials, class of 1895, on the eve of being demobilized, formed the guard of honor.

President Wilson, who was accompanied only by Colonel E. M. House, arrived at the Ministry of War at 4:40 o'clock. M. Clemenceau, President of the Council and Minister of War, came with outstretched hands to the top of the wide stairs and greeted the President warmly.

Twenty Minutes with Clemenceau.

The Premier took Mr. Wilson's hand in both of his and shook it in the vigorous manner the old "Tiger" has when displaying pleasure.

"How do you do, Mr. President?" said the Premier.

"Quite well, Mr. Premier," answered Mr. Wilson.

"You are not tired?" asked M. Clemenceau.

"No, quite fit," declared the President.

Mr. Wilson was then ushered by M. Clemenceau into his private office, Colonel House remaining in the antechamber chatting with General Mordacq. President Wilson left the Ministry at 5 o'clock.

Persons connected with the American mission to the Peace Conference said today that last night's meeting of President Wilson and Premier Clemenceau was even more satisfactory than the respective intimate friends of the two statesmen had believed possible. The impression is being conveyed by American official quarters that the President and the Premier are virtually in perfect agreement on all points, and that the United States and France hold similar ideas regarding the most important questions to be discussed between the nations. The most vital points were covered in the discussion, it was intimated.

According to the Echo de Paris, however, President Wilson and Premier Clemenceau touched in only the most general manner the problems of the Peace Conference in the course of their conversation. Marcel Hutin says in that paper that Mr. Wilson was most impressed with the Premier's personality and expressed himself in the most flattering terms, remarking: "He is a most prepossessing man."

Mr. Wilson, says the same writer, accompanied the Premier to the door, shook hands long and heartily with him, and said: "Thank you, thank you. Good-bye till tomorrow."

A Meeting with Venizelos.

The meeting with the Greek Premier lasted half an hour. Like that with Premier Clemenceau, it was outside of the formal program for today and ### Paris Official Presents a Brooch to Mrs. Wilson as He Addresses the President.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—President Wilson this afternoon received at the Hôtel de Ville the greetings of the Préfect of the Seine and of the President of the Municipal Council, to which he made a speech in reply.

In the course of the ceremonies the representative of the Council presented to him the great gold medal of the City of Paris, and to Mrs. Wilson a diamond brooch.

Responding to an address by Adrien Mithouard, President of the Council, President Wilson said:

Your greeting has raised many emotions within me. It is with no ordinary sympathy that the people of the United States, for whom I have the privilege of speaking, have viewed the sufferings of the people of France. Many of our own people have been themselves witnesses of those sufferings.

We were the more deeply moved by the wrongs of the war because we knew the manner in which they were perpetrated. I beg that you will not suppose that because a wide ocean separated us in space, we were not in effect eyewitnesses of the shameful ruin that was wrought and the cruel and unnecessary sufferings that were brought upon you. These sufferings have filled our hearts with indignation. We know what they were, not only, but we know what they signified, and our hearts were touched to the quick by them, our imaginations filled with the whole picture of what France and Belgium in particular had experienced.

When the United States entered the war, therefore, they entered it not only because they were moved by a conviction that the purposes of the Central Empires were wrong and must be resisted by men everywhere who loved liberty and the right, but also because the illicit ambitions which they were entertaining and attempting to realize had led to the practices which shocked our hearts as much as they offended our principles. Our resolution was formed because we knew how profoundly great principles of right were affected, but our hearts moved also with our resolution.

You have been exceedingly generous in what you have been gracious enough to say about me—generous far beyond my personal deserts, but you have interpreted with real insight the motives and resolution of the people of the United States. Whatever influence I exercise, whatever authority I speak with, I derive from them. I know what they have thought, I know what they have desired, and when I have spoken what I know was in their minds it has been delightful to see how the consciences and purposes of freemen everywhere responded. We have merely established our right to the full fellowship of those peoples here and throughout the world who reverence the right of genuine liberty and justice.

You have made me feel very much at home here, not merely by the delightful warmth of your welcome, but also by the manner in which you have made me realize to the utmost the intimate community of thought and ideal which characterize your people and the great nation which I have the honor for the time to represent.

Your welcome to Paris I shall always remember as one of the unique and inspiring experiences of my life, and, while I feel that you are honoring the people of the United States in my person, I shall nevertheless carry away with me a very keen personal gratification in looking back upon these memorable days.

Permit me to thank you from a full heart.

In his address to President Wilson M. Mithouard said:

I have the honor, in the presence of the President of the Republic, to present to you the Municipal Council of Paris, whose interpreter I am in welcoming the chief of the great nation whose aid, arriving so opportunely, brought us victory, and the upright man whose conscience fashioned his policy and whose diplomacy was made of loyalty.

Graceful Tribute to Mrs. Wilson.

Turning to Mrs. Wilson, M. Mithouard said:

Madame, Paris is infinitely happy and is touched that you, who have accompanied the President, have been good enough to add to this occasion the charm and the grace of your presence.

We have long been aware of your devotion and the wise and beneficent activity you have shown by the side of your illustrious husband. Yet nothing touches so much the heart of the people of Paris as to be permitted to know those who have already conquered by their goodness. Thus Paris, by my voice, acclaims you, and lays at your feet, Madame, the homage of its gratitude and its respect.

Finally, speaking again to President Wilson, M. Mithouard said:

Mr. President, it is with deep emotion that the capital welcomes today the first President of the United States who has crossed the ocean, and our Hôtel de Ville, the cradle of French liberty, will mark in its annals the day on which it was permitted to receive the eminent statesman of the Union, the citizen of the world—dare we say the great European?—whose voice, heard before the coming of victory, called to life the oppressed among the nations.

During weary months our soldiers have fought with stoic resolution in defense of the soil of their forebears and the land of their children. So vast was the field of battle, so great was the issue at stake, so bitter and so hard was the struggle that only after the passage of time did it seem possible that the grandeur of their accomplishment could clearly show forth. Yet your distance from the theatre of war has allowed you to see, while yet they lived, the greatness of the monument they were building.

Praise for Our "Glorious Army."

From the other side of the world you have spoken in advance of the judgment of history. What a source of strength was it for these fighters suddenly to hear your voice, in its distant authority resembling the voice of posterity; what joy to welcome those new brothers in arms hastening with ardor to claim at the critical hour their place upon the field of battle; what comfort for them to feel that they were henceforth arrayed with the glorious army of General Pershing, the victor of the Argonne!

Thus Paris, eager to see in the flesh the man it had known only by his written word and by his image, today lives over again with poignant intensity the history of America's decision, as it was unfolded in your conscience before the eyes of the world.

Profoundly moved by the magnificent generosity with which compatriots had set themselves to relieve our sufferings, with what anxious yet confident expectation did we follow the progress of your thought and of your feelings!

Beneath the deliberately measured tone of your notes and messages we felt little the mounting of a righteous anger. What was then our dazzled admiration when there burst upon us the message of April 2, 1917, which gave to the questionings of the American conscience their supreme conclusion, and, in Pascal's words, brought together justice and force to decide for long centuries the fate of all humanity!

We are proud, Mr. President, to offer you welcome in the name of this capital.

"We Call You a Citizen of Paris."

Our country is not alone that well-loved land for whose liberation the blood of sons of the Union is mingled with that of the sons of France; our country to us means also, and by all right of heritage, justice, good sense, and honor; and because you come to us in the name of these noble things, today we dare to call you a citizen of Paris.

Take, then, Mr. President, the sincere good wishes of our city, yesterday under the menace of the Berthas and the Gothas, a citadel of the liberties of the world, but today open to all noble and generous ideas, and enthusiastically acclaiming in the great citizen she has the honor to receive the embodiment of a new ideal which comes to her.

Greeted by Prefect of the Seine.

M. Autrand, Préfect of the Seine, addressing the President, said:

Mr. President, a day memorable beyond all is that on which, for the first time, a chief of the great American Republic crosses the threshold of our Hôtel de Ville.

None among your illustrious predecessors, not even those most deeply venerated for their genius and their virtues, came to sit for an instant at the hearts of the people of Paris. Thus, in mourning the death of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, our fathers had felt deep regret that they could render but a posthumous homage to the great men who had been the object of their enthusiastic veneration.

The joy which which visit gives us is of a rare and precious sort. After an interval of four centuries, the new world again exercises upon us that same fascination which it had for the contemporaries of Christopher Columbus. Those hardy pioneers sought to penetrate the mystery of an unexplored continent. Ours have been preoccupations more serious—to seek to know, in an hour of need, what judgment America would pronounce upon our cause, to recognize the face and to understand the intimate thoughts of the man whom destiny had chosen to be the arbiter of the fate of civilization.

Today we need no longer seek to imagine your features, for we see them; nor the sound of your voice, for wear hear it. It is given to us to express in your very presence our gratitude and our admiration.

As the terrible drama has dragged its bloody way over land and sea, your generous heart has beat in unison with the misery suffered, and has taxed itself to find succor for unhappiness.

How can we count over the innumerable benefits of American charity, so vigilant, so methodical, and so wise? Through the charity, the sufferings of our prisoners have been alleviated, and the spectre of famine has been turned back from the invaded regions of Belgium and France.

Not many days since we welcomed here the American Red Cross, which in all kinds of well-doing has performed prodigies, whose work has been a spectacle without precedent in its beauty and grandeur.

We have seen the women of America enroll by millions in this army of human pity. The debt we owe them will not be wiped out by centuries of gratitude, and we how respectfully before those ladies who personify them at this moment.

"Champion of the Cause of Justice."

Yet while you have given yourself passionately to the task of assuaging the ills of war, your noblest title to glory will yet be that you stood up as the champion of the cause of justice.

How many things seemed to hold you apart from the dreadful conflict! Your intellectual training as lawyer, historian, and thinker; that peaceful life of study in which, to use your own phrase, you had known no other laboratory than the world of books; the traditions of the country which had elected you to guide and direct it; the admirable Farewell Message of Washington, warning his successors in power against any participation [in such wars] as might break out in Europe.

Well might Germany believe that you would remain the prisoner of these noble formulae. But her lawless militarism, multiplying its crimes against the rights of man, was to force the nation pre-eminently pacifist to draw the sword from the scabbard. In redoubling the blows of his arrogant sword upon the rock of your patience the barbarian called forth the devouring flame in which he has been irredeemably consumed.

When the measure of black deeds ran full, you sounded the call to arms. And by the miracle of your burning speech, by the ascendancy of your indignant conscience and your sovereign philosophy you drew one hundred millions of men to devote themselves, soul and body, to the triumph of liberty over tyranny and of justice over error and iniquity.

Today we taste the deep joy of saluting in the person of President Wilson the nation whose valiant arms have contributed so brilliantly to the most magnificent of victories. Paris feels herself drawn irresistibly toward you by the force of all her affinities and all her convictions. As a city of workers, she inclines respectfully before your life of austere labor. As a centre of intellectual life, she admires in you the sage and the thinker whose works have enriched the human spirit. As a hearth of ardent patriotism, she expresses her deep gratitude to the great friend of France. As the historic bulwark of liberty and of justice she acclaims in you the disinterested servitor of these great moral ideas, the eloquent and inflexible apostle of the rights of humanity.

The reception at the Hôtel de Ville, while not attended by the crowds which welcomed President Wilson on Saturday, was impressive. He was received by the Municipal Council at the main entrance and walked through the spacious corridors, which were tastefully decorated. More than 5,000 people were within the building, for the most part women, the male element being in a great minority. The women cheered, and the President smiled and bowed repeatedly.

After the official ceremonies, the President inspected the various departments in the Hôtel de Ville, ending finally in a small room where a buffet had been installed and refreshments were served. Several officials were presented, and many others showed eagerness to shake his hand. After a short stay the President left the building, returning to the Murat residence.

ROME'S GREETING TO WILSON.

The Messaggero Calls Him a Greater Figure Than Albert or Mercier.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Dec. 15.—"For the first time in the political history of the world the head of the great American democracy has sailed from the New Continent toward Europe to participate in the assizes of a great war and a great peace," says The Messaggero, in welcoming President Wilson to Europe. Praising the high qualities of the President, it continues:

"The King of the Belgians, Cardinal Mercier, and the heads of the allied Governments were all noble figures, but Wilson is something more—different. Therefore, the peoples of the belligerent nations have recognized in him the spirit of justice. The allied nations have adopted him. The enemy nations have had to accept his conditions. Wilson will go down in history as the author of the answers to the demand for an armistice sent to him by Germany and Austria.

"Italy desires the principles of democratic civilization to be respected; wherefore she defeated Austria. She greets Wilson with faith and sympathy, and awaits him with deep friendship."

DEFERS NAMING DELEGATES.

France Says Peace Conference Representation Is Not Yet Fixed.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—Not even the number of delegates to the peace conference has yet been fixed, says an official note issued today denying various reports as to the make-up of the French delegation. The note reads:

"Various newspapers have given the composition of the French delegation to the Peace Conference. Their information is mistaken. Even the number of delegates will not be fixed until an understanding is reached between the allied Governments, the same as for the procedure."

LIMITS BELGIAN CLAIMS.

Bill Introduced in Brussels Restricts Them to Material Losses.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 15.—The Belgian Government has submitted to Parliament a bill limiting compensation for war damages to material losses, excluding those based on moral grounds.

The Senate, in its address, replying to the speech from the throne, has declared strongly in favor of the restoration of the Duchy of Luxemburg to Belgium.

LONDON LIKES ELYSEE SPEECH

Editor Says Wilson 'Struck the Keynote of His Country's Greatness'

LONDON, Dec. 16.—President Wilson's reception in Paris is made the main feature of the day's news by London journals, which have filled their columns with detailed descriptions of the official and personal activities of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and the scenes in the Paris streets.

Editorial comment repeats British satisfaction over Mr. Wilson's arrival, and dwells on the magnitude of the event of America's participation in the politics of the Old World and the tremendous responsibility that nation has undertaken. The speeches made at the Elysée Palace when Mr. Wilson was formally welcomed to Paris are warmly commended.

President Wilson's reply to the address by President Poincaré is described as having "struck the keynote of his country's greatness in these last years."

SWEDES GREET WILSON

Labor and Liberal Parties Send Messages to Him.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 16.—Hjalmar Branting, the Socialist leader, has telegraphed to President Wilson on behalf of the Swedish Democratic Labor Party. The telegram assures Mr. Wilson of the "moral support of organized Swedish labor in his endeavors to carry out his principles for the welfare of liberated mankind against every attempt to thwart his plans."

The Swedish Liberal Party has also sent a telegram of gratitude to President Wilson.

SENATE SHIFTING TO WORLD LEAGUE

WOULD APPEAL TO NATION

Against Knox's Anti-League Resolution—Lodge's Position Misunderstood in Paris.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Ex-President William H. Taft, who is advocating without reservation the plan for a League of Nations, which President Wilson has gone to Europe to urge for adoption as one of the cardinal planks in the peace treaty, is playing a very active rôle in endeavoring to develop support in this country for the project while the President is trying to win its adoption at the Paris Conference.

The value of the aid that President Wilson is receiving from Mr. Taft was made apparent tonight when it became known that there had developed a remarkably sudden shift in alignment on the League of Nations project in the Senate. Two days ago it seemed almost certain that the Foreign Relations Committee would take favorable action on the resolution of Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, which seeks to have the Senate record itself in disapproval of the coupling of the League of Nations project with the peace treaty. The resolution aims to have the Senate declare it to be the sense of that body that the question of a League of Nations should be considered separately from the treaty.

Can't Report the Resolution.

For a time it looked as if virtually all the Republican members of the committee would support the resolution and that they would pick up enough Democratic votes in the committee to favorably report the resolution to the Senate. A careful canvass now indicates that the Republican members of the committee, as well as the Republican members of the Senate, as a whole, are split over the League of Nations project and that enough votes will be mustered in committee to prevent the reporting of the Knox resolution. The committee is to meet Wednesday, and the information tonight is that it will not report the resolution.

The shift in sentiment in the Senate has been such as to prevent action on the floor in condemnation of the program for a League of Nations. There will be speeches, among them one to be made by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, later this week, in opposition to the League of Nations project. Besides Mr. Lodge, other Senators, mainly Republicans, will speak against the scheme. But a study of the present situation indicates that the Senate will not embarrass the President to the extent of formally recording itself against the League of Nations idea, at least not while he is working for it in Europe.

Influence of Mr. Taft.

Mr. Taft is credited with being responsible in a large degree for the sudden change in the announced determination of Senate Republicans as a whole to stand behind the Knox resolution. Mr. Taft, who advocated the idea of a League of Nations even before the present war started, and who feels that, unless provision is made in the peace treaty for a League of Nations, the project may be indefinitely postponed, or absolutely lost, has figuratively rolled up his sleeves and served notice that he is prepared to go before the country in a speaking campaign in favor of the plan if Senators of his party undertake to have the Senate record itself in opposition to putting the project into the peace treaty.

The ex-President has conferred with members of the Senate and has taken the attitude in conference with members of his party that the Republicans will be playing into the hands of President Wilson and the Democratic Party in 1920 if they unite at this time in condemnation of the League of Nations idea. Mr. Taft hopes there will be no fight in the Republican Party over the League of Nations idea, but is represented by close personal friends to be of the opinion that if there must be a fight the sooner the better.

Senator Lodge in his speech this week will declare his belief that the proposed League of Nations is impracticable. There appears to be considerable misunderstanding of the attitude of Senator Lodge in Paris. One newspaper dispatch from Paris today carried the statement that "Senator Lodge's indorsement" of the League of Nations was accepted in certain quarters in Paris as showing that the entire country was behind President Wilson on the principle.

The dispatch went on to say that this understanding of the attitude of Mr. Lodge and of the nation "is having a dampening effect on certain European circles which were nourishing the belief" that Mr. Lodge and the nation were not standing behind President Wilson on the League of Nations idea. The same dispatch dealt with "twenty-one points" which some persons in Paris seem to think Senator Lodge has laid down as a basis for peace.

Based on Misapprehension.

This dispatch is based on a thorough misunderstanding, not only of Mr. Lodge's position respecting the League of Nations, but as to his ideas as to the terms on which peace should be dictated. Senator Lodge has laid down no "twenty-one points." What the dispatch evidently has allusion to is the program for peace prepared by the Executive Board of the National Committee on Patriotic Societies, which was laid before the Senate last week by Senator Lodge. This program of peace terms contained twenty-one terms suggested for adoption at Versailles and Paris. Four of the twenty-one terms dealt with questions of restitution and reparation, ten related to territorial matters, and seven were general in their nature.

Senator Lodge laid this document before the Senate only by request, and did not subscribe to the document. Senators frequently receive communications which they lay before the Senate, without committing themselves to the contents.

One of the twenty-one planks in the document laid before the Senate by Mr. Lodge suggested on behalf of the Patriotic Societies that the Peace Conference adopts this plank:

"International arbitration and League of Nations as complement of policy of national defense. The Central Powers not to be admitted into the league until full discharge of their obligations under the treaty and until they achieve permanent establishment of free institutions."

PARIS NOW REALIZES WILSON'S SYMPATHY

tions in honor of sovereigns and Presidents here since 1867," he said, "but have never witnessed anything approaching the welcome given President Wilson."

So it is apparent from the outpouring of the people that nothing has happened in the intervening days to change their heartfelt desire to show their regard and admiration for the head of the allied Republic.

Considerable curiosity was shown here before the President's coming as to the character of the reception he would receive from the population of Paris.

The American people should understand that the situation was complicated by the free circulation of gossipy stories seeking to give the impression that the allied Governments contemplated a course at the Peace Conference detrimental to the interests of the United States.

One almost gained the impression, if he was willing to swallow it, that it was being said that American participation in the conference was resented by our allies. The people of Paris showed Saturday and today that no such resentment animated them, but, on the contrary, that they were willing and anxious to make America understand their complete confidence in the unselfish attitude of their President.

That the President is here to carry out the desires of his fellow-citizens was shown by his references in the Hôtel de Ville speech to his intention to follow their wishes in bringing about a satisfactory settlement of the war.

He was evidently pleased over the expressions of appreciation in the Hôtel de Ville speeches regarding America's generosity in relieving the sufferings of France.

Altogether today's events, following those of Saturday, have served to clear the political atmosphere and create a good impression that is expected to have an excellent effect when the allied representatives get down to business.

It is obvious that differences will develop over important points of adjustment. Each nation involved has different views on certain subjects. But there seems to be a cordial desire on all sides for the continuance of close relations between the Allies in spite of the rumors referred to.

It is inconceivable that the American delegates will not take issue with any effort to turn the conference into another Congress of Vienna, with the object of dividing up Europe to gratify selfish desires not in accord with the rights of the peoples involved. Mr. Wilson on frequent occasions has shown that he was opposed to this mode of settlement.

It is understood, however, that the President and his associates are in agreement with Senator Lodge in the greater number of the twenty-one principles suggested for a peace settlement.

More detailed information is desired here before the American delegation can say judgment as to how far they are willing to accept the principles, stated by him, which seem to conflict with the views of the delegation.

[Paris evidently has a mistaken report that the twenty-one principles so-called were Senator Lodge's own suggestions, whereas they were only presented by him to the Senate last week as the ideas of the National Committee of Patriotic Societies.]

The American delegates may not agree to demand that the Central Powers bear the entire cost of the war, and that their public and private resources be controlled by the Allies until the obligations are discharged. The attitude of the United States in this connection will be developed as the conference progresses, but it may be said that the understanding prevails in American circles here that the American delegation is not so far apart from Premier Lloyd George in his demand that Germany and her partners meet the costs to which the Allies were subjected during the period of hostilities, as might be supposed.

The American delegation also questions the wisdom of the demand for the control of Russia. If this means that the Allies shall take military possession of Russia President Wilson and his associates will not be favorable to it.

Again the proposal for control of the raw material of the world by the Allies until the Central Powers are admitted to the League of Nations will probably bring opposition from the American delegation. They feel, it is understood, that it is unwise to exercise such control in an arbitrary way, although it is evident that they are willing to discuss this matter in conference in the friendliest spirit.

International arbitration of disputes between nations, as suggested, is quite satisfactory to American plenipotentiaries, according to best information, but preference seems to be to continue The Hague tribunal for this purpose instead of setting up elaborate judicial machinery in connection with the league organization.

The President and his colleagues are understood to be in agreement that a world government of an elaborate character is not feasible at this time, and their attitude will be in the direction of the simplest organization as a beginning of the league project.

constituted a part of the intimate personal exchanges by which the President is obtaining the views of the European statesmen and they are obtaining his.

President Wilson passed the early forenoon indoors, reading a large number of letters. He then went by automobile on a visit to Versailles, where the final meeting of the Peace Conference will be held, going by way of the Bois de Boulogne. He was accompanied by Mrs. Wilson.

President Wilson broke a tradition today when he made his call at the Ministry of War. He decided also to accept the dinner invitations of foreign Ambassadors, his first acceptance being of the invitation extended by the Earl of Derby, the British Ambassador to France.

The visit of the head of a foreign nation to the Ministry and his acceptance of the hospitality of foreign Ambassadors are not strictly in accordance with custom, but President Wilson felt that the opportunities thus afforded of getting into personal contact justified him in disregarding the traditions.

Grew to Send Mission Bulletins.

During the intervals between official calls and visits today, the President was engaged in affairs of state much after the manner of his procedure in the White House offices. He did considerable business over the telephone, just as at home.

He has been insisting that the American peace mission organize its machinery so that the people in the United States can begin to know what is happening. Meanwhile the mission is trying to get itself settled so as to begin preliminary work.

Joseph C. Grew, formerly counselor of the American Embassy in Vienna, will take charge of the official announcements which will be ordinarily transmitted to the United States. He will have as assistants Ray Stannard Baker and Maximilian Foster.

It is now apparent that the President's visit to Italy will be postponed until the middle or the latter part of January, as his time meanwhile will be fully occupied in meeting the political leaders coming from various points, in attending the opening sessions of the Inter-Allied Conference and the Peace Congress, in visits to the American front and the French and Belgian devastated regions, and probably a visit to Brussels and King Albert.

The President will be back in Paris in the early days of January, when the preliminaries are likely to be so far advanced as to permit of the opening of the Peace Congress about Jan. 6. The exact time, however, is of course subject to the pleasure of the Inter-Allied Conference when it assembles to complete the details of the program.

It is evident, however, that the President's time will be so greatly occupied that the visit to Italy, which was at first expected to be made in the latter part of December, cannot take place before the middle of January or later.

The President will not be present at the Paris fêtes in honor of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, who arrives on Thursday, according to the Echo de Paris, but it is probable that he and the King will exchange calls.

President Wilson will attend a meeting of the French Academy on Thursday, and a reception will be accorded him by the members, according to newspaper announcements.

On Thursday, also, he will attend a reception given in his honor by the France-America Committee. He will give a banquet to President Poincaré and eminent politicians and diplomats on Saturday evening. Covers will be laid for seventy.

Interallied Conference on Monday.

The arrival of the various officials to meet President Wilson has now been arranged for. The Italian Premier, Vittorio Orlando, and Foreign Minister Sonnino will reach here on Thursday. The British Prime Minister, David Lloyd George, and A. J. Balfour, Foreign Secretary, will probably reach Paris Saturday or Sunday. With Premier Clemenceau, the presence of these delegates will permit of discussions between the four leading powers—Great Britain, France, the United States, and Italy.

The Interallied Conference will probably assemble next Monday, but the sessions will be brief, not exceeding two days. The first meeting will probably be held at the Ministry of War, and will give President Wilson his first opportunity to meet the delegates around the conference table. After two days the leaders will separate for the holidays.

MILLION OF OUR MEN DEBARKED AT BREST

301 CONVOYS IN 304 DAYS

American Officers Think That with Two Exceptions None Was Seen by a U-Boat.

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—Visitors to Brest had an opportunity to see something of the work of the American Navy, of which that port is the headquarters. It constitutes one of the most brilliant chapters in the American performance. From Jan. 1 to the signing of the armistice, an average of about one convoy a day was brought into Brest. To be exact, there were 301 convoys in 304 days. These convoys were all troops and stores. More than 1,000,000 men were brought in, not counting those aboard ships coming via England.

Not a single passenger was lost. No incoming ship with troops on board was torpedoed. It is confidently believed by the navy officers at Brest that with two exceptions no German submarine ever saw one of our convoys. These marvelous results under Admiral Wilson's management were not obtained through good luck, but were achieved by thorough organization and keen hard work.

If the details are ever printed, they will prove perhaps the most interesting reading of the whole war. The traditional efficiency of the American Navy probably reached a maximum in the Brest operations. Our officers and men there worked most harmoniously with the French, and Admiral Wilson is probably the most popular man in Brest, although he has used his authority firmly in regulating the port and town. The personnel under his command numbered 7,480 men and 600 officers. A large number of these Americans have come into contact with Brest, and aroused among the people there a new hope and spirit. This influence will figure largely in the future development of this wonderful natural port.

Solf's Resignation Accepted.

BERNE, Dec. 16.—A dispatch received here from Berlin says that the resignation of Dr. W. S. Solf as German Secretary of Foreign Affairs has been accepted.

POPE MAY END SECLUSION.

Renewed Report That He Will Leave the Vatican Limits.

ROME, Dec. 14.—That Pope Benedict is prepared to abandon a custom of nearly half a century and no longer consider himself bound to remain within the grounds of the Vatican is the firm belief in several circles here.

Many incidents recently have led public opinion toward this belief. No Pontiff has left the Vatican since 1871, as a protest against the occupation of Rome by the Italian Government.

Reports that the Pope would leave the Vatican grounds have appeared many times since he lost his temporal power. In the reign of Pope Benedict the question was brought up first in June last, when the Vatican issued a denial of a report in Spanish newspapers that the Pope would leave Rome for Spain.

TELLS HOW KAISER DECIDED TO QUIT

GENERALS URGED THE STEP

Told Him Soldiers Would Not Fire on Comrades—Ruler Hesitated to Flee.

By LEONARD SPRAY.

Copyright 1918, by The New York Times Company
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROTTERDAM, Dec. 15.—A personage in the entourage of William II. has communicated the following particulars of what took place at Spa immediately before the Kaiser's flight to Holland.

On Nov. 8 the Kaiser was still saying: "I do not think of abdicating. I ask every officer to resist to the end, and as the highest War Lord I must hold out also. The crassest Bolshevism will break over Germany if I go, and there must be a strong hand to save her from chaos."

On Nov. 9, in the forenoon, long discussions took place. One of the first to appear in the imperial villa of Frainеuse was Hindenburg. After his first audience with the Kaiser he had a lengthy discussion with high staff officers of the several armies, each of which had been ordered to send five or six representatives to headquarters. Each officer stated in writing his views of the loyalty of his troops.

At a second audience, at 1 o'clock, at the Villa of Frainеuse, Hindenburg laid before the Kaiser the verdict of the officers, which was almost unanimous that the troops were no longer to be depended on against the enemy, but would not fight against their comrades.

Berlin Anticipated Abdication.

Meantime, urgent telephone messages were arriving from Berlin that the Kaiser must abdicate, and others asking whether he had already abdicated. More discussion followed, and as a result the answer to Berlin was formulated. The Kaiser abdicated as German Emperor, but not as King of Prussia. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when this reply was communicated to Berlin, there came an answer back:

"It is too late. We have already published news of the abdication."

The Crown Prince arrived about noon, at Spa, and returned about 3 o'clock to his army. The Kaiser said to him as he took leave:

"Tell the troops it is not true that I have abdicated as King of Prussia."

Later Hindenburg came with Gröner and Hintz, and shortly afterward Admiral Scheer arrived. Representations were then made to the Kaiser in favor of renouncing also the Prussian throne. When he left the audience chamber he said to Graf Dohna Schlodien, who was waiting in the anteroom:

"You have no longer a Highest War Lord."

Then he went at once to his workroom.

"Ashamed" at First to Flee.

In the evening one of the members of his nearest circle came to persuade him to go to Holland. The Kaiser refused. Later the same evening he remarked: "They want me to flee, but I will not go;" and still later he said to his Adjutant:

"I am so fearfully ashamed I cannot do it; I cannot go away. If there be but one faithful battalion here I will remain at Spa."

In the court train where he dined came one Job's comforter after another. One brought reports that the Bolsheviki were in Herbesthal; another that returning troops were threatening Spa. The Kaiser still would not consent to go, but he agreed to preparations being made. He remarked to those about him:

"I have always known what to do, but now I cannot help myself."

One of his Adjutants was asked by the Kaiser to give his view, and replied:

"If I personally had to decide, I would remain; for if the troops will not defend your Majesty, then we can form a bodyguard of officers and we can occupy all the posts."

At 10 o'clock in the evening Hintze, representing the Foreign Office, urged the Kaiser's departure.

"Once more, your Majesty," he said; "in a few hours it may be too late."

He referred to the disquieting reports from various towns.

Said He Wanted to Hasten Peace.

At last the Kaiser took the momentous decision. At first Castle Brühl, near Cologne, had been thought of as a place of sojourn, and there was also a question of the Kaiser joining the Crown Prince with his army. But the roads were no longer open to Brühl, and reports were brought that the roads to the Crown Prince's army were not safe. The narrator says that the Kaiser had considered the probability that the Entente would never conclude peace with him, and declared finally:

"I will go to Holland to make it easy for my people to obtain peace. If I went to Germany it might be assumed that I wished to form a new party to make a rising in my favor."

He also expressed the view that from the moment he laid down the position of the Highest War Lord he was without power of command. He was purely a private person, and as the troops would not fight against their advancing comrades he felt that the army had abandoned him, and thus the possible reproach that he had abandoned the army fell to the ground. Moreover, he felt released from the duty of taking political decisions for the empire, since the Government of its own powers had published his abdication.

PRINCE REJECTED AS PRIVATE.

Kaiser's Son Offered to Serve in the German Army Ranks.

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 16.—The former German Crown Prince at the outbreak of the revolution asked that he be allowed to remain with his army as a General, but his request was refused, according to the Deutsche Zeitung of Berlin. He then offered to remain as a common soldier, but this also was rejected.

After he had been forbidden to join his family as a civilian, the paper adds, he decided to go to Holland.

SAYS BERLIN IS TERRORIZED.

French Observer States That New Government Is Powerless.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—The Berlin Central Government is powerless to preserve order and deserters from the army terrorize the inhabitants, according to a correspondent of the Journal who has returned from a hurried visit to Berlin.

Robberies and attacks follow one another rapidly, he says, and apartments and shops are robbed in midday. Committees of all kinds publish contradictory orders and practice blackmail.

Red flags are flying all over the city, the correspondent states, and business is going on as usual. The theatres are open and the restaurants are crowded. The population is well dressed but in artificial materials.

There is a scarcity of bread, butter, milk, and potatoes. Speculators are reported to be holding their reserves of foodstuffs. An ordinary meal costs 25 to 30 marks and an order of soup costs 3 marks.

Berlin is dark at night and prowlers occupy the streets. The Red Guards on patrol arrest all loiterers after 10 P. M.

The extremist faction's power will be of short duration, the Journal correspondent believes, because it has not succeeded in obtaining control of the large sums of money which are still in the possession of the bankers and the merchants. The workmen's councils distribute indemnities and are emptying the public treasuries. The correspondent thinks that a republic will finally be established.

The correspondent visited the cellars of the imperial palace and saw the huge stores of provisions kept there while the people suffered from hunger.

ADMITS GERMAN PROPAGANDA.

Meyrowitz Sent to Ellis Island for Further Investigation.

Arthur Meyrowitz, 39 years old and living at the Hotel Majestic, was arrested yesterday by Henry Newman, an agent of the New York Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, on the charge of being a German propagandist. When questioned by Chief De Woody, Meyrowitz admitted the charge, and was sent to Ellis Island to be held for further examination.

Meyrowitz said he was in charge of the Jewish Emigration Bureau of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company in Berlin and Hamburg when he was selected by the German Foreign Office to assist Dr. Isaac Straus, head of the German propaganda among the Jews in this country. He and Straus were to promise the Jews that if Germany won she would give special concessions to Jews in conquered territory in Russia and Poland.

Dr. Straus is now interned at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. Shortly after he arrived in this country he started a publication called The American Jewish Chronicle. Then he bought two chemical plants in Brooklyn, obtained an army contract or two for making gas masks, and then sent the formula for making the masks to the German Foreign Office.

BRATIANO TO FORM CABINET

New Rumanian Ministry to be a Coalition One.

SALONIKI, Dec. 16, (Havas.)—A wireless dispatch received here from Jassy, Rumania, says King Ferdinand has requested M. Bratiano, former Premier, to form a national ministry.

The dispatch adds that it is reported M. Bratiano will form a coalition Cabinet with the support of the Conservative Party.

ENRIGHT GIFT VOLUNTARY.

No Assessment on Police for Commissioner's Wedding Present.

Acting Police Commissioner John E. Leach admitted yesterday that Police Inspectors and Captains were collecting among the members of the Department for a wedding present to be given to Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright on his return this week from the South. He said that no assessments were being made and that all contributions were voluntary.

Speaking of the report that the Police Captains had already contributed $1,200, he said:

"I shouldn't be surprised. You see there are ninety-seven Captains, and that would only make an average of something over $10 apiece. It is well known that Commissioner Enright has done a great deal for the Lieutenants' Association in past years, and it is only natural for the men to express their appreciation of his efforts by giving something toward a wedding present."

Arrangements have already been made to meet the Commissioner on his return from Cuba. The police boat, Patrol, will steam down the bay to greet the ship, accompanied by the police band and Glee Club.

POLITICAL LEADERS SEIZED IN LISBON

Chief of Republican Party Is Among Those Held in Connection with Paes's Murder.

CAPITAL GREATLY EXCITED

Several Letters Compromising High Personages Found on Body of President's Assassin.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LISBON, Dec. 16.—Following the murder late on Saturday night of President Sidonio Paes, numerous arrests have been made, among those seized being Margalhaes Lima. Several letters compromising high personages were found on the body of the assassin.

The President was at the Rocio Station to take a train to Oporto and was talking to several of his Ministers when he was attacked by a young man, who fired several shots at him, wounding him in the head. Dr. Paes raised his hands to his head and fell into the arms of the Ministers. Secret Service men surrounding the President killed the assassin.

President Paes was hurried to the San José Hospital, where he died in five minutes. The body was embalmed and later removed to the Belen Palace, where it will lie in state in the Louis XV. room until next Saturday, when the burial will take place. Today large crowds filed past the catafalque, among them the Ambassadors of Spain and Italy.

The Government has issued a proclamation appealing to the patriotism of the people to maintain law and order in the interest of the national defense. Parliament has been summoned to meet today, and will decide whether the new President shall be elected by direct vote of the people, as Dr. Paes ordered after the successful revolution of last year, or by Parliament, as provided by the Constitution.

A resolution will be introduced by the Government restoring application of the death penalty.

LISBON, Dec. 13, (Havas.)—Dr. Brito Camacho, leader of the Unionist group in the Portuguese Chamber of Deputies, and Magalhaes Lima, leader of the Republican Party, have been arrested. Magalhaes Lima was taken into custody because, it is alleged, a letter addressed to him was found on the person of the assassin of President Paes.

The body of Dr. Paes was taken today to the Belen Palace to await the funeral to the Belam Palace to await the funeral ceremonies. Meanwhile the Government is continuing in office under Ossorio Castro, Minister of Justice, while both Chambers of Parliament have been summoned to discuss the question of a successor to the Presidency.

The whole capital was in mourning today, with a deep undercurrent of excitement among military and civilians who are organizing parades in which the marchers call for vengeance for the crime. The Government has issued an appeal to all officials, asking them to do everything possible to preserve order.

At the time President Paes's murderer was killed by the crowd, another man, suspected of complicity in the crime, was arrested. He wore a black cloak peculiar to the inhabitants of the Province of Alemtejo. He had a revolver in his pocket. He asked the police to save him from being lynched because he had important revelations to make.

The police authorities suspect that the crime was planned by the League of Republican Youths. Union labor leaders have been placed under protection by the police.

BERGER EDITORIALS AGAINST WAR READ

Ex-Managing Editor of Congressman-Elect's Paper Tells How He Quit for Principle.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—In the trial of Victor L. Berger and other Socialist leaders facing charges of sedition and disloyalty in Federal Judge Landis's court today the Government unloosed its guns against the Congressman-elect, presenting the files of his newspaper, The Milwaukee Leader, and showing anti-war and pro-German editorials to have been printed long after this nation went to war with Germany.

The paper's former managing editor, Edward G. Harris, testified that he resigned in June, 1917, because he did not agree with the war attitude Berger had assumed. He said he was one of the signers of a protest petition against the paper's reprinting the notorious "St. Louis Platform and War Program" which has been disavowed by a considerable part of the Socialist Party.

"Mr. Berger told me," Harris said, "Never to permit the words Hun or Boche in the paper. At the time he engaged me he told me that he had found fault with my two predecessors because they were strongly pro-English and that he was afraid to trust them for fear things would get in the head lines, in particular, which were offensive to German friends of the paper.

"I was given definite instructions that the Berlin dispatch on the war was always to be used as the lead of the war story. I carried this out up until the time I left. Berger told me on one occasion that the United Press wasn't dependable because it was pro-British. It is true, though, that he did not suppress the Paris and London dispatches."

United States Attorney Clyne and his First Assistant, Joseph B. Fleming, read editorials printed in the Berger paper opposing the draft law, viciously attacking the Government's statement that it was a "war for democracy," and belittling the motives which prompted this country to accept Germany's challenge. One editorial stated:

"The French people are not fighting for democracy any more than are the Madagascar negroes. France has been preparing for this war since 1871. She had entered into a contract with Russia and later England joined in. Now this great 'sister republic' is to get into the war because Wall Street and the Morgans want it. This war is a hypocrisy."

The Leader also published a cartoon headed "The Snake in the Grass," the "snake" being labeled "The Espionage Bill."

An editorial told of the "so-called 1917 Liberty Loan" having "tough sledding," and said that "it is a dollar war, and people don't like the taste or smell of it."

The Young People's Socialist League also came in for more limelight. Letters written by William F. Kruse, National Secretary, advising members as to the attitude they should assume towards the Conscription act, along with a formal resolution of the organization on the subject, went into the evidence.

The Government expects to finish the presentation of its evidence by Wednesday. Seymour Stedman, chief of counsel for the defendants, said the evidence of the defense would "probably be finished by Christmas."

CZECHS OCCUPY TWO TOWNS

Raise Flag and Cut Wire Communications in German Bohemia.

MUNICH, Dec. 14, (Associated Press.)—Czechoslovak troops have occupied the towns of Tetschen and Bodenbach, in German Bohemia, south of the German border, have raised their flag, and cut telephonic and telegraphic communication, according to reports received here. German Bohemians fear that the step was taken to prevent them from voting in the coming German-Austrian elections.

Speaking at Innsbruck, Premier Kramarz of Bohemia explained that the occupation of towns in German Bohemia had been undertaken for three reasons. The first and chief reason was that the Czech minority in German Bohemia was living in fear of being terrorized and oppressed by the German majority. The other reasons were that smuggling had been going on between German Austria and German Bohemia, and that it had been planned to occupy the region with Austro-German troops sent from Vienna.

The Mayor of Tetschen has lodged a protest with the Czechoslovak Government.

URGES HARBOR MEN TO SETTLE DISPUTE

Shipping Board Warns That Strike Would Be Serious for Our Army Abroad.

APPEALS TO THE OPERATORS

Public Here and the Hungry Peoples of Our Allies Would Also Suffer by Tieup.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—With a warning that a tieup of shipping in New York Harbor would result in grave consequences, not only for the public, but also for the American and Allied Governments, the United States Shipping Board tonight issued an appeal for a settlement of the threatened harbor strike through arbitration of the eight-hour day issue and other questions involved in the situation.

The board disclaims any intention to dictate to the operators the form of arbitration, but says some for mshould be mutually agreed upon. The New York Harbor Wage Adjustment Board, the board provided for in the agreement of Dec. 11, and the board proposed by the operators or the National War Labor Board are all suggested. It understands that the operators are willing to submit the wage dispute to arbitration, but not the question of an eight-hour day.

"There are still in the American armies in Europe over a million and a half men," says the statement, "and it is inconceivable that the American people or its Government would permit of any action which would imperil the movement of food and supplies to these Americans, now that their actual task of fighting is over. In addition to the maintaining of our own armies, there is the obligation to feed and clothe the peoples of our allies in Europe, in a large measure impoverished and destitute because of their long resistance to the German power.

"There is also the nation's obligation to its citizens to bring back to America as rapidly as circumstances will allow, hundreds of thousands of American troops awaiting transportation on the other side. In the performance of all of these tasks the Government would find itself seriously crippled by reason of any stoppage of work on the part of the harbor craft operators and employes in New York harbor."

The board says it does not believe that the operators of harbor craft will decline to arbitrate any differences with their men at the present critical time, thereby receding from their own patriotic attitude during the period of actual warfare.

"The employes," it says, "have indicated their willingness to carry out such a plan. Failure on the part of the harbor boat operators to join in such an agreement places the gravest responsibility upon them. Accordingly the Shipping Board now calls upon all of the operators involved in this controversy to submit all pending issues with their employes to an agency of arbitration."

INVESTIGATE RESERVE ROW.

Resignation of War Police Follows Court-Martial of Captain.

The Wartime Police Reserves, attached to the Simpson Street Station, Bronx, who were reported to have resigned in a body on Sunday night, may not be permitted to withdraw without a hearing concerning the motive. At the office of the reserves at Police Headquarters it was said yesterday that an investigation would be ordered immediately. On Dec. 6 Captain Arthur C. Clark of 1,375 Prospect Avenue, Bronx, commander of the Simpson Street Station Reserves, was tried for insubordination, and the court-martial recommended that he be dismissed from the service.

The recommendation of the court-martial has not been passed upon by Special Deputy Commissioner Wanamaker, Commander of the Reserves. It was said that the insubordination consisted in failure to carry out orders relative to assigning men for the recent Liberty Loan drive.

WANTS PERU'S DISPUTE SETTLED IN VERSAILLES

President of Senate at Lima Says Tacna-Arica Plebiscite Is Impracticable.

LIMA, Dec. 16.—Joaquin Miro Quesada, President of the Peruvian Senate, in a statement today in connection with the controversy between Peru and Chile, said:

"The fulfillment of the conditions of the Ancon Treaty today is impossible, especially regarding a plebiscite, as a majority of Peruvian residents in the captured provinces have been expelled. If the Tacna-Arica question is not settled at the Peace Conference in Versailles there will never be an American peace."

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—President Wilson's offer to mediate between Chile and Peru was received with acclamation in South American circles in London, where there is little expectation that the differences between the two republics will develop into actual hostilities. It is, however, feared that unless the root of the trouble be extirpated by a complete settlement of the long standing Tacna-Arica question, the dangers of friction will always remain, and it is believed that President Wilson's mediation in the existing circumstances will have to be followed by arbitration.

There is a belief in some circles that Wilson's mediation will develop the suggestion that Great Britain be invited by Peru and Chile to act as arbitrator. It is thought that were the United States to undertake arbitration herself, she would be under the disadvantage of having, in the event of either party seeking to evade the terms of the award, to insure the execution of hr own decree.

According to a dispatch from Buenos Aires, Dec. 7, the American Ambassador, acting on President Wilson's instructions, informed Argentina that the United States would intervene in the Tacna-Arica controversy with any South American Republic, and President Wilson invited Argentina to accept this task. The dispatch added that President Irigoyen accepted the invitation.

TELLS OF NEW AIR SERVICE.

Lipsner Says Syndicate Will Open Passenger and Express Lines.

Captain Benjamin B. Lipsner, who resigned recently as Superintendent of the aerial mail service, announced last night that a syndicate had been formed to begin on May 15 permanent aerial passenger and express lines. He would not say who were interested in the syndicate beyond the fact that five men had contributed the capital—two of New York and three of Chicago—and that incorporation had been asked for under the laws of Michigan.

In discussing his announcement Captain Lipsner said that it would be impossible to name the cities between which the flights would be made, because an endeavor was being made just now to get the necessary rights in some of them.

SOVIET LEADERS GATHER IN BERLIN

their credit, which accounts for the Government having tolerated them so far. They exert a certain authority over elements that otherwise, in these revolutionary times, would probably prove absolutely ungovernable. Besides, they are the only effective agency for propagating the revolution in regiments returning from the front which are still possessed of the old military spirit, and, what is even more, they are the sworn enemies of any reactionary activity among the officers and the Junkers.

Army Officers Repressed.

There have been a great many cases recently in which officers have tried to bully their men into the old state of pre-revolutionary submission which had nothing in common with discipline, and they might have succeeded if the Soldiers' Councils had not been interested. Many officers who have recently returned have been unable to realize the change that has taken place, and refuse to take the consequences. They evidently still cherish the fond hope that things will change again, and they would gladly help them change, to which end they wish to preserve the old relations between officers and men.

Such cases are too numerous to recount here, but the officers figuring in them invariably bear the names of now hated junker families. Yesterday one attempted to imitate the example of Martin, Matuschka, and Rheinbaben, which led to the bloody riots of Dec. 6. An officer of a detachment quartered in the university was called late last night by telephone to proceed with his men to the nearby royal castle to suppress a revolt among the sailors guarding it. There might have been another even more sanguinary encounter had not People's Commmissioner Barth appeared at the university in the nick of time to prevent it.

Investigation proved that the officer in the university had supposedly received his orders by telephone from the headquarters of the chief commander of the Berlin garrison. The chief commander declared that no such orders had been issued from his headquarters. Thanks to an untiring search by the Soldiers' Council, the culprit seems already to have been discovered in the person of a young officer, a supposed friend of Matuschka.

Wanted American Troops.

The researches of the Soldiers' Council, too, led to the discovery of a plot by young aristocratic students who planned to send a delegation consisting of the two brothers von Heckendorf to Cologne to request the American commander there immediately to send American troops to Berlin, as the authorities here were declared to be unable to keep order.

The anti-Semitic movement, too, has been traced to Junker officers by the Soldiers' Council, which only yesterday excluded one popular member named Ströbel from its Executive Committee for aiding that movement by publishing a provocatory signed article in the Deutsche Tageszeitung. Likewise the circulation of millions of handbills inciting Jew-baiting has been traced to the machinations of irresponsible Junkers and officers wishing to create confusion and trouble for the People's Commissioners' Government. The Government has warned the originators of these handbills that they will be severely punished.

Some of the papers today advise the Berlin Council to inspire the local Soldiers' Council at Potsdam with a little more revolutionary spirit. The officers of the Guard regiments there are pretending still to live in pre-revolutionary times. The other day they ordered a certain regiment to do royal honors to Prince Joachim, the ex-Kaiser's youngest son. Prince Eitel Friedrich's home is rapidly becoming the centre of all uniformed gentry whose names end with "in," "itz," and "ow."

Joffe Succeeds in Returning.

It will be remembered that the Berlin Soldiers' and Workers' Councils' Executive Committee about a week ago, in a state of absentmindedness, replied in a friendly tone to a Russian wireless message suggesting that Joffe participate in tomorrow's congress as Russia's representative. Joffe took this for an invitation, though it was afterward made clear that such had not been intended.

Nevertheless, Joffe journeyed to the Russo-German frontier, trying vainly to cross it at several points. At each point the local Soldiers' Council turned him back. According to a Breslau telegram, however, Joffe succeeded last night in crossing into German territory, having bribed members of one local Council with a large sum of money, and, disguised and aided by Liebknecht's adherents, is now on his way to Berlin.

Count zu Reventlow publishes an article in the Deutsche Tageszeitung hinting at the necessity of improving the relations between Germany and America, because of Franco-British intimacy with Japan. The article closes:

"The German people in their present position will find no price too high which the United States might demand for a positive relation."

Strikes in German Mines.

Dec. 14—There is danger of a general strike in the coal mines of the Ruhr district, unless the Government finds a way to prevent it.

A strike started at Thyssen's mine, the "Deutscher Kaiser," on Dec. 12, when 5,000 men laid down their tools. Since that time half a dozen other mines have become affected, 50,000 more men striking.

Instead of an eight-hour day the miners demand a seven-hour shift and 20 marks per day besides extra compensation of 1,000 marks for every man who has been working underground for four years. In some cases they threatened the destruction of the mines and buildings unless their demands are granted.

The local Soldiers' Councils are protecting the mines against riots, but they sympathize with the strikers and may go over at any time.

Near Beuthen, in Upper Silesia, Russian prisoners who were working in the mine struck. They tried to overwhelm the German guards. The latter at first fired blank cartridges. This having no effect they fired bullets, which killed nine and wounded seven Russians, whereupon the latter resumed work.

Krupps to Cut Down Force.

The Krupps have notified their workers that many foremen and most of the 200,000 workers employed there must be dimissed, as there is only work for about 12,000 men. At present the Krupps are having 2,000,000 marks wages daily for unproductive work or no work at all, and when the capital of the firm is used up there will be nothing left but stone walls, scrap iron, and débris.

Vorwärts, commenting on this news from Essen, says that the Government must at once undertake public works that will keep the great plants going.

Reports from Hamburg tell of a Council of Seamen formed there for the protection of all seafaring men. This council declares itself a legal body which must be consulted on all questions concerning the merchant marine, marine courts, and shipowners. The owners are expected to pay the council's expenses which threatens to sink all merchantmen unless its demands are granted.

The Berliner Tageblatt and the Vossiche Zeitung appeared again this morning, and Wertheim's department store reopened. In all cases the strikers at these establishments got what they asked. The employes of the Tietz, Jandorff, and other department stores threaten to strike unless similar concessions are granted to them.

WAR SHOCKED DUCHESS.

Anastasie Deplores Germany's "Great Blunder" in Entering It.

GENEVA, Dec. 15, (Associated Press.)—Germany made a great blunder in entering the war and should admit that she was in the wrong, said the Grand Duchess Anastasie of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, mother of the former German Crown Princess, in an interview today.

The Grand Ducness, who is a Russian and a cousin of the late Czar, came to Geneva at the outbreak of the war, and is now about to go to the Riviera for her health. She had many relatives fighting against one another on all fronts.

The correspondent was the first newspaper man to whom she had talked since the beginning of the war. Replying to a question about the former Emperor and the former Crown Prince, she said pathetically:

"There is a splendid maxim in your language: 'Don't hit a man when he is down.' Let us observe this principle, this sporting principle, during our conversation."

Asked why she had left Germany as soon as that country began military operations, the Grand Duchess replied:

"I could not remain in a country which had declared war on my own country—Russia. This war came as a great surprise to me and my son, (Friedrich Franz IV., Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, who abdicated several weeks ago,) although we were in constant touch with the royal families of Germany, Russia, and Denmark.

"It has been said that not more than twenty persons in Germany understood what a cruel mistake it was going to be. I was one of them. However, as I never meddled in politics and never intended to do so, I was not able to interfere.

"But I continue to think that Germany made a great blunder in entering this terrible struggle, not only from a humane point of view, but also for political and commercial reasons, as her commerce was prosperous. Now she has lost all. Germany should recreate a political, financial, and artistic nation by openly admitting:

"'We acted wrongly; we are sorry.'"

The Grand Duchess said she had had no news from her daughter, the former Crown Princess, since September, except through a letter from her eldest daughter, the Queen of Denmark, saying that both of them were well. She made an appeal for help for the country of her birth, saying:

"If the Allies abandon Russia, Russia is lost. The Allies do not seem to understand the situation clearly. About 78 per cent. of the Russians have respect for only two things, God and the Czar. The peasants now say: 'We have no Czar, whom shall we obey?'

"It will take the population fifty years to understand the meaning of the words 'republic' and 'President.' The Russian people want some one to worship because it is their old custom, their religion, and their lives. Let the Allies take note and help poor Russia before it is too late."

JEWISH WAR DRIVE NEARER THE GOAL

At Close of Day's Work $1,000,000 Is Still Needed to Complete $5,000,000 Quota.

MAKE MANY SMALL GIFTS

Bronx Team Raises $9,000 in Nickels and Dimes and Deaf Mutes Institute Gives $78.32.

There was a speeding up yesterday of team work in the $5,000,000 Jewish War Relief drive, and though no totals were given out for the day, it was said that there was still more than $1,000,000 needed. At the afternoon meeting in the Biltmore Hotel a letter was read from Vice President Marshall expressing warm appreciation for what the Jews have done. Mr. Marshall wrote:

It is a source of great regret that a prior engagement prevents me from personally greeting you and urging, in as emphatic manner as possible, not only your sympathy, but your generous financial aid for the fine humanitarian idea embraced in this Jewish war drive. If America stands for anything greater than the fatherland of God and the brotherhood of mankind, I have not yet found it out.

We have made this fight of ours not only that all the traditions of the Republic may be preserved, but that we may lend a helping hand to every suffering, sighing son of God the world around. Among them none have suffered longer, nor appealed to us greater, than the persecuted Jew. Proved by your works, your protestations of brotherhood are not mere lip service.

One of the best reports received came from the Lamport-Weinstein team in the Bronx with a total of nearly $9,000 contributed in nickels and dimes. The largest single sum was $100. Jesse Winburn, reporting for the advertising interests, announced that contributions continue to flow in generously. Among them were Barron G. Collier, $1,000; O. J. Gude, $100, and George Batten, $250.

The children of the Deaf Mutes Institute brought in a total contribution of $78.32, while Gene Ulmann sent $16 worth of 25-cent thrift stamps contributed by children that she knows. W. Bloomenstein also contributed $2 for his two children, while the Young Israel Synagogue, as the result of several collections, contributed $5,000 in addition to previous subscriptions. The Rabbi Joseph School sent a contribution of $2,000 collected in small amounts. The boys of the Brooklyn Navy Yard contributed $26.65 in small amounts.

The Onward Club, which has a membership of about twenty young men, who meet in the Henry Street Settlement, responded to an appeal by one of the members on Sunday night by giving $25 to the Jewish War Relief Fund.

This cable message from Vladivostok, addressed to Nathan Straus, was received yesterday:

As representatives of the Adath B'nai Israel of Vladivostok, we are particularly pleased to be able to express our heartiest thanks to you, whom we esteem so highly, for your contribution of $5,000 to be devoted in aid of the orphaned children of our Jewish wanderers whose parents were removed by the sword in consequence of the war. When our brethren are forced to leave their peaceful homes and wander wherever the winds drive them, may that philanthropic heart and good soul which rests in you stand out for all the generations as a sign and sample among Jews, as to what should be done by those who are prosperous and happy, in helping those who are forced to receive aid. May you be blessed for your generous heart and philanthropic spirit, and, as is said in the words of the prophet, "When you see a naked soul, clothe it, feed him with happiness of thy soul." It is further said, "He who follows virtue and mercy will find a life of grace and love and will reach old age in happiness and plenty."

These additional subscriptions were announced yesterday:

At yesterday's meeting resolutions were adopted thanking those who took part in the theatrical benefits on Saturday and Sunday nights. A suggestion by Harry Lauder that a part of the fund be used for providing comforts for the men returned from France and now in base hospitals was favorably acted upon.

The Jewish Welfare Board announces that it has added an Information Division to its Home Service Department. The purpose of this division is to assist men in the camps and those discharged on questions of employment, allotment, insurance, and military matters. All the branches of the Jewish Welfare Board, scattered over the country as well as the field representatives at the camps, will be prepared to give the necessary information and advice when requested.

EIGHT TRANSPORTS COMING.

E. R. Stettinius Returning from England Aboard the Cedric.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Announcement was made by the War Department today of the sailing from abroad of eight transports—the General Gorgas, the Saxonia, the Cedric, the Baltic, the Persia Maru, the Carillo, the Manchuria, and the Mongolia.

E. R. Stettinius, special representative of Secretary Baker in France, is returning aboard the Cedric.

Aboard the Mongolia are the 73d and 74th Coast Artillery, the 138th Field Artillery, the headquarters of the 40th Coast Artillery Brigade, and 735 sick and wounded men.

The Cedric carries the 332d Aero Squadron, ten casual companies, and a large number of sick and wounded unassigned officers and other general casuals.

Aboard the Manchuria are the 116th and 117th Field Artillery, Headquarters 56th Field Artillery Brigade, 106th Ammunition Train, Headquarters 62d Infantry Brigade, training cadres from the 31st Division, and 966 sick and wounded.

The Persia Maru sailed Dec. 12 with the 12th Division Advance School Detachment of sixty-five officers and ninety-nine men and civilians and eighteen officers as casuals. The Carillo sailed the same day, with twenty-four officers as casuals.

The Baltic, sailing from Liverpool Dec. 14 for New York, carries seven casual companies of about 160 men each, three officers, a number of medical casuals, and sick and wounded.

The Saxonia has casuals and 963 sick and wounded. The General Gorgas has only fourteen officers, seven enlisted men, and one civilian.

The Saxonia and the Cedric sailed from England on Dec. 14, and the General Gorgas and the Mongolia from France Dec. 13.

A message from General Pershing added about 3,000 additional men to those designated by him for early return to the United States. The units are: The 400th, 465th, 467th, 488th, 499th, 935th, and 840th Aero Squadrons; the First Gas Regiment at full strength, the Anti-Aircraft Artillery School Detachment and Replacement Battery.

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 16.—Captain Hayes of the White Star liner Olympic, which throughout the war was used as a transport for Canadian troops, received an illuminated address and a silver salver today as the gift of the city. The Halifax Board of Trade also presented to him a loving cup.

LEVIATHAN HERE WITH MEN OF BATTLE

on the Leviathan, but they were unfounded. Steamships in the same convoy were hit by torpedoes occasionally, he said, but the U-boats were never permitted to get near enough to fire at the great transport. She was always fully protected in the danger zone, and never had less than five destroyers guarding her.

Besides the Leviathan another transport, the Sant' Anna, arrived yesterday. The vessel, which was three days late from Brest, had on board 48 officers, 21 enlisted men, 70 Y. M. C. A. workers, and 3 Knights of Columbus secretaries.

There was only one wounded man on board the Sant' Anna. He was James F. Kelly, a Knights of Columbus worker, who lives at 152 Clarkson Street, Brooklyn. He received the Legion of Honor medal for being one of the men who flew over the enemy lines on Oct. 21 to drop supplies for the American soldiers of the "lost battalion," who were surrounded in the Argonne Forest for some days and were unable to get food. On the third trip he was hit by shrapnel as the party was returning after successfully dropping supplies.

The surgical cases on board the Leviathan were lodged in a ward that was the ballroom when she was the biggest passenger liner afloat. The Winter garden was used for the army officers as a mess room.

Stories of Wounded Men.

There were many wounded men who had interesting incidents to relate of their experiences in France and Flanders before they were disabled and sent back to the base hospitals. One of them was Private Joseph A. Glynn, a New Yorker, who joined the 105th Infantry and went to France as part of the 27th Division. He had lost his left eye, two fingers from the left hand, and two toes from his left foot. Private Glynn described the attack on the Hindenburg line on Sept. 29.

"Part of the 27th," he said, "were joined with a part of the 30th Division and sent to Flanders, where we captured Mount Kemmel on Aug. 25 with the loss of only 500 officers and men. We got off rather easy in the way of casualties, because we took the Huns by surprise. Our artillery had been pounding their lines so hard that the enemy could not stand it any more and had started to move some of his guns back preparatory to shortening his line at that point.

"The ground was full of deep shell holes, into which we had to crawl at night and try to sleep. I stayed in one of them for twenty-four hours and then had to go out into the open because the rain was so heavy that I would have been drowned, as many of the British Tommies did in the early fighting in Flanders. The Germans had plenty of machine guns to give us a hot peppering as we advanced on their position in open order and it was soon over.

"After the taking of Mount Kemmel our troops were sent to Doulens on Sept. 24 to join with one of the Australian divisions near the Nord Canal. The attack was ordered for the early morning of Sept. 29, with 120 tanks. The only place to cross the canal with safety was a space about 6,000 yards wide which had been mined by the Germans. Our artillery threw a barrage upon the ground for an hour and when the guns had finished there were no more mines. The ground looked as if it had been thrown up by volcanic action. We had at least eighty guns in action. I was hit by shrapnel and machine gun bullets. At the American base hospital at Rouen I was fortunate enough to be placed under the care of two good nurses from New York City, Miss O'Connor from Bellevue Hospital and Miss Breen from St. Luke's Hospital.

Tells of a Tank Attack.

Another of the soldiers on the Leviathan was Sergeant Frank J. Williams, who was a publisher at 225 Fifth Avenue. He was attached to the 301st Tank Corps, and on Sept. 29 his battalion, which numbered forty-five tanks, attacked at Cambral. He said that they were proceeding along nicely, and had "mopped up a couple of German trenches" when his tank was hit.

"There were eleven of us in the old ship," he said, "and six were killed on the spot. I was wounded, but managed to crawl out of the back door. Then I returned and brought out a wounded Lieutenant. We stayed in a shell hole all day Sunday, and at night about 8 o'clock we crawled back to one of the trenches we had previously mopped up. They picked me up on Monday."

Another soldier on the Leviathan was Lieutenant Grover C. Smith of Dickinson, N. D., who said:

"The German tactics almost invariably were to shoot low and bring our fellows down so that they could then rake the ground with shots and get them in the body. At Argonne I found myself with a machine gun company that had been supporting an infantry regiment on the right. Our principal cover was a haystack. The infantry Lieutenant and myself decided to make the best of it against the German artillery, which was very strong, and we got Fritz to believe we were stronger in numbers than was actually the case. We got back and joined our main body. Then the American artillery came up and the Germans retired. The most remarkable thing was we only lost three men."

Captain Bruce Douglas of Nashville, Tenn., who was attached to the 104th Machine Gun Battalion, said: "From the 27th of August to Sept. 29 I was fighting alongside the 27th and 30th Divisions. Say, how those fellows were cut up! Out of a full company of 250 I have seen twelve come out."

Corporal Charles G. Misfeldt of 113 East 102d Street, Company E, 107th Infantry, 27th Division, received machine-gun bullet wounds in both legs at Cambrai. He said:

"At 4:20 A. M. we started out for an objective under a heavy barrage. We were carrying out what is called a leap-frog attack and were co-operating with the Australians. They would advance some distance, lie down; then we would advance through their lines and lie down. Then they would advance again, and so on. When I was knocked over four Australian Red Cross men rescued me."

Lieutenant L. D. White, 518 West 145th Street, a Plattsburgh man, attached to the 120th Infantry, formerly the old 7th Regiment, was shot through the right lung at Bellecourt on Sept. 29. After he had got on board the Leviathan he met an old 7th Regiment man who said: "Say, your brother is on board this ship." Investigation proved this to be correct. The brother was Private J. I. White of Company C, 107th Infantry, 27th Division. On Oct. 16 he was shot through the hip.

ACCIDENT DETAINS ADRIATIC.

Cylinder Explosion Prevents Sailing Yesterday—Off at 3 Tomorrow.

Two hours before the White Star liner Adriatic was to leave at noon yesterday for Liverpool with 650 passengers, 3,000 sacks of Christmas mail, and 1,600 tons of cargo, an explosion in the low-pressure intermediate cylinder on the starboard side in the engine room hurled the metal cylinder cover, weighing three tons, against the overhead beams. No one was injured, but the break made it necessary to hold the ship here until 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Superintendent Engineer Blake immediately made a brief inspection with Chief Engineer Reed, and it was decided to cut out the damaged cylinder and convert the engines from quadruple into triple expansion for the voyage over, so that the ship would not be delayed here longer. Fitters and other mechanics were sent for and the work was started at once, but the 650 passengers will miss Christmas in England.

Among the first cabin passengers is Henry P. Davison, Chairman of the American Red Cross, who is going to Paris to attend conferences upon reconstruction work. Other passengers booked on the Adriatic are Mrs. Cooper Hewitt, Commodore Lionel de L. Wells of the British Navy, General A. Gvosdenovitch, Minister from Montenegro to the United States, who is going to represent his country at the Peace Conference, and George W. Wickersham, former United States Attorney General.

Clemency Is Denied Jacob Cohen.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 16.—Governor Whitman declined today to interfere with the sentence of death imposed upon Jacob Cohen for the murder of a Brooklyn policeman. Cohen's execution has been fixed for this week. At the hearing before the Governor today Rabbi Katz of Brooklyn was the only one to argue for clemency. He contended that Cohen was insane when the crime was committed.

POEMS, ESSAYS AND LETTERS
Edited and with a Memoir by Robert Cortes Holliday
Literary Executor of Joyce Kilmer
In these volumes is written, altogether, a bright chapter in the history of our time. They contain a representative collection of Kilmer's work in his varied fields. The poems include five from France never before between book covers, and a group of little-known early poems.
The intimate letters will, for fragrance and charm, bear comparison with some of the best we know.
People have made very creditable reputations as humorists who never wrote anything like as humorous essays as Kilmer.
Of the brief Life the New York Times says: "In this piece of writing that is in itself masterly, Joyce Kilmer is life's comrade still."

LOOKS TO STATES IN READJUSTMENT

Baker Tells Governors They Can Greatly Aid in Solving Post-War Problems.

FARMS FOR EX-SOLDIERS

Houston Suggests States Take Up That Matter — Harrington Warns of Bolshevism.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 16.—Thirty-six State Governors or Governors-elect in annual conference here today were told by Secretary Baker that the war had proved the indispensability of strong State Governments, in peace as well as wartime, as the principal agencies for mobilizing and demobilizing armies, finding work for returning soldiers, and developing better methods of physical training for young men. At the same time he pleaded that State authorities give cities more freedom to work out their individual local problems.

Local and district draft boards will be dissolved at the end of the present month, Secretary Baker said. After that time, however, they will maintain an informal organization to assist employment bureaus in placing returned soldiers in industry. Early disbandment of State branches of the Council of National Defense as Federal agencies also was advocated by the Secretary, who urged, however, that they also remain in existence informally to aid local authorities in solving problems of the readjustment period.

The War Secretary emphasized that one of the principal functions of States hereafter must be "to rescue young men from the situation shown during the recent mobilization, when one-third of the drafted men were found to be physically undeveloped or defective."

"We must realize," he said, "that physical education is as necessary to the development of our youths as mental training. A sound mind must depend upon a sound body, and we should organize educational systems providing for physical development."

Secretary Houston, addressing the Governors, suggested that State Governments ascertain immediately what farming lands might be available for use for returning soldiers. He cautioned, however, against throwing these men indiscriminately into agricultural pursuits without previous experience or adequate training.

He urged States to establish strong centralized agricultural departments, to define more clearly the function of land grant colleges, to continue promotion of agricultural extension work, build better roads and promote campaigns in rural districts against preventable diseases.

Considering the uncertainty of the future of the world's food production, Secretary Houston said:

"Congress should make available a revolving fund of not less than $600,000,000, to effectuate the Government guarantee of $2.20 a bushel for wheat, for we cannot tell at this time what the real market price will be a year from now. It may be as much as $2.20 and it may be as much as 50 cents less than the guaranteed price."

The conference is being held in the hall of the historic Maryland capital, where George Washington resigned his commission as leader of the American forces in 1783. Standing where Washington stood, Governor Harrington of Maryland welcomed the visitors.

Those in attendance at the conference are Governors Hunt of Arizona; Townsend, Delaware; Dorsey, Georgia; Alexander, Idaho; Goodrich, Indiana; Harding, Iowa; Capper, Kansas; Pleasant, Louisiana; Milliken, Maine; Harrington, Maryland; Sleeper, Michigan; Burnquist, Minnesota; Gardner, Missouri; Stewart, Montana; Boyle, Nevada; Edge, New Jersey; Lindsay, New Mexico; Bickett, North Carolina; Frazier, North Dakota; Williams, Oklahoma; Brumbaugh, Pennsylvania; Beeckman, Rhode Island; Manning, South Carolina; Bamburger, Utah; Davis, Virginia; Lister, Washington; Cornwell, West Virginia, and Houx, Wyoming, and Governors-elect Campbell of Arizona; Davis, Idaho; Allen, Kansas; Coolidge, Massachusetts; McElvie, Nebraska; Larrazolo, New Mexico; Robertson, Oklahoma; Cooper, South Carolina; Clement, Vermont, and Riggs, Alaska.

REPORT POGROMS MUCH EXAGGERATED

Statements in Warsaw that Feeling Is Caused by Resistance to National Movement.

WARSAW, Dec. 15, (via Vienna,) (Associated Press.)—While there has been talk in the outside world of disorderly conditions in Poland, it would seem that there have been gross exaggerations as to conditions here.

Semi-neutral opinion was expressed to the correspondent by Leon Coldstand, a Jewish member of the Polish Conservative Party, who said:

"The whole agitation seems to me to be largely manufactured and based on false rumors. From what I know I believe these rumors were started by a large number of Jews interested in securing peculiar political rights of their own, instead of living among the Poles as they do among the English and French.

"It is my opinion that, if the Jews would accept Polish nationality and act in the interest of Poland, they would be adopted as political equals by every one. In my own party we have many Jews who work in the most cordial relations with the other members.

"It has been remarked that recent troubles have started among Jews who came from Russia, from which country they were deported last year, rather than among Jews who frankly accept Polish nationality.

"During the German occupation of Poland, Jews were employed as food buyers and army furnishers by the German Army officers. They grew rich by this work and there is now a natural suspicion among Poles that the Jews wished to defeat the attempt to unite Poland and that they are acting as tools for the Russian Bolsheviki.

"A corruption fund of 100,000,000 rubles came from Russia to be used in Poland. It is also suspected that German Jews have no interest in free Poland."

Professor E. Romer of the University of Cracow said there was no doubt that a large number of Jews in Poland were attempting to claim international citizenship.

"There are three parties of Jews in Poland," he said. "Those wishing to be Poles, Zionists wishing to establish themselves in Palestine, but privileged to travel and live elsewhere, and Nationalists, by which I mean those wishing to live among the Poles, but having special privileges which would make them a separate body of citizens. The last two classes have been especially opposed by the Polish Government.

"The Poles have recently formulated two popular charges against the Jews: First, that during the war they speculated in foodstuffs and clothing, raised prices and worked into the hands of the Germans; second, that they attempted to get Lemberg included in Ukrainian territory for the alleged purpose of securing the Ukraine for themselves.

"These two reasons have been the cause of pogroms, but these disorders have been limited and only a few persons have been killed. In Lemberg, however, there seems to be little doubt that the Jews failed to support the Poles in defending the place, if they did not actually help the Ukrainians with money and men."

CALLS MASS MEETING FOR HEARST PROTEST

Republican Club Resents Appointment to Committee to Welcome Soldiers.

The Republican Club last night adopted unanimously a resolution criticising Mayor Hylan's appointment of William Randolph Hearst to be a member of the Mayor's Reception Committee to returning soldiers and to be Chairman of a commitee to erect a memorial to the soldier dead. The resolution, introduced by Taylor Moore, who drafted it in collaboration with John A. Duttton, provides that President Bonynge of the club shall head a commitee of nine to collaborate with other public bodies in organizing a protest meeting against Mr. Hearst serving on the committees. The resolution reads:

Whereas, Mayor Hylan has announced the appointment as a member of the Reception Committee to our boys returning from the war in Europe and also as Chairman of a committee to erect a monument for suitable memorial to the memory of those who have given their lives and who will not return and persists in retaining Mr. Hearst on such committee notwithstanding protests on the part of organizations and prominent citizens and a large part of the press of the city; and,

Whereas, the loyalty of Mr. Hearst to his country is discredited by his own utterances and by the disclosures of a committee of the United States Senate and his position as Chairman of the above committee is a disgrace to the loyal City of New York and an insult to its citizens, particularly to the men who have given their lives and those brave men who have shed their blood in devotion to their country; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the President of this club be authorized to appoint a committee of nine members with the President as an ex-officio member, to confer and take action with other organizations in the city for the purpose of calling a general meeting of citizens to publicly protest against the continuance of Mr. Hearst and against his appointment on any committee which has to do with any reception to the living or doing honor to the dead soldiers and sailors of our country.

The club also adopted a resolution favoring the return to the old convention system of nominating candidates for State offices. The resolution proposes the amendment of the Whitman primary law so that all candidates would be chosen at a convention of delegates chosen at the official party primaries.

The Red Cross Auxiliary of the Flatbush Congregational Church has sent the following letter to Mayor Hylan protesting against the appointment of William R. Hearst on a committee to welcome returning soldiers:

Mayor Hylan, City Hall, New York City:

Dear Sir—At the meeting of the Red Cross Auxiliary of the Flatbush Congregational Church, representing about seven hundred members, held Dec. 13, it was unanimously agreed that an open letter be sent to you emphatically protesting against the appointment of Mr. William R. Hearst to serve on the committee to welcome the returning soldiers. In the opinion of those present it is an insult to the boys who have fought so valiantly that the world might be freed from German militarism and arrogance that a man of Mr. Hearst's proved German sympathies should represent this great municipality on that committee.

Respectfully,

CASUALTY TOTAL TO RISE.

Pershing Reports New Names More Than Offset Duplications.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Cable correspondence between the War Department and General Pershing exchanged in connection with an effort by that department to obtain all possible information regarding American casualties, was made public today, dissipating all idea that the number of casualties would be less than 264,998—the number in a cablegram received Nov. 27 from General Pershing, giving the number of casualties up to and including Nov. 26.

In response to a message asking whether duplicated casualties discovered since Nov. 26 would reduce the total of that date, General Pershing has replied that the additional casualties received more than offset the duplicates. This would indicate that when the compilation is completed the total will be larger than the 264,998 reported.

The American commander cabled the War Department today that practically complete reports of deaths in action among the expeditionary forces should reach the department by Dec. 20, and of severely wounded by Dec. 27.

General Pershing said that the number of unreported casualties in process of verification at the central records office on Dec. 14 was 40,440, divided as follows:

|---|---|
| Killed in action | 390 |
| Died of wounds | 275 |
| Died of disease | 353 |
| Accidentally killed | 51 |
| Severely wounded | 39,371 |

These included all "suspense cases under investigation," the General said.

Total casualties to Nov. 23 in the 30th (Wild-Cat) Division, (North Carolina, South Carolina, and Tennessee National Guard,) were given as 7,623, classified as follows:

|---|---|
| Killed in action | 1,168 |
| Died of wounds | 283 |
| Died of disease | 15 |
| Died of other causes | 5 |
| Severely wounded | 1,181 |
| Wounded, degree undetermined | 805 |
| Slightly wounded | 3,973 |
| Missing or captured | 198 |

The report today from the American commander was in reply to specific questions from the War Department. In asking regarding casualties in the 30th Division, the department said that there had been "much apprehension" here about the losses of this unit which helped the British Army break the Hindenburg line.

STUDENTS FIGHT EXPULSION

Charge of Race Prejudice Brought Against Polytechnic Institute.

Twenty out of sixty-eight students just dropped from the rolls of the Polytechnic Institute in Brooklyn have organized a protest committee and are seeking to compel the institution to reinsate them. The Protestants allege that all but two of the boys dropped are Jews and that race prejudice led to the action. The school, through Dr. W. F. Atkinson, its President, denies that religion entered into consideration and insists that with the exception of two cases of boys who did not deserve to be allowed to continue, the others were eliminated because the disbanding of the Student Officers' Training Corps and the shortening of the school year under the consequent reorganization of courses, made it necessary to cut down the enrollment.

The school is a private institution and the Board of Education has no jurisdiction. The committee of students has induced County Judge Mitchell May to represent their interests and Judge May last night issued this statement:

"I am doing everything that is within my power for these boys. When the committee representing the students called upon me and told their stories I wrote a letter to Dr. Atkinson and asked him to tell me why they were dropped from the school. In my mail this morning I found a letter from Dr. Atkinson which means nothing at all. His letter simply tells me that the boys were dropped for good and sufficient reason."

When asked if he would take legal action, Judge May said:

"I can do nothing for them so far as my office is concerned. But whether they will take legal action is another matter. Among the things the boys told me was that one student who would have been graduated in a month has been dropped and loses all the time he spent in the school, and the school will not give him a rating. Personally, I believe this student can get a writ of mandamus compelling the school to allow him to finish his course.

"I take this view on the ground that when the student entered the school and paid his tuition he entered into a contract to receive a course by which he should gain certain knowledge.

"I intend to write another letter to Dr. Atkinson and hope that he will see his way clear to explain more fully why the boys were dropped from the school."

AMERICANS EXCLUDE GERMANS IN UNIFORM

Political Gatherings Prohibited in Occupied Area—Profiteering in Food Forbidden.

AMERICAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION, Dec. 14, (Associated Press.)—Men in German military uniforms are not to be allowed within the American area of occupation after Dec. 15 unless they are on duty and are provided with written permission of the American military authorities, according to a proclamation issued by Colonel J. C. Rhea, Chairman of the American Bridgehead Commission.

Assemblages for political discussions are prohibited unless sanctioned by the American military authorities. The proclamation also orders that all civilians turn over to the proper authorities by Dec. 15 all firearms in their possession. The Burgomasters of towns in the area of occupation will issue licenses to the persons authorized to be armed for police duties after approval by the American military authorities.

The proclamation says that prices of food and other things shall be the same for the Americans as for the Germans. All goods must be sold at the usual prices.

The boundaries of the bridgehead occupied by the American forces will be marked out by white stakes, placed a few hundred feet apart.

Colonel Rhea has issued an order that makes the local German authorities in the various districts responsible for marking the roads which cross the line separating occupied and unoccupied Germany. On the roadways at the boundary will be signs reading: "Limits Coblenz bridgehead area."

The Germans also must mark all crossroads and routes through towns and cities in signs printed in English. The signs must show the distances to the next towns, whether the roadway is in good or bad condition, and whether a one-way or a two-way road. The Germans must keep the signs in first-class condition.

FLEET FROM FRONT IS DUE HERE SUNDAY

10 Dreadnoughts and 20 Destroyers Will Make a Great Electrical Picture.

TO BE ALIGHT EVERY NIGHT

Secretary Daniels to Reach New York Next Monday to Review the Combined Fleet.

The ten dreadnoughts and twenty destroyers which were included in the American naval forces that operated in European waters during the war are expected to arrive in New York some time next Sunday. They will immediately steam to anchorages in the North River, and the sailors will then begin stringing them with electric wires in preparation for what is expected to be the most beautiful electrical picture ever seen in American waters. The great camouflaged dreadnoughts will be outlined in electric lights every night during the stay in New York waters, the different ships being indicated by huge electrical numbers which will be displayed on both sides of each vessel.

It was stated in Washington Saturday that every turret, mast, and gun will be outlined in electricity, the flagships being indicated by the pennants, which will be shown in colors. For instance, the flagship Pennsylvania will display an illuminated pennant with a blue field and four glittering silver stars. The flagships of Rear Admirals Rodman and Rodgers will be indicated by pennants which will show two silver stars. The dreadnoughts which have been on overseas duty will have the places of honor in the great naval line-up, and will extend in single column from a point about opposite Seventy-ninth Street to north of Grant's Tomb, probably off 155th Street. The destroyers will be in position on either side of the dreadnought column.

The flagship New York, which was the flagship of the American division in the Grand Fleet under Sir David Beatty, will probably anchor between Seventy-ninth and Eighty-ninth Streets. This is the ship that would have led the American column had the Germans come out to fight instead of to surrender. The other dreadnoughts under Rodman will be the Nevada, Arkansas, Wyoming, Florida, and Texas. Under Admiral Rodgers will be the dreadnoughts Oklahoma, Arizona, and Utah.

In the welcoming fleet of battleships, cruisers, and other war vessels will be the dreadnoughts New Mexico, Mississippi, Delaware, North Dakota, South Carolina, and Michigan, as well as a number of vessels of the pre-dreadnought type. The New Mexico and Mississippi are new ships, recently commissioned, and are the most powerful of their type afloat. They are also the first electrically propelled vessels in any navy. The dreadnought tonnage which will be in the North River next Monday morning will total about 400,000 tons.

The twenty destroyers which are coming from overseas will be joined by about the same number that have been in service in home waters. Only about one-third of the destroyers of the overseas service are coming home at this time. Among the welcoming destroyers will be many of the newest type, which were recently commissioned and which were ready to proceed overseas when the armistice was signed. The Cruiser and Transport Fleet, under Vice Admiral Gleaves, will also have a place of honor in the great North River pageant, as will also a large number of vessels of the auxiliary and reserve forces.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels will arrive in New York early next Monday morning to review the fleet and welcome in behalf of the Government Admirals Rodman and Rodgers, and the officers and men under them. The Secretary's flag will fly from the President's yacht, the Mayflower, on board of which he will circle the fleet shortly after his arrival. The time of the review by the Secretary will be announced in the next few days from Washington.

The welcoming battleships, destroyers and other vessels will arrive in New York ahead of the dreadnoughts and destroyers under Rodman and Rodgers. They will be under command of Vice Admiral Grant. Admirals Rodman and Rodgers are expected to lead the parade which is to take place the day after Christmas, and in which it is expected about 25,000 officers and men will take part.

SOFT DRINK EXHIBIT

Conspicuous at Hotel Men's Exposition in Madison Square Garden.

With an attendance of several thousand leading hotel men of the country, representing practically every State, and the expectation that the number will reach 20,000 before the end of the week, the third annual National Hotel Men's Exposition, under the auspices of the New York State Hotel Association and the Hotel Association of New York City, opened yesterday afternoon in Madison Square Garden and will continue through the week, closing Saturday night. Last night in the convention hall short addresses were made. Afterward there was an informal reception, at which the visitors were welcomed. The thirty-second annual convention of the New York State Hotel Association will open this morning.

The exposition this year eclipses in variety and number of exhibits the two former events, and the booths, occupying the entire main floor of the arena, and the first balcony, are attractively arranged. The Garden has been gorgeously decorated, the American flag and colors playing an important part in the arrangement. In the booths are shown hotel equipment, furnishings, foods, and beverages, especially of the soft drink variety. The exhibits of various soft drinks and soda fountains are very conspicuous. The hotel men will give considerable attention to planning for the drought that is expected to take effect July 1 of next year. It is reported that one of the largest hotels in the Broadway-Forty-second Street district has under consideration a plan to rent out its entire lower floor, transforming one of the largest hotel bars in the country into a banking, brokerage or commission house.

"While I do not for a moment believe," declared a hotel man yesterday, "that the law as passed by Congress and signed by the President, providing for war prohibition in times of peace will stand, the date fixed for the law to take effect will find us prepared for it."

According to one authority at the exposition yesterday, more soda water fixtures have been sold in the last six months than during the entire six years previous. The advanced price of drinks has caused such notable decrease in the receipts of the hotel bar, according to another hotel man, that the transition from wet to dry will not be as keenly felt as it might have been under a more sudden curtailment. Still another expressed the opinion that the soda fountain bar stands a good chance of becoming a hotel feature of the future, wet or dry.

FIRE ALARMS COLUMBIA.

Blaze in Sub-Basement of Havemeyer Hall Put Out with Difficulty.

Firemen and naval reserve students, now at Columbia University, united early this morning in a brisk and successful battle against flames which were discovered just after midnight in the basement of Havemeyer Hall at Broadway and 118th Street, which for a time it was feared would sweep the building. There was much alarm and excitement in the neighborhood, because it was believed there was nitro glycerine stored in the vault in the sub-basement of the building. Later, however, it was learned that this explosive had been removed several weeks ago.

By the time city apparatus began arriving students for many blocks around had sensed the excitement and were gathering in an ever increasing crowd to help fight the flames with the university's apparatus.

Battalion Chief Webber, when he reached the building, found the smoke and fumes from the burning chemicals so dense and acrid that men with ordinary equipment could not cope with the blaze, which was threatening every moment to creep up the stairways and air shafts to the upper floors of the building. While the flames were held temporarily in check with the available apparatus, Webber ordered out the Rescue Squad with its gas masks.

These men upon their arrival found their job a hard one despite the protection of their masks. Time and again they entered the sub-basement only to be driven out, their eyes smarting, tears running down their checks and their chests heaving painfully from the noxious fumes that seeped through the respirators. Lieutenant McCarthy of Truck 22 and Fireman Charles Rinschler of Engine Company 47, who were among those who stuck at the fight without the protection of masks, were overcome. They were carried to the open air and received the attention of Fire Department Surgeon Archer, and then sent to their quarters.

Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning the fire had been extinguished without having spread further than the sub-basement.

EXPLODING DRUM WRECKS DYE PLANT

NEARBY HOTEL IS SHAKEN

University Place Showered with Glass and Many Persons Suffer from Cuts and Shock.

A quantity of alizerine dye in an iron drum in the plant of the American Aniline Products Company, 66-68 University Place, exploded shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday morning with such force that the interior of the building was wrecked, while thirteen persons were injured by flying débris or suffered from shock. Windows were blown out in the Hotel Albert, directly across the street from the American Products Building. Fire followed the explosion, but caused little damage.

The machine that exploded was on the first floor in the rear of the building, which was six stories high. Frank Harrington, a dye mixer, was running the drum, which revolves at high speed and has a capacity of 400 pounds of chemicals. The police said that when it exploded it contained only 117 pounds of alizerine dye.

Harrington said the drum was revolving when the cap flew off. Before he could stop the machinery the mixture caught fire.

He ran and shouted an alarm and immediately there came an explosion with a shower of glass to the street. Windows on the upper floors of the building were shattered as were those of adjoining buildings.

The force of the exploding chemicals tore away the partitions, shoving the wall of the shipping room from near the rear up to the front of the shop, while doors were torn off the front and hurled into the street.

Across the street two large plate glass windows in a restaurant were smashed and windows broken in the hotel as high as the sixth floor. While many windows in 64 University Place, on one side of the wrecked building, were broken, those on the other side, No. 70, were left intact. Of the persons passing at the time, only Abraham Linzenberg of 1,422 Stebbings Street, who was cut by glass, was reported hurt.

The aniline plant employed twenty-five persons. Those who were cut or hurt were taken to the office of Dr. J. W. Travell, at 27 East Eleventh Street. Henry Cairns of 207 West Fourteenth Street was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital.

D. K. Armour, President of the American Aniline Products Company, which has offices at 80 Fifth Avenue, said he was at a loss to account for the accident. He said the firm had a permit from the Fire Department to mix chemicals, but had used none of an inflammable type, and certainly no explosives, in the dye mixtures.

Commutes Death Sentence of Man Convicted at Camp Dix.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP DIX, N. J., Dec. 16.—Sentenced by a court-martial to be executed for disloyal statements and for refusing to obey orders, Private Solomon Losofsky, a Newark jeweler, owes his life to Presidential clemency. The report of the case issued here this afternoon shows that on the eve of leaving for Europe President Wilson commuted the sentence to imprisonment at hard labor for twenty years. He will serve the sentence at Fort Jay.

Major General Scott approved the findings of the court, the entire sentence of which directed the prisoner "to be dishonorably discharged from the service, to forfeit all pay and allowances due or to become due and to be hanged by the neck until dead. Two-thirds of the court concurring."

Losofsky was called in a draft early in the Summer. Among the statements he is alleged to have made to the prejudice of good order and military discipline was one to the effect that "I did not want to come to this dump in the first place and I have no respect for the flag or the country." Other charges were that Losofsky refused to obey orders.

SUES FOR $40,000,000.

McDougall Says Steel Subsidiary Has Been Using His Ideas.

DULUTH, Minn., Dec. 16.—Claiming that the Oliver Iron Mining Company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, has been using for ten years an ore washer on the basic principles of one he designed, Captain Alexander McDougall, President of the McDougall Shipbuilding Company, today brought suit for $40,000,000 against the mining company in the Federal Court.

Captain McDougall asked for an injunction, contending that John C. Greenway of the Oliver Company obtained on April 7, 1908, a patent on an ore washer after seeing plans of one which Captain McDougall himself had patented a few weeks before. He holds that Greenway's contrivance, while not identical with his own, owed its origin to the plans which he exhibited.

In asking damages Captain McDougall stated that the machinery of the Oliver Company had been in operation ten years and estimated that 20,000,000 tons of ore had been washed, the process enhancing the valuation of each ton $2. The court took no action.

TO ARREST BIG REALTY MAN.

Police Looking for Indicted Long Island Operator.

Assistant District Attorney Theodore L. Waugh announced yesterday that he expected the police to arrest, possibly today, the wealthy land operator who was indicted last Friday on a charge of grand larceny in connection with selling Long Island property to small investors. Until the indicted man is arrested, Mr. Waugh said, his identity would not be disclosed. Many letters complaining about his activities, he said, had been received.

"The more I delve into the complaints concerning this man," said Mr. Waugh, "the more I am convinced that all persons and corporations dealing in realty on the installment plan should be brought under the State Banking Department. Our investigation has shown the imperative need for a law which will prevent land speculators from selling mortgaged property and from so diverting their assets that they are unable to raise mortgages when it is time to give deeds to their customers."

BOSTON, Dec. 16.—Brig. Gen. Charles H. Cole, recently removed from command of the 52d Brigade of the 26th Division in France, has been ordered back to his brigade, according to a cablegram received by his wife. General Cole was formerly Adjutant General of Massachusetts.

DE LAMAR HEIRESS SUED FOR $25,000

Miss Elliot Complains That Captain's Daughter Accused Her of Taking Portfolio.

THEY WERE ONCE FRIENDS

Mrs. Brandon, a Lawyer, Declares Suit Is Based on "a Figment of the Imagination."

Miss Alice A. De Lamar, only child of the late Captain Joseph Raphael De Lamar and heiress to $10,000,000 under his will, was sued in the Supreme Court yesterday for $25,000 damages by Miss Florence Elliot, an artist, described as her chum for some years past, on the ground of false statements alleged to have been made by Miss De Lamar concerning Miss Elliot.

Mrs. Frances Marion Brandon, a lawyer of 80 Wall Street, in whose office the alleged slanderous statements were made, said yesterday that there was no ground for the charges and that the suit was based entirely on a "figment of the imagination." Jacob Hilliquit, attorney for Miss Elliot, declared that the young women have been close friends for years and that the alleged false statements were made as the result of a squabble between them.

The complaint states that on Oct. 22 last, a few weeks before Captain De Lamar died, Miss De Lamar said at 80 Wall Street concerning the plaintiff: "I demand that you give me back the letters and blue portfolio from my Gramercy Park apartment."

Miss Elliot says that these words charge her with larceny, and are also defamatory. Her attorney said yesterday that on the day mentioned she got a letter from Mrs. Brandon requesting her to come to the office at 80 Wall Street, and when she reached there she found Miss De Lamar in the office, and the charges were then made. She declared she had no idea what Miss De Lamar meant, because she knew nothing of the articles mentioned.

The papers were served on Miss De Lamar yesterday at 375 Park Avenue, where she has taken an apartment. When questioned about the suit, Mrs. Brandon declared that no accusations were made against Miss Elliot, and remarked that if here was any basis for the $25,000 suit Miss De Lamar would have made a settlement rather than allow the papers to be filed.

AVIATOR IS KILLED IN NEW MAIL TEST

Carl B. Smith Falls to Death at Elizabeth on Eve of Chicago Service.

FIRST AIR MAIL DEATH

Experienced Aviator from Naval Branch Was Enrolled for Western Postal Trips.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Dec. 16.—Starting an experimental flight with one of the De Haviland planes which are to be used in the extension of the air mail service from New York to Chicago, Carl B. Smith, an aviator about 30 years old of Brockton, Mass., fell to his death under his wrecked machine at the Standard Aircraft Corporation Field here this afternoon when something went wrong after the flier had attained a height of but 200 feet. Buried under the heavy plane, of the type the army used as fighting craft, Smith, who had been a balloonist and aviator for eleven years, was killed instantly, nearly every bone in his body being broken.

Smith recently left the naval air service to become a civilian flier for the Post Office Department. He was making one of the last flights from the Elizabeth field for that department just before the eastern terminus of the air mail system was transferred back to New York when he became the victim of the first fatal accident which has marred the air mail traffic since its inception.

Smith had been exhibiting the De Haviland "9" to Sergeant Nellie Faughnan of the Rahway (N. J.) Branch of the Woman's Motor Corps of America, and Miss Faughnan said afterward that he had remarked that there seemed to be "something the matter with the motor." However, he bade her a laughing farewell, climbed into his seat, and was off.

Pointing the nose of the plane upward at an unusually steep angle, Smith rose rapidly, traveling with the wind. When 200 feet up he apparently tried a turn, but the plane failed to respond. Some witnesses thought one of the wings crumpled. The aviator was seen to make a desperate attempt to right his craft, but the De Haviland started earthward in a nose drive.

Just before the plane hit the ground it turned completely over, landing upside down. Smith was buried under the heavy engine, and the seat which he had occupied a second before, and from which the impact threw him, was the only part of the craft that was not demolished.

Adjutant D. Clark Egerton, in charge of the field here, after an investigation of the accident, confessed himself not quite certain as to its cause. He thought Smith might have banked too sharply in attempting to turn and straighten out on his course. Adjutant Egerton made arrangements to send Smith's body to Brockton, Mass.

Smith, it was said, was an experienced man, who had flown in Mexico, Cuba, and South America, as well as various parts of the United States. He also was said to have been the inventor of a successful type of airplane some years ago.

MOVE TO MINEOLA FIELD.

Successful Flights by Compass Aid Air Mail Plans Here.

Coincident with the announcement yesterday that the eastern terminus of the air mail service had been transferred back from the standard Aircraft Corporation's field at Elizabeth, N. J., to its original site, the Belmont Park, L. I., field, officials of both military and mail air services cited occurrences of the past two days to show that, through flying by compass, American aviators have succeeded in overcoming the impediment of fog and cloud banks, which had been one of the reasons for moving previously to the New Jersey field.

The transfer occurred without formality yesterday, and preparations were hurried with the hope of starting the air mail service from New York to Chicago via Cleveland tomorrow morning. Officials said, however, that it might be a day later before they could get it under way.

The planes to be used in the service already are winging their way to the various intermediate stations, the last three having left the Elizabeth field yesterday just before it was abandoned. It is planned to conduct a daily service, Sundays and holidays included, and to charge 6 cents an ounce postage.

Two flights by compass were told of yesterday which aroused the pride of American aeronauts in the ability of their colleagues to traverse the airways without the aid of visible landmarks. Captain W. P. Jacobs, with Colonel L. W. MacIntosh for a passenger, flew yesterday from Buffalo to Mineola, a distance of 407 miles, in an army De Haviland "9," equipped with a Liberty motor.

Flying above the clouds, Captain Jacobs depended entirely upon "navigating instruments," and managed to keep well on his course, coming by way of Binghamton in order to avoid the mountain passage by following the Delaware Valley. He made the trip in three and one-half hours, averaging 120 miles an hour. He left Buffalo at 10:20 and landed at Mineola at 1:50 P. M.

Officials at Hazelhurst Field also told yesterday of a flight made successfully from the Mineola army station on Sunday, when the fog hung like a pall over all this part of the country and was so dense that great ships, such as the Leviathan, were unable to enter New York Harbor. A military aviator carrying departmental papers for Washington left the Hazelhurst field and flew to the capital in two hours and fifty minutes.

The time in clear weather has ranged from ten minutes to two hours longer, it was said, and the present aviator was handicapped by being compelled to make two landings because of the heavy rain he encountered along the way.

Lieut. Col. M. H. Harmon, in charge of the Mineola field, said that he considered the trip a remarkable one under the circumstances, and, taken in connection with yesterday's trip from Buffalo, as affording ample evidence of the improvement in aerial navigation.

ALLENBY ENTERS ALEPPO.

City's Keys and Bread and Salt Presented to Conqueror of Palestine.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—General Allenby, commander in the British and allied advance through Palestine, made an official entry into Aleppo on Dec. 10, according to an official telegram received today. He was escorted by Indian cavalry, and a huge crowd of residents and visitors watched the procession. The Mayor of the city presented the keys of the city and bread and salt to General Allenby at the gate.

Later, at the Governor's residence, General Allenby gave an audience to the civil and religious chiefs of the district. Afterward he addressed a large crowd gathered in the square before the residence.

RIOTS IN CONSTANTINOPLE.

One Greek and Two French Sailors Reported to Have Been Killed.

ATHENS, Dec. 14.—Slight disorders occurred in Constantinople last week, according to a dispatch from the Turkish capital to the Embros. A Greek sailor was killed in front of the Mosque of St. Sophia. A detachment of Anglo-Greek troops were sent to the scene and restored order. At another time a Turkish patrol attacked some French sailors, two of the seamen being killed.

Greek units have been debarked to protect the Greek Legation at Constantinople.

FIND MISSING BAG IN BANK MURDER

Boys Roaming Canarsie Lots Bring In Evidence Left by Bandits.

ONE OF SLAIN MEN BURIED

Two New Witnesses in Brooklyn Bank Holdup Also Furnish Information to Police.

The police and the Brooklyn District Attorney's office believed that the two bank robbers for whom the authorities of the whole city had been searching were nearer capture last night than at any time since the fugitives on Friday last killed two men in the East Brooklyn Savings Bank and escaped in a taxicab with $13,000 of the bank's funds. Two clues yesterday gave direction to the hunt for the robbers.

One of these, the finding in Canarsie of the bag in which they stuffed the money when they ran from the building to the waiting taxi, yielded evidence that may prove of value.

About the other, the discovery and lengthy examination of two men witnesses, both the police and the King's County Prosecutor made some mystery, though they asserted that most important information had been gained from the interrogation of the two unnamed witnesses. The examination was still in progress last night. The men, they added, were not under arrest.

Three boys playing in an open lot at East Ninety-eighth Street and the Long Island Railroad tracks in Canarsie discovered the bag for which the police had searched for three days. It was a cheap, new affair of imitation grain leather, 16 inches long, with bright brass fittings, and bearing the mark "039."

The lads, John Balusky and his brother Anthony of 729 Williams Avenue and John Revinoskas of 731 Williams Avenue, found in the bag a silk muffler, like one left in the taxicab in which the robbers escaped; a pair of heavy gray kid gloves, size 9, which were not new, and three soft collars, as well as a dark-blue silk neckscarf, bearing the label of a Brooklyn haberdasher.

Rummaging further in the bag, they unraveled some torn bits of paper and found they were "straps" such as are used to fasten packages of money. On all the bands was printed "East Brooklyn Savings Bank." Three of the straps were marked $50, three $250, and seven $25.

The bag was taken to the Miller Avenue Police Station, thence to Brooklyn Police Headquarters, and finally to the detectives working on the case and to District Attorney Harry G. Lewis. The police set out to find the manufacturer and retailer of the bag, and the retailer of the necktie.

It was Mr. Lewis and Assistant District Attorney Wilson who told of their hopeful attitude after the visit of the two mysterious men. These men were found somewhere by detectives and brought to Brooklyn by Acting Detective Captain Coughlin. One of the men, it was said, came from Manhattan. Where the other was found was not told at the time.

The Manhattan man, it was learned, "told of a conversation in front of the Hotel Navarre on Friday." It was at the Navarre cab stand that the bandits got their taxi, but just what light this individual threw upon that part of the crime was not disclosed.

Mr. Lewis said, however, that the two men had contributed an important new lead and had made both himself and the police more hopeful.

Yesterday Mrs. Lancaster, wife of an employe of the bank, told of having seen a second taxicab. She said she left the bank shortly before the thieves entered it, and that a short distance away she saw a man step from the black taxi and hand a black bag to the men in the other car. If this story can be substantiated, it will prove that others were in the plot.

Funeral services were held at his mother's home, 150 Summit Avenue, Montclair, N. J., yesterday for De Witt C. Peal, one of the two men killed by the robbers. The Rev. Dr. Jay T. Stocking officiated. The body will be buried today in Greenwood Cemetery. Peal is survived by a wife and one child, two brothers, and four sisters. He lived in Montclair until his marriage, a little more than a year ago.

McCullough and John Mulligan, the taxi starter at the Navarre, who were held on short affidavits, will be arraigned in the Adams Street Police Court this morning for further examination.

There is to be a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the bank on Thursday night, at which time, it is probable, if the murderers have not been arrested, a large reward will be offered for their capture.

SARGENT PORTRAITS SHOWN

Lady Eden, Mrs. Moore, President Wilson—Paintings by Thayer.

Sargent's portrait of President Wilson, which has previously been shown at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, with portraits of Lady Eden and Mrs. Moore of Paris, were placed on exhibition at the Knoedler Galleries yesterday with important works of Abbott H. Thayer. It is a small and distinguished collection, there being only four pictures by Thayer, and, in addition to the portraits, two landscapes by Sargent. The President's portrait belongs to the Dublin Art Gallery. The two others are shown for the first time in this country, having been purchased by the Knoedler Galleries, and the Lady Eden has already been sold, going to the Wilstach Gallery, Fairmount Park, Philadelphia.

This is a charming portrait, painted in 1907. It gives a profile view of Lady Eden, in an evening gown, the upper part of black gauze, the lower part showing soft gray. There is a soft gray background. Lady Eden sits at a table, on which there is a graceful urn, playing cards. She is the widow of Sir William Eden, who died early in 1915, an artist and land owner, one of whose titles to fame was a famous lawsuit with the artist Whistler. Sir William was the seventh Baronet of Auckland and fifth of Maryland, and was a descendent of the last British Governor of Maryland. His seat was at Windlestone, Ferry Hill, Durham, and he held some 8,000 acres of land. His eldest son was killed at Ypres in 1914, the second son being interned in Germany at that time.

The Knoedlers purchased the portrait from Lady Eden. Neither of the portraits have before been placed on sale. That of Mrs. Moore, who is an American woman, was painted in 1884 and presented to a friend. Mrs. Moore is shown wearing an evening gown of black satin and long string of pearls, with a background of dull red. It is an elaborate portrait, with much detail in still life. The three portraits represent three periods of the artist's work —1884, 1907, and the portrait of President Wilson in 1918.

The two other Sargents are, one a landscape on the Island of Corfu, and the other a scene on the Simplon called the "Princess Nouronihan from Vathek." It is an interesting picture and shows three women sleeping amid grass and flowers, while as a background are the ice and snow of the Simplon. It represents an incident in the artist's life, when in crossing the Simplon, with coach and horses, his party stopped to rest and, falling asleep, the contrast of the scene as it is reproduced interested the artist. He named it from a somewhat similar experience of the heroine of the book.

The Thayer pictures are two large canvases with angels, one standing in a golden light and the other in shadows. The three-quarter picture of a young woman standing is called the "Woman in Olive Dress." The landscape is a view from the artist's home at Monadnock. The exhibition continues through the 31st.

Apples for British and American Sailors

The Beresford Fund (Vegetable Products Committee for Naval Supplies), under the patronage of King George of England and the presidency of Admiral Lord Beresford, desires to furnish apples to the sailors of the English fleet and the American naval vessels in English waters and needs 20,000 barrels during the next three or four months.

Apples are regarded as a great treat by sailors, and never more so than at present, after four years of continuous strain at sea. Apples are very beneficial to the health of men on active naval duty.

The English apple crop this year is almost a total failure. As the committee intends to supply sailors on United States ships with apples, the appeal for this delicious fruit is brought to persons in the United States who desire to make to British and American sailors a gift which will be received with the deepest appreciation.

Growers of apples who are willing to make a gift of any quantity may communicate with the American representative of the fund. Money is required also to buy the fruit and to pay transportation to the American seaboard.

Up to date, 250 barrels have been contributed and shipped to England. The committee has permits from the British government for shipment up to 5,000 barrels.

To the Head of an Important Enterprise Interested in High Grade Executive Material

From an Applicant Unusually Qualified, with a Record of Success Already Achieved, Who Seeks Opportunity in a Larger Field.

Release from my duties as an infantry officer enables me to make a fresh start in business.

The board of directors of the concern from the executive force of which, shortly following a promotion, I went a year ago into the army, declined to accept my resignation and granted me an indefinite leave of absence. Reinstatement and strong assurance of continued advancement await my return.

But the field of that enterprise is comparatively restricted, and I earnestly desire a beginner's chance in some undertaking of larger ultimate possibilities—and am prepared to make all necessary sacrifices to that end.

I believe I can convince you of my right to claim the following qualifications:

a. A high grade of intelligence, character and general education.
b. A demonstrated capacity to deal successfully with novel conditions and to do constructive work in pioneer undertakings.
c. Five years of successful experience as an assistant in the management of wholesale selling in the national market and to some extent in export trade.
d. A similar successful experience in organizing producers for co-operative effort.
e. Thorough legal training.
f. An unusual capacity for hard work.
g. The temperamental trait of enthusiasm for the job in hand.

Will you give me an interview? If so, please address D 825 Times Annex.

WOUNDED MARINES MAY STAY ON ROLLS

Gen. Barnett Will Seek Change of Regulation Discharging Men No Longer Able to Fight.

HAS SUPPORT OF DANIELS

Corps Commandant Tells of Work Done in France—Praises Gen. Harbord.

General George Barnett, the Major General Commandant of the United States Marine Corps, who went to Europe two and one-half months ago to inspect the marines who fought at Château-Thierry, and in other battles as combatant units of the Second American Division, was among the arrivals on the transport Leviathan yesterday. For a part of the time that he was in France General Barnett was ill but he has about recovered. He left for Washington yesterday afternoon.

Now that the war of actual fighting was ended, General Barnett said, a matter of first importance to which he would give his immediate attention would be the future status of marines who were wounded in action. He intended, he added, to see that every chance was given to every marine, no matter how badly wounded, to remain in the service of the country, as a member of the marines if possible.

"Ordinarily," said General Barnett, "the regulations which govern in such case call for the examination of the wounded man and if he is found to be unfit for further service to discharge him. I don't want to follow that regulation in the case of my own brave boys, so it is our intention to use every wounded man we can in the Marine Corps. If we find we cannot place him in our own marine units or establishments we expect to place him in navy yards or other establishments under navy control, where opportunities are offered for his employment.

"For instance, suppose that a marine has lost a leg and that man is a mechanic. In such cases we expect to place him in a navy yard as a mechanic. If he has lost both legs that is no reason why he cannot be made a first-class office man and retained as such. These brave fellows who have cheerfully given an arm or a leg or perhaps both to their country are entitled to anything I can do for them, and I intend to do it. If legislation is necessary to accomplish the purpose we shall ask for it, and I have no doubt that it will be acted upon favorably. I may add that Secretary Daniels shares these views with me.

"I saw our wounded marines in France, and many of them came home on the Leviathan with me. They are the most cheerful, optimistic lot of fellows I ever saw. One poor chap who had lost a leg was talking to me. Was he grieving over the loss of that leg? Not at all. He said he was proud and lucky, and called attention to the fact that he might have lost his eyesight, and how much worse, he added, that would have been."

General Barnett was asked if he was in a position to indicate the total casualties suffered by the marines in France.

"I am not in a position," he said, "to answer that question now. I may say, however, that we sent ten replacement divisions to France before hostilities ceased."

"How about General Harbord, the regular army officer, who commanded the marines at Château-Thierry?" General Barnett was asked.

"I am delighted to answer that question. General Harbord is one of the finest marines I have ever known, and I have known all of them for more than thirty years. General Harbord told me that one of the proudest memories of his career will be his command of the marine regiments of the 2d Division. He referred to the fact that when he relinquished command General Neville of the marines pinned the insignia of our corps upon him.

"And I want to say that the marines are crazy about Harbord. And please add that what I have to say about the marines who are of the 3d Division also applies to the regular army units in that command, which are the 9th and 23d Regiments of Infantry and the 17th Field Artillery. No better comrades ever lived than these regulars. The 9th Infantry, I may recall, fought with the marines in China during the Boxer troubles."

General Barnett referred to a statement made by a famous French statesman whose name he did not divulge. This man named as the four great moments of the war the First and Second Battles of the Marne, Château-Thierry and a fourth incident which General Barnett did not recall yesterday. It was at Château-Thierry that the marines under Harbord, halted the German drive toward Paris.

"What in your opinion is the great lesson o fthe war for the United States? General Barnett was asked.

"Military training," he replied, "and by that I do not necessarily mean universal service. I mean unversal training."

General Barnett said he was in Paris on Nov. 11 when the armistice went into effect, and referring to the German guns that were mounted as trophies in the Place de la Concorde said that the children took the guns and dragged them all over Paris. "Some of them had not been returned when I left," he added.

General Barnett said that he would recommend that the peace strength of the marines ge fixed at 30,000 men. The present strength of the corps is 78,700 officers and men.

General Barnett said the Marine brigades which are on German soil are commanded y Brig. Gens. Wendell C. Neville and Levi K. Cole. Neville commanded at Vera Cruz in 1914.

"Did you see any of the prisoners returned from Germany after the armistice was signed?" General Barnett was asked.

"Yes," he replied, "I saw a great many of the French prisoners. They were emaciated, hungry, pale, and in rags. Nothing could have been more pathetic.

"How about the marine prisoners?"

"The number of marines captured by the Germans was so small that it really didn't count. I did not see these men after they were returned to us."

General Barnett said there was no indication at present as to when any of the marine units would be returned to the United States. General Barnett was accompanied by Mrs. Barnett and his aid, Lieutenant H. C. Nachtrieb.

JEWS SEEK HEARING AT THE PEACE TABLE

Their Congress Delegates to Versailles to Ask for Full Political Rights.

CENTRAL BODY ADVOCATED

Resolution for Permanent Conclave Presented—Nationalization in Russia Urged.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—Plans are being made in the American Jewish Congress meeting here to send to Versailles a delegation of Jews to present at the Peace Conference the claims of the Jews for full civil and political rights in all lands. The delegation will probably consist of five or six members, and among these mentioned as possible delegates are Judge Julian W. Mack, President of the congress; Louis Marshall, Adolph Kraus, Grand Master of the Order B'nai B'rith; Colonel Harry Cutler of Providence, Professor Isaac A. Hourwich, Chaim Zhitlovsky, and Dr. N. Syrkin.

If a resolution proposed today by Abraham S. Schomer, a playwright, is passed on favorably the present congress will call into being at an early moment a permanent international Jewish congress, which will function along the lines of the American Congress and which will represent and act for the Jews of the world. Mr. Schomer's motion read:

"Resolved, That the American Jewish Congress shall call into being a permanent international or universal Jewish congress, with executive officers, to represent and act for the whole Jewish people."

The measure was referred to the Committee on Resolutions.

The business at the congress is done through a system of committees. Two years ago sub-committees were appointed to make reports on various phases of Jewish life in many countries. Voluminous reports have been drawn up, and these are being submitted to the congress. The work of preparing proper resolutions briefly embodying the substance of the reports is in the hands of newly appointed committees. Some of these are expected to report today.

Appointment of Delegates.

Regarding the delegation to the Peace Conference, Judge Mack said that it would be appointed by the congress, and denied a report that he would choose the delegates, saying he had no such power. Reference to the delegation to Europe was also made today in the following recommendation concerning Palestine submitted by Dr. Harry Friedenwald, Chairman of the Committee on Palestine:

"It is recommended that the American Jewish Congress shall instruct its delegates to Europe to give their unqualified co-operation to the representations of the world Zionist organization in their efforts to achieve the realization of the Zionist aims for a Jewish State in Palestine."

Louis Marshall read a letter from the Polish National Department and the Polish National Defense Committee, renewing its recent request for the appointment of a committee of six—two Jews, two Poles, and two other Americans—to go to Poland to investigate the true state of affairs in connection with the reports of pogroms against Jews there. Too much reliance should not be placed on promises, said Mr. Marshall, pointing out that the Jews would receive more stable guarantees at the peace table.

Professor Hourwich, in the report he presented on behalf of the commission on Russia, embodied a statement prepared by Mr. M. Dubnov, a Russian Jewish historian. In the section called "How do the Jews want to be organized in the future?" Mr. Dubnov declared that the Jewry in Russia must be recognized as a nation; that the Jews in Russia wanted no territorial autonomy but only "personal" or communal autonomy, and, among other things, "the right of the Jewish population to the use of its mother tongue in legal instruments throughout the country as well as in the public institutions of those sections where the Jewish populations constitute a considerable part of the general population."

Nationalization in Rubsia.

In submitting the report Dr. Hourwich said that the Jews in Russia wanted recognition as a nationality with a minority representation in the Government. As a precedent he pointed to the relation of India to Great Britain.

A resolution of fealty to the President, proposed by Otto Irving Wise, was passed. Leo Wolfsohn of New York urged that the Allies at the Peace Conference make sure that the Jews of Rumania should have full civil, political, and religious rights.

Jacob H. Schiff was elected Treasurer of the Congress. The following Vice Presidents were elected: Louis Marshall, Colonel Harry Cutler, Judge Hugo Pam, Leon Sanders, Dr. Harry Friedenwald, Adoph Kraus, Cedalia Buelick, Miss Henrietta Szold, Dr. Louis S. Robinson, Dr. M. Margolies, Professor Chaim Fineman, and Alexander Kahn.

A resolution calling for the proceeding to be reported by the secretaries in Yiddish and Hebrew, as well as English, precipitated an hour's heated argument at the morning session. There was some question as to a city ordinance forbidding proceedings in any language but English. It was finally learned that the ordinance merely prohibited proceedings in German, whereupon one of the members declared that Yiddish was 92 per cent. German. A vigorous protest from the Yiddish delegation followed, but it was finally decided to report the convention's proceedings in Yiddish, Hebrew, and English.

The following committee Chairmen were chosen today: Palestine, Dr. Harry Friedenwald; Nominations, Louis Lipsky; New Slavic Lands, Dr. N. Syrkin; Galicia, Professor Max Margolies; Ways and Means, Samuel Rothenberg; Resolutions, Max Schulman; Russia, Lithuania, and Ukraine, Professor Israel Fridlander; Poland, Louis Marshall, Chairman.

The Secretaries of the convention are Bernard G. Richards, Max L. Hollander, Martin O. Levy, Isaac Allen, William Edlin, and Max Pine.

LOUIS MARSHALL EXPLAINS.

Did Not Indorse Making Political State Out of Palestine.

Louis Marshall, who spoke at the Jewish Congress which opened its sessions in Philadelphia on Sunday, made the following statement last night:

"The report of my remarks at the Jewish Congress held at Philadelphia, as published in today's newspapers, is inaccurate. I did not, as has been claimed, assert that I favored the project of making a political State out of Palestine, or that I had become a Zionist. What I said was that the Palestinian question was no longer a mooted but a settled one; that the principles of the Balfour declaration having been adopted by England, France, Italy, Serbia, and Belgium, and having enlisted the sympathetic interest of President Wilson, there could be no doubt that the Peace Conference would embody them in the final formulation of the treaty which would settle the destinies of the world.

"The conditions of the declaration that 'nothing shall be done which may prejudice the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities in Palestine or the rights and political status enjoyed by Jews in any other country' must be regarded a component part of it. How the purposes of the declaration are to be accomplished is as yet difficult to prophesy. It would probably be by conferring a measure of home rule under the protectorate of one or more of the great powers. Every Jew would rejoice in the rehabilitation of the land of our fathers, and the development of the religious, spiritual, and economic life of those who might choose to make their homes in the Holy Land freed from all restrictions and hindrances."

DRAMA

By John Corbin

A French Tragedy and Comedy.

LES CAPRICES DE MARIANNE, a tragedy in two acts, by Alfred de Musset; LE PARDEAU DE LA LIBERTE, a comedy in one act, by Tristan Bernard. At Theatre du Vieux Colombier.

It was the afterpiece that made the chief impression last night at the Vieux Colombier—a Théâtre de L'Oeuvre farce in one act by Tristan Bernard, author of "Le Petit Café." And, curiously enough, it was a farce without plot, without action, and almost without dialogue. It was, in fact, a farce of soliloquy mainly—into which the entrance of a second person came like an irruption. No one but a Frenchman, master of the conventional farce of multiudinous inventions and rapid-fire encounters, could get away with a farce like that.

Chamboiln is out of work, out of money—and has lately been turned out of his lodgings. He is out of everything, in fact, except loquacious confidences to the audience. He attempts the amenities of a park bench, and decides to get himself arrested and lodge in jail. He lays the most elaborate plans, only to find that the officers of the law pass him indulgently by. He returns in despair to the bench. Then he falls heir to a small fortune—blossoms into frock-coated prosperity—and is clapped into jail for six months as the result of a student row, with which he has nothing to do.

It is a disquisitional farce, a farce of mordant observation and philosophic irony. Romain Bouquet is an admirable Chamboiln, lazy, loquacious, shrewd, and subtle. As two policemen, Robert Casa and Marcel Millet proved themselves character actors of great simplicity and address, and of irresisting comic force.

"Les Caprices de Marianne" is the most famous of the little masterpieces in comedy of Alfred de Musset, and its heroine is the most witty, spirited, and amiable of the women of his theatre. The play unfortunately suffered last night from having its many scenes acted upon what students of the mediaeval drama call a multiple stage. Things occurred everywhere and nowhere. But the fatal defect was the actress cast for Marianne.

The Claudio of Louis Jouvet was far more happy in its humoresque oddities than its moments of sinister truculence. Jean Sarment was a manly and forthright Octave, somewhat lacking in unction.

MARY GARDEN RETURNS.

She Sang in Paris Street for Soldiers in Celebration of Armistice.

Miss Mary Garden, the American operatic soprano, returned from France yesterday on the Lorraine, looking much thinner and quite ready to start rehearsals of "Gismonda," by Henri Fevrier, a French composer, who was also a passenger on the liner.

She said that she had been idle in Paris all Summer, except for a trip to Monte Carlo to spend a little loose change. On the night of the signing of the armistice Miss Garden was recognized in the Place Concorde by some American soldiers, who asked her to sing them a song, and she did, to the accompaniment of a zither well played by a Chasseur Alpin. She said that the new opera is to be produced by the Chicago Grand Opera Company at the Lexington Opera House here for the first time. The author is the composer of "Monna Vanna."

M. Fevrier said that he had fought in the army through the war and had obtained two months' leave to come to New York to attend the production of "Gismonda."

BLANCHE BATES AT PALACE.

In Aid of the Red Cross, She Appears in "The World Mother."

Red Cross Week is being signalized at the Palace this week by the addition to the program of "The World Mother," a Red Cross playlet, acted by Blanche Bates, Cathleen Nesbitt, Ernest Lawford, and others. All concerned with the production, including the players, are giving their services for the occasion, and the entire proceeds go to the Red Cross.

The little piece proved to be a not very profound exposition of the meaning and value of the Red Cross, set in London during an air raid and having to do with the helplessness of four struggling human beings when confronted suddenly with an emergency in the shape of a wounded boy. Into their sordid lives there comes the figure of the Red Cross, who administers first aid to the boy and then awakens the four to their war responsibilities. The authors of the play are John Murray Anderson and Anne Wynn O'Ryan, and their sketch promises to do its share in the week's work.

Among others on the new Palace bill are Chic Sale, Annette Kellermann, and Blanche Ring.

"Marouf" Sung at Metropolitan.

Henri Rabaud's "Marouf" opened the sixth week of the opera season at the Metropolitan last night. In the cast were Mmes. Alda and Howard, Mr. De Luca, and others, and Mr. Monteux conducted.

Maria Winetzkaja in Songs.

Maria Winetzkaja, mezzo-soprano, sang songs in English, French, Italian, and Russian at her recital in Aeolian Hall last evening. She gave an air from Tschaikovsky's "Jeanne d'Arc" and songs by local composers, including Homer Bartlett, Kurt Schindler, and her accompanist, Richard Hageman.

Pianist Gives Recital of His Works.

Louis James Boulter, an English composer and pianist, heard last season, gave a recital of his works yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall. There were nine compositions, including a "Dance of the Iroquois," all written during the year in America.

On Fifth Avenue, Wednesday Evening

23d Street to 60th Street

Everybody invited. 50 Bands. 30 Societies in costume. Come in your fanciest fancy costume (no masks allowed).

The Avenue will be closed to vehicle traffic.

Wonderful Pageant forms near Washington Square and marches north at 7:30.

The various societies will thereby reach their respective blocks simultaneously. The Caledonians will have pipers; the Russians an accordion band; the Norwegians their Turn Society with acrobatic feats; the Chinese will be in native costume; there will be the Elks, Artists and Illustrators Society, theatrical features, Army and Navy detachments, etc., etc. Space precludes mentioning more.

Everybody will have a chance to dance. Come whether you can dance or not. This is the most remarkable Christmas Party ever held—and held for the Red Cross Christmas Roll Call.

Come and have the time of your life. No confetti, no ticklers—they are not needed for a good time and they will not be allowed.

The Police sirens will sound the invitation at 5 P. M. Wednesday if the weather is suitable. If the weather is inclement the party will be postponed from night to night. Listen for the sirens at 5 o'clock.

WHY MUST RUSSIA STARVE?

Several months ago the Allies had to make a choice about action in Russia. They could go in or stay out; either course involved drawbacks and disadvantages. They chose, THE TIMES thinks wisely, to go in, because it was essential to stop the German march to the East, because they could not allow an allied army, the Czechoslovaks, to be cut off by the Bolsheviki and their German-Magyar associates, because they wanted to put the Russian people on their feet and give them a chance to develop a government of their own choice. So the Allies went in, and the expected and discounted disadvantages appeared. Certain sections of Russian opinion, duly inflamed by the enemy, reflected distrust of our motives, and the Bolshevist Government declared war. All of this was foreseen when the decision was made; we knew that these things would follow, we judged the good to be accomplished was worth while.

In view of this, it is hard to see why the allied Governments have so far followed a course which brings all the disadvantages of both alternatives with the benefits of neither. We went in with force enough to make all the trouble possible, but not with enough to give Russia a chance to save herself. We have saved Siberia, but we have had to abandon the Volga front, and the Russian democrats there have been massacred by the Bolsheviki who came in on the heels of our retreating forces. Having entered Russia for a purpose, why not carry out that purpose?

Dispatches from Washington published on Sunday indicated that food and merchandise were to be shipped into all parts of Russia under allied control. But it was admitted that at present there was no possibility of extending aid to Petrograd and other parts of Northern Russia now under control of the Bolsheviki or German agents. The reason why we cannot send food to these districts is plain enough; anything sent in would be seized by the Lenine Government and distributed to the armies of that Government first, then to its civilian supporters; our friends and the friends of Russian democracy would be left to starve.

There is an alternative to this, which is to start a real movement to drive the Bolsheviki out. PAUL MILYUKOFF, arriving at Constantinople from Odessa to give personal disproof to the Bolshevist story that he had gone over to the Germans, asks for an allied army in Southern Russia. The allied fleets hold the Black Sea ports; marines have apparently been disembarked to keep order in these towns, but no one has gone inland. Out of gunshot of the water the cause of the Allies and of Russian democracy depends on DENIKIN'S little army, which MILYUKOFF says is not strong enough. The same word comes from Vladivostok, where General OTANI, commander of the allied troops in the Far East, told Mr. ACKERMAN that the allied armies must remain until the Russians can themselves build up an army strong enough to keep order. The presence of a foreign army is usually an irritation; the irritation is there now; we can remove it if we reinforce our armies and do something that will make it safe to withdraw them later. The Washington dispatch indicated that the supplies spoken of would be distributed in the rear of the Army of Occupation, which at present holds only Siberia and a small area around Archangel. Fighting conditions there are hard in Winter, but the opening of the Black Sea gives a new and easier road to Moscow. It seems that allied troops might be used with some profit against the only de facto Government still in a state of active war against us.

Unless we drive the Bolsheviki out of Petrograd and Moscow the population of the bulk of Great Russia will have a Winter of starvation. If we send in food now, it will mean that our friends starve while our enemies have plenty; if we follow the course apparently determined on and send nothing, they will all starve; if we send in enough men to upset the Bolshevist Government of criminals, which appears to be thriving on our inaction, we can relieve Russia. Not so very long ago travelers reported that Petrograd had been reduced to a fourth of its former population, and that the misery there was indescribable. Sooner or later we shall have to do something with the Bolsheviki. We cannot leave them to continue their rule of murder unchecked; we cannot expect the starved, disarmed, and terrorized population of Russia to overthrow them unaided. We shall have to do it some time; and if we wait another year we shall recover only cities of the dead.

NEUTRALS AND THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

No doubt some of the addresses of greeting and approbation which President WILSON is receiving from various sources in the European neutral countries are an expression of the natural tendency to rush to the support of the winning side. But a very great part is undoubtedly sincere, and in large measure this feeling must be ascribed to the President's prominence in the advocacy of a League of Nations. A strong and inclusive league would bring certain apparent hazards to some of the small nations included in it; if such a league had existed in 1914, for instance, Holland and the Scandinavian countries would have been bound to rush to the defense of Belgium, with an excellent chance of undergoing Belgium's fate. But obviously enough no nation, not even the Germany of 1914, would have dared to challenge such a league; if the Germans could have foreseen that not only England and Japan, but Italy, America, and Brazil would ultimately be numbered among their enemies, they would never have started the war.

If a revived Germany—or, what is even more improbable, another nation inspired by the spirit which has pervaded Germany in the last half century—should trouble the peace of a leagued world, the other Powers would be banded against it from the outset; its career would be run much more swiftly. The neutrals have suffered greatly in this long war; even those whose official attitude seemed to favor Germany have suffered much at her hands. A League of Nations offers them much hope with comparatively slight risk, and the national talents of the smaller European peoples would find valuable expression in the workings of an international society.

FOOLING THE PEOPLE.

The announcement of the lower telephone rates may be associated either with the discovery which makes possible the multiplication of simultaneous messages or with the tendency of several Government departments to promote Government ownership and operation as a political issue. So far as the reduction is economically justified it is welcome. So far as the reduction turns that boon into a presumption upon the merits of the question of policy involved it should be unwelcome and may turn out costly. It is, naturally, an appeal to popular favor and to the electorate, and so reinforces the argument previously made that it was not desirable that Government employés should be so numerous as to have power to settle wage questions as political questions. To have millions of Government employés added to the other millions interested in railway and wire rates, not to mention still other multitudes having financial interests in other forms of Government ownership, would be to make it impossible to appeal to the electorate on the merits of any question concerning those services. Government ownership might be approved at the polls even though it piled great burdens of cost on the taxpayer while giving to the public an inferior service, such as is rendered under Government operation in Europe.

Competition between private agencies is now in disfavor, whereas it once was compulsory by law. Instead of private competition there is now set up competition between departments of Government, the Treasury being manoeuvred into position to bear the brunt of experiments less clear in their results than the promises which are made in their behalf. Postal parcel rates and express rates are in conflict as clearly as telegraph rates and telephone rates, and rival departments are multiplying services and cutting rates as zealously as private agencies ever did. There was a limit to uneconomic competition between private agencies, but there is none to the competition of Government departments save the solvency of the Treasury. Director General MCADOO, although he raised rates prodigiously, has incurred a deficit which dwarfs the Post Office deficit, but the Post Office may come out ahead with the aid of the loss incurred in the wire services. When the deficits are realized they will be hidden in the accounts, or they will be minimized with the appeal to look at the cheapness of the services. There are millions who do not realize that they pay taxes, and there are other millions who openly seek to put their taxes on others. Thus ethics and economics become so entangled that there is little of clear thinking about either, and political questions become appeals to an interested body of voters who should be judges of detached sentiment.

The President is overseas and his mind is not known, or, so far as it is known, it is adverse to the venture rapidly becoming foremost in popular appeals. He has explicitly said so regarding the railway question. Yet Mr. MCADOO claims the President's sympathy with the proposal for a five-year experiment with the railways. The Federal Trade Commission assumes the President's approval for its policy of administering the meat trade, although all that is known generally is that the commission's report resulted in no action by the President during the months in which the report was before him. The Post Office is assuming the President's support for Government ownership experiments without any warrant known to the people beyond the President's loyalty to the department chiefs. Worst of all, the party which was rebuked in the recent election, and which cannot be said to have any mandate on the subject, is forestalling action by its successor, equally without mandate. Thus a question hardly second to any other since peace was reached is in danger of being decided by default, or at least of receiving an impulse from servants of the people who have never consulted their masters.

THE RED CROSS ROLL CALL.

The war is over, but the activities of the Red Cross go on forever. Its work is never done. It is enlisted for the unending campaign to succor distressed humanity, and there is no discharge. The appeal now being made for new membership and for Christmas contributions by old members should not be viewed as distinctively an appeal associated with the war whose clash of arms has ceased. To so regard it might be to dull desire to give. That should be instinctive.

Multiply a thousand times the suffering caused by a famine, a flood, a conflagration in a period of peace, and you have an idea of the appalling conditions which it is now the duty of the Red Cross to relieve. In the countries that have been devastated by the war, the sick, wounded, homeless, and helpless, lacking medicines and nursing, lacking shelter and warmth, lacking even food to support life, are such a host that they cannot be saved and sustained unless the Red Cross supplements the work of Government agencies. "The Red Cross," said Mrs. AUGUST BELMONT at the Metropolitan Opera House meeting, "is taking care of and helping at the "present time 200,000 families of men "on the other side each month." The bread ration in Italy has been reduced to three pounds a week and the meat ration to two pounds a month, according to General EMILIO GUGLIELMOTTI, head of the Italian Mission to this country, who has made this statement "to show you how much anything the "Red Cross can do for Italy, or any "other of the allied nations stricken "by the war, will be appreciated."

The war has not ended for these people in the sense that they have even begun to enjoy the blessings of peace and civilization. Myriads of them will die from hunger, privation, and sickness unless Americans answer the Red Cross Christmas Roll Call with money as well as voice: "Here!" with sums of from one to one hundred dollars, according to the degrees of their membership. The millions who have already "joined" the Red Cross will desire to renew their subscriptions, and those (can there be a great many?) who have not already volunteered will do so now, unless they are unmoved by the spirit of Vice President MARSHALL'S invocation:

> I have discovered that no man or woman who has given his or her life in the defense of a great cause has ever died or can ever die, but any man or any woman who can subscribe to the Red Cross and become an annual member and does not do so is dead.

The United States has a population of more than a hundred millions. Mr. MARSHALL declares that the people of the United States and the members of the Red Cross should be "interchangeable terms." Nothing is simpler. All are not capable of joining the society of mercy, but every man or woman with the will and the means to make more than an individual subscription can present the name of some one else, a child or an adult, with the qualifying dollar. It is a beautiful custom, and to it the Red Cross has been indebted for no inconsiderable part of the funds previously raised. Let us give for others as well as for ourselves, that all America shall answer the Christmas Roll Call.

Christmas without a gift to the Red Cross that comes from the heart! Who will be delinquent, who will not move up into the shining ranks?

PORTUGAL'S PRESIDENT.

SIDONIO PAES, elected President of Portugal for four years in June, and now the victim of an assassin, enjoyed his honors for too brief a season. Out of the bitterness of political exile, the clash of parties, reaction and radicalism, fervor of monarchist and revolutionist, laborite and anarchist, it is hard for the foreign observer to make out the truth of the political situation of Portugal in the last eight years. In 1910 the monarchy fell. The first beneficiary of the change was the Democratic Party.

The word "Democrat" covers a multitude of meanings and of sins. The Portuguese Democrats drove out or imprisoned their adversaries, Royalist or Liberal, mistreated their prisoners, gagged the press. They set up Dr. MACHADO as President, Dr. COSTA as Premier, filled the civil service, the courts, the universities, the army with acrid politics; their opponents said, with corruption. Into a country of faithful Catholics they introduced an intolerant persecution of the Church. In short, they imitated the "logical" and unhappy methods of dividing national unity which Mr. COMBES had followed in France.

Of course, Royalist conspiracy or intrigue gave them their cue. Moreover, the Republicans were split into cliques and factions. Thus the Democrats were able to say that they stood for the Revolution, that they stood between Reaction and Anarchy. It is to their credit that the Costa Government, alone among Portuguese Ministries, in a nation of unfavorable balance sheets, paid its way, proportioned appropriations to revenue; but it seemed resolved to keep in office permanently, to give the Opposition no chance. Parliamentary government broke down. COSTA got out. MACHADO, a sort of crafty Numa Roumestan, came in. One of the most active of the Revolutionists, he had a good prospect of continuing in power as the Lloyd George of a coalition.

The war changed everything. The Reactionaries, finance, the Church, the Conservatives, most of the Royalists, bet on the Central Powers. The Democrats were for instant intervention in behalf of the Entente. MACHADO'S Coalition fell. The President, ARRIAGA, was a pacifist. He and the neutralists utilized a mutiny of army officers in Lisbon to subvert constitutional government and set up a military, pro-German dictator, PIMENTO DE CASTRA. How the Democrats drove him Berlinward in the Spring of '15; how MACHADO succeeded ARRIAGA; how the Democrats got ready for war; how war was declared in March, 1916; how in December, 1917, the Government was overthrown and SIDONIO PAES brought to power—this is the story that must precede any account of the statesman whom Portugal has lost in his prime. He maintained order. He revised the Law of Separation so that the Church was no more the servant of the State, and he held out hope of a renewal of the Concordat with Rome, of the restoration of Church property, of the revival of the Portuguese Legation at the Vatican, of subvention for religious education. He enlarged the franchise to all male citizens over 21. He looked carefully to the production and distribution of food. The June elections destroyed the argument against the unconstitutionality of his Administration. He founded the National Republican Party, as a party of order and conservation. While the Royalist support of him was often brought against him, his was a party and an Administration of young men. "Liberty, toleration, and respect for religious and political beliefs," that was his program. Among the vivid personalities of the fierce Roman politics of Portugal he deserves to be well remembered.

EACH CAN DO HIS SHARE.

The first response to the appeal for the Hundred Neediest Cases has been gratifying, but it must be remembered that Christmas is close at hand and that the money for the relief of the necessities of the families on the list must be raised in a somewhat shorter time than was allotted last year. Moreover, the increase in the cost of living has made it necessary to provide a larger sum of money than would have been necessary a year ago to meet the same needs. It is this very increase in the cost of the necessaries of life which has been responsible for the temporary lapse into dependency of some of the families on the list, which would have been able to keep up the struggle under price conditions as they were a few years ago. Until these families can be relieved and made ready to resume their places among the producers no man who has profited by the higher wages which have accompanied the higher prices should be able to feel at ease.

Last year the total number of contributors was something more than 3,500. Some gifts were large, some small, but all expressed the same spirit. The stories of the unfortunates which have been published indicate conditions which should make instant appeal alike to the wealthy and to those whose circumstances are straitened. The work of setting these victims of circumstance on their feet is one in which everybody not only can but should take part.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Bolshevism Well Defined.

One doesn't have to have been a particularly "close student of Russian affairs," as Professor J. B. LANDFIELD, now of Binghamton and formerly in the Faculty of the University of California, is said to be, to agree perfectly with his definition of Bolshevism. "It is not," he says, "a political system, but a social disease—an opportunity for the criminal elements to glut their appetites for robbery and murder."

Possibly not quite everybody who makes profession of Bolshevism is looking for a chance to steal and kill, just as not every theorist who claims to believe in "philosophic anarchy," a cult so closely related to Bolshevism as to be practically indistinguishable from it—out of books—yearns to throw bombs at his neighbors with savings bank accounts. These exceptions, however, are in both cases so few as to be negligible, and Professor LANDFIELD'S definition is well justified by Bolshevism wherever it can be seen in action. All the world knows what it has done in Russia, and the German Bolsheviki are own brothers of LENINE and TROTZKY. To see that it is only necessary to read the demands that have just been formulated by the Spartacides in Berlin.

He Risks His Own Exclusion.

Dr. LIEBKNECHT and his friends do not want much—only to deprive of all fundamental human rights everybody except a single class, the proletariat. Just what the doctor thinks will happen to himself when this is done is not clear, for he is not a proletarian in any ordinary or known sense of that word, but one of the parasitical creatures who live otherwise than by manual labor. If he ever did labor of that kind it was a long time ago. Since then, as now, he and the other agitators like him have been talkers, not producers, and under the new régime he would find much difficulty in establishing his claim to a share in the property he proposes to take away from the capitalists. He would, that is, if there were in Bolshevism any such thing as consistency, which of course there isn't.

Happenings in Russia, however, should have warned him that there is among Bolsheviki an irresistible tendency to turn on each other as soon as differences of opinion make their inevitable appearance, and the fact that they have been united in the task of tearing down the social structure is far from proving that they will be united in building a new one. Democracy they hate even more than the old autocracies, parliaments as much as the police, and their armies are not to have even a Sergeant to coerce the privates! That private fortunes must not be larger seems right to an irresponsible committee, but nothing is said about the amounts of confiscated wealth which the more adroit beneficiaries of the new dispensation shall salt away in the banks of countries where banks still pay depositors instead of the first "tovarish" that comes along with a gun. That little point, wisely enough, is left unsettled in the Bolshevist program of Germany as it was in Russia.

One Way Is Best, But Whose?

Long-distance advice has not been asked by the commanders who are holding the three great bridgeheads across the Rhine, and criticism of their acts from far away is likely to be unjust because not based on full knowledge of the facts. After that has been admitted, however, it is perhaps permitted in all modesty to wonder why, before the Belgian, British, French, and American commanders in the occupied districts went to their several posts, they did not meet and agree on the way in which the German inhabitants should be treated and controlled.

The situation in each sector is the same, and while there may be more than one good way to perform the delicate task of governing a conquered people that does not yet realize the extent and thoroughness of its defeat, certainly there is only one best way of doing it.

Evidently no such meeting was held and no such agreement was reached. The Belgians, British, and French, for reasons not at all mysterious, tend to be severe masters, but they yield to the tendency in rather widely varying degrees. The Americans, on the other hand, seem to be less mindful of what the Germans did in the days when they did what they chose, instead of what they were told. That method may be wise, but if it is, those of the other occupationists are unwise, or at least less wise.

There exists, of course, the possibility that the Belgians, French, and British are right in thinking that the Germans do not understand kindness—that they will mistake it for weakness and abuse it. That theory is not without support in the happenings of the last four years. As Marshal FOCH is still in supreme command of all the armies, it is a little surprising that a matter of such importance as this has been left to be decided by individual opinions and temperaments; but as the Marshal is credited with knowing what to do, as well as how to do it, the surprise must not be allowed to change into astonishment, and certainly not into hasty disapproval.

Likeness Hard to Find.

Of all queer comparisons surely about the queerest is that of a paper in Rome, the Epoca, which says: "No man in Europe since NAPOLEON has been more popular than President WILSON, and none has been more beloved."

The purpose of this statement evidently is to be complimentary, and there is no excuse for doubting that the writer was sincere, but how did NAPOLEON happen to come into his mind while he was thinking of something to say about President WILSON?

In all history there are probably no two men who are more widely unlike—who earned popularity and love in ways more utterly different. As a matter of fact, too, NAPOLEON was far from popular and quite the reverse of beloved in many and large parts of Europe, and that was true from the beginning to the end of his wonderful career. By millions and millions of Europeans he was feared, and, as a natural consequence, hated. Regard for him was confined pretty closely to France.

War Reporting.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A reporter in active service for twelve years, I believe I am in position to appreciate reporting; and I consider the work of Edwin L. James the best reporting that has been done by any writer anywhere. I think his article under date of Dec. 1, from Treves, a masterpiece. ERNEST E. DALLIS.

"FUERCHTENMACHEN."

(Schumann, Op. 15.—For the children brought up on Froebel and Fable.)

Granny knitting in the chimney nook,
Little children tucked around her look.
At her cap and checkered shoulder-shawl,
Feel her dress or pull her ball,
Teasing, "Granny, Granny, tell a tale!
Tell the one you told that made us pale—
How the woman ate her daughter up—
Tell again about poor Buttercup!"

Granny twinkles and her hid old eyes
Pucker tightly for the grand surprise.
Soft the tale is told they know so well.
Soft good Granny weaves her dreadful spell;
Scared eyes open—mouths are round as O's—
What will happen everybody knows.
Granny screeches—listeners will scream!
Then it's over like a nightmare dream.
Fire will brighten, kitty purr more loud—
"Quiet, children! Johnny mustn't crowd.

"'So she cooked the broth and drank it up—
In the bottom lay her Buttercup'—
Hoo-oo-oo-oo!" This time, black as pitch—

NATION RESPONDS IN RED CROSS DRIVE

Teams All Over the Country Are Busy Recruiting New Members.

REPORT GOOD PROGRESS

But Figures for Those Enrolled Will Not Be Compiled Until Tomorrow.

The American Red Cross yesterday began its national campaign to enroll as a member of the relief organization for 1919 every citizen in the country, and thousands of volunteer workers in this city, aided by the political organizations of both parties, committees in every industry, and by societies and orders of all kinds, reported to the headquarters at 653 Fifth Avenue last night that they would be able to canvass the city thoroughly before the end of the campaign at midnight on next Monday. No count of the annual membership fees of $1 collected in this city yesterday was made at the campaign headquarters, but hereafter daily figures on the progress of the campaign will be given out.

Most of yesterday was taken up in making plans for a thorough canvass through all the available agencies and in fitting up stations and booths in all parts of the city, so that no citizen could say that the appeal to aid those stricken by the war had not been brought to his eye or to his door. Taking as their inspiration the words of Charles E. Hughes, that the name "member of the American Red Cross" and that of "American citizen" had to be "interchangeable words" if this nation were to live up to the ideals it had expressed during the war and at other critical periods of its history, hundreds of workers began their house-to-house canvass in districts already laid out by the Campaign Committee. Not a single refusal was reported, and workers said that by the end of this week only the emblem of the Red Cross on the coat would be accepted by them as a symbol of citizenship in the nation.

In preparation for the immense block party in Fifth Avenue between Washington Square and the Plaza at Fifty-ninth Street on Wednesday night that thoroughfare is already being turned into "The Avenue of Mercy," with the symbol of the organization displayed everywhere. Unlike the martial air of the street when the divisions marched down it in review as they went away to war or its military aspect during the last Liberty Loan campaign or during any of its other pageants of the last four years, the "Avenue of Mercy" will have about it a quiet and peaceful atmosphere.

Decorate "Avenue of Mercy."

The symbol of mercy is to be the predominant flag everywhere. Already many hundreds of them have been strung across from the buildings in the street, hung in orderly array on all the lamp-posts, and placed in the windows of the shops. Here and there is an American flag, but all others have been removed in deference to the symbol of the organization that the Italian General, Emilio Guglielmotti, said would be "the strongest link in the League of Nations."

Garlands of evergreens are being strung on many of the posts on the avenue in following out a general scheme of decoration to make the plea for the Red Cross an appeal to the generosity that generally abounds at this season. As part of the general scheme, too, Arches of Mercy to bridge the avenue above the traffic are being constructed at Twenty-sixth, Fortieth, Forty-second, and Fifty-eighth Streets.

Above the street levels on many of the buildings along the avenue paintings by prominent artists, depicting the spirit of sacrifice and charity of the organization, are being placed. They are interspersed with evergreens and surmounted with the expressive word of the campaign: "Give!" A committee of more than fifty artists, many of them members of the National Academy and all famous illustrators or painters, offered to make this contribution to the Red Cross for the decorations, and it was accepted.

Some of these decorations also will be placed on the Arches of Mercy with pieces of sculpture by Gaston Lachaise. All the shops along the avenue have responded to the call of the Fifth Avenue Association to decorate their windows with displays to aid in the campaign, although few of them have been opened yet. It has been suggested by the association also that, in addition to the special light effects on the street lamps, all the lights be kept burning in the stores until 11 o'clock every night during the drive, except on Wednesday, when the block party is given. Then they will be kept on until 12 o'clock. None of the expense of decorating the avenue is being borne by the Red Cross, and no money collected by the organization in membership fees is being used, because societies and the merchants have offered to make up that part of the campaign.

All along the avenue booths have been placed on the sidewalks to take the membership fees, and those who do not wish to give their money to the organization without amusement in return may go to the picture galleries between Fifty-first and Fifty-second Streets or to any of the private houses along the way where rooms have been thrown open for displays. In another booth at 409 Fifth Avenue, the citizen who refuses to yield his membership fee unless his sense of humor is excited may see Wilhelm Hohenzollern in active retreat to Holland propelled by an American army boot.

Women Begin Canvass.

The first section of the city assigned to a regiment of several hundred women for house-to-house canvass was mapped out before noon yesterday with not one refusal. This section was bounded by Fourteenth and Fifty-ninth Streets and Lexington and Seventh Avenues, and contained shops, loft buildings, factories, tenements, apartment houses, hotels, and although no figures were available, headquarters said that all the workers reported 100 per cent. enrollment.

Under the supervision of the Republican and Democratic clubs in the Assembly districts, with their official registration lists, about 15,000 volunteer workers began their intensive canvass of the city. Before the campaign started statements from political leaders of both parties were circulated in the election districts and among the workers urging all to come forward with their membership pledges if they were able to reach booths, or to await the arrival of the workers if they were not able to leave their homes.

Early in the day 100 per cent. enrollments were reported by many department stores and business houses throughout the city. A list made available by the Red Cross Campaign Committee last night follows:

Remington Typewriter Company.
Underwood Typewriter Company.
Consolidated Stock Exchange.
A. B. Leach & Co.
Abercrombie & Fitch.
Equitable Life Assurance Company.
Brokaw Brothers.

Metropolitan Trust Co.
New York County National Bank.
Hudson Safe Deposit Co.

United States Safe Deposit Co.

All of these banks and firms are now entitled to fly their honor flag on their buildings, and at the campaign headquarters it was said last night that reports from Chairmen of the sub-committees in trades and industries indicated that 100 per cent. membership enrollments would be reported today by at least 100 committees.

In announcing that it was the hope in this campaign to double the membership of the organization throughout the country the Campaign Committee here pointed out that, while the percentage of membership throughout the country was about 19 per cent., in Manhattan and New York County the membership was only 16 per cent. of the total population. To become a member of the organization, they pointed out, it is necessary to pay only a fee of $1. There are different memberships, such as sustaining, with a fee of $10; life, with a fee of $50, and patron, with a fee of $100. Payment of $2 entitles the member to a subscription to The Red Cross Magazine, and $5 is a contributing membership, but all the canvassers ask is that every citizen pay $1 to become an ordinary member of the organization.

ELIMINATES ENEMY ALIENS.

Palmer Acts with American Metal Company Stockholders.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Alien Property Custodian Palmer announced tonight the completion of an arrangement whereby all enemy interest in the American Metal Company, Limited, would be eliminated and the concern placed for five years under the control of five voting trustees. The arrangement includes sales at an early date at public auction of 34,644 shares in the company belonging to enemy aliens and the transfer of British holdings in the company, amounting to 16,736 shares, to Americans within a year.

Three of the voting trustees of the company have been named by Mr. Palmer as follows: Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey; Joseph F. Guffey of Pittsburgh, and Berthold Hochschild, Chairman of the concern's Board of Directors. After the sale of the enemy held stock the two other trustees will be appointed.

Americans now hold 18,620 shares and control the management of the corporation. The enemy shares were taken over by Mr. Palmer some time ago.

The action of the Alien Property Custodian, as was explained last night by Julian Beatty, Vice President of the American Metal Company, was taken with the co-operation of the American stockholders, who held the British stock in trust and therefore controlled 51 per cent. of the shares of the company. The enemy holdings will not be sold as shares, but in the form of voting trust certificates. This arrangement, Mr. Beatty pointed out, assured the continuance of the present American management for five years. He also said that Mr. Palmer has expressed sincere appreciation of the co-operation he has received from the American stockholders.

BURN WILSON'S MESSAGES.

Washington Suffragists Include a Copy of First Speech Abroad.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Woman Suffragists, at Lafayette Square, opposite the White House grounds, late today, burned copies of President Wilson's messages to Congress and other public utterances relating to the war. They did it to show their disappointment over what they regarded as failure of the President to force his party in Congress to put through the suffrage amendment to the Constitution.

The suffragettes marched from their headquarters soon after 4:30 o'clock, headed by Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, carrying the American flag. She was followed by Miss Vida Milholland of New York, who started the demonstration by singing the "Woman's Marseillaise," while 300 or more suffragettes surrounding the Lafayette monument joined in. After this, thirty or more of the suffragettes stepped forward to a huge caldron at the base of the monument and applied the torch, one after another, to copies of the President's messages and other utterances. Mrs. John Rogers of New York made the keynote speech before the torches were brought into play.

The Rev. Olympia Brown of Wisconsin, 84 years old, tossed into the flames President Wilson's first speech on the soil of France, in which he declared that "America has fought for France and the common cause of liberty." Others set fire to copies of the President's address at the Metropolitan Opera House in opening the Fourth Liberty Loan.

$1,159,648.90 CHECK FOR TAX

Nonresident, Unnamed, Left Stocks and Bonds of Domestic Corporations

A check for $1,159,648.90 in payment of the tax for an estate of a nonresident, whose name was not disclosed, was received yesterday by William H. Edwards, Internal Revenue Collector of the Second, or Wall Street, District. The decedent, a resident of France, owned at the time of his death stocks and bonds of domestic corporations, the tax upon which aggregated the above named amount.

"Under the present estate tax law, act of Sept. 8, 1918," Mr. Edwards said, "in the case of resident decedents, a tax must be paid within one year after death on every estate the gross amount of which is $60,000, or the net amount $50,000. Executors and beneficiaries are required to notify the Collector of the existence or such estates within thirty days after death or thirty days after letters are granted. Notification must also be given the Collector of the existence of nonresident estates. Return must be filed and tax paid on all property and securities of a domestic corporation owned by a foreign decedent at the time of death, and no transfer may be made until tax due because thereof is paid."

HONOR ANDREW D. WHITE.

Carnegie Endowment Trustees Adopt Resolution of Appreciation.

Resolutions were adopted by the Trustees of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace yesterday afternoon in appreciation of Andrew Dickson White, former President of Cornell and a former Trustee, who died in Ithaca, N. Y., on Nov. 5. The resolutions read in part:

> Legislator, educator, historian, lecturer, and author, a traveler in many lands and intimate student of many peoples, a diplomatist of forty years' experience and a civil service reformer and fearless champion of unpopular causes which he deemed eternally right, no citizen of the United States has rendered more varied or more distinguished service to his country and his countrymen, in a larger number of important fields.

The Trustees directed that the resolutions be transmitted to the family of Mr. White and entered in the Endowment's Year Book.

HOLDS WAR POWER RESTS IN CONGRESS

HOW PRESIDENT CONTROLS

Senator Sutherland Also Discusses Martial Law in States and the Habeas Corpus.

"America's New Place in the World and Its Constitutional Aspects" was further discussed last night by former United States Senator George Sutherland of Utah in the fourth of a series of eight lectures provided by the George Blumenthal Foundation at Columbia University. He spoke last night on "The War Powers, Their Nature, Basis, and Distribution," and a large audience was present in Havemeyer Hall when the speaker was introduced by Frederic R. Coudert.

Senator Sutherland, in his address, developed a novel view as to the question of martial law in the several States. He also, in opening, drew a sharp distinction between the war powers of Congress and the war powers of the President.

In part, he said:

"The framers of our Constitution concluded, and I think wisely, that such a power in the hands of a single person was not consonant with the genius and spirit of a republic such as ours. They therefore provided that Congress, and not the President, should have the sole power to declare war. But the power to wage war is given to the President alone.

"The Constitution confers no war powers upon the President as such. Whatever war powers he possesses under the Constitution—that is, without legislative authority—he has, not because he is President, but because he is Commander in Chief.

Defines Presidential Office.

"The office of President has grown in potency and influence to an extent never dreamed of by those who framed and adopted the Constitution. Even in normal times Congress has been subjected to such a degree of Executive domination as to threaten the stability of the principle of departmental independence involved in the distribution of the several powers among the three branches of government.

"There is a popular and ever-increasing disposition to regard the President as a superior officer rather than as a co-equal member of a tripartite organization. In times of public danger or disorder, this tendency is greatly accentuated, and it is under all conditions a matter for serious concern, fraught with grave suggestions of peril.

"In great crises the people not only turn to him as their natural leader, which he is, but they are coming more and more to regard him as the sole repository of their power which, very decidedly, he is not.

"With the advent of war, he is clothed by the popular imagination not only with all the imposing habiliments of military leadership, which are his by right, but with the rôle of virtual political dictatorship as well, an investment of power no President should ever be allowed to assume and a burden of responsibility no President should ever be called upon to bear.

"The advice and counsel of the President should be given great weight, but the acceptance of the President's recommendations must be the result of intelligent approval and not of blind obedience. Any other course involves a double betrayal of official trust—usurpation of power by the President and abdication of duty on the part of Congress.

Discusses Martial Law.

"The nature and extent of the power to declare and enforce martial law has, from time to time, engaged the attention of the houses of Congress and of the courts, and has received earnest consideration at the hands of distinguished legal and political writers. It is not difficult to state, in general terms, what the power is; the definition is startlingly simple.

"As already suggested, martial law is not law at all; it is simply the arbitrary will of the military commander, tempered, in practice, by a more or less humane regard for the actual necessities of the existing situation. To state, however, what circumstances will justify its application, is a more difficult task.

"No conceivable circumstances, in my judgment, can ever warrant the Governor, as Commander of the State militia, in supplanting the statutes of the State by the will of a military commander or commission, as was actually done in one of the States in recent years. If the disorder be so great that the State authorities can no longer cope with it, the remedy is to invoke the aid of the national Government, under Article IV., Section 4, of the Constitution.

"This section obliges the United States to protect each State against invasion and, when called upon, against domestic violence. In the improbable event that the situation does not yield to this power, the question of war and of martial rule will become a matter for the national, and not the State, Government to deal with.

Suspending the Habeas Corpus.

"Closely allied, and sometimes corollary, to the power to declare martial law is the power to suspend the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus. The Constitution neither guarantees this ancient writ, nor expressly provides for its suspension. As one of the great charters of English constitutional liberty, it accompanied the colonists from the Old World to the new and formed part of the common law of the various States after the success of the Revolution.

"The only provision of the national Constitution referring to the writ is that contained in the second clause of Section 9, Article 1, which provides: 'The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when in cases of revolution or invasion the public safety may require it.'

"This provision implies the existence of the writ and conclusively assumes the authority of the courts to issue it, since it necessarily involves a judicial inquiry. It will be observed, also, that the Constitution does not expressly authorize the suspension of the writ. It assumes the power and limits the occasions

AID IS COMING IN FOR NEW YORK'S NEEDIEST CASES

NEEDS GREAT THIS YEAR

One of the Hundred Families in Dire Want Already Cared For.

SENDS ANNUAL $1,000 GIFT

Isaac Guggenheim Asks That His Contribution Be Distributed Among Those Who Need It Most.

Contributions for New York's Hundred Neediest Cases yesterday amounted to $3,574.61. A total of $2,323.86 was sent directly to THE NEW YORK TIMES and the rest was received by the four charitable organizations which furnished the list of cases and are administering the fund which is raised for them. One contribution of $50 which was received for the Hundred Neediest Cases, before the appeal for them was made, brought the total to $3,624.61.

The fund must be greater this year than it has been in preceding years, if it is to accomplish the same amount of good. The increase in the cost of the necessaries of life has made itself felt nowhere more severely than in the work of relieving unfortunate families. Sudden death from disease has been more frequent this year than in any preceding year in recent times because of the ravages of influenza and pneumonia. There has never been a time when so many families which had been fairly comfortable and contented, have been plunged without warning into destitution by the loss of the breadwinner.

It took 2,891 separate gifts, most of them for small amounts, to make up the total of $62,103.47, which was received for New York's Hundred Neediest Cases last year. Some of these gifts were from clubs, schools, groups of employes and other special collections and some from soldiers and sailors, so that the total number of contributors is estimated at about 3,500. The gifts ranged in size from 10 cents to $2,000, each gift being duly acknowledged. The small gifts made up a considerable part of the total.

No one who has read the stories of the unfortunate and deserving families and individuals in the Hundred Neediest Cases and has felt an impulse to aid them should be restrained because he feels that his gift can only be a small one. Scores of those whose desperate condition was told in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday and on Sunday will get food, shelter, warmth, and medical attention this Winter through the accumulation of small contributions. One dollar or less may mean the difference between life and death in some cases.

However small or large the contribution, the utmost value will be obtained from it in the necessaries of life. No deduction is made for administrative expenses of any kind. Every cent goes to the object for which it is given and is administered without cost, by the four charitable organizations whose running expenses are met by other sources of income. There cannot be too many small contributions or large ones.

There were six gifts of $1,000 or more last year. The first in this class this year came from Isaac Guggenheim, who has been a contributor to the Hundred Neediest Cases for several years. His letter yesterday was as follows:

Dec. 16, 1918.

NEW YORK TIMES, Gentlemen:

Inclosed herewith please find my check for $1,000, as a contribution to aid your "One Hundred Neediest Cases," which I shall be pleased to have you distribute in accordance with your good judgment as evidenced heretofore. Very truly yours,

Aid from All Over.

New York City's Hundred Neediest Cases received notable aid last year from persons who did not live in this city, nor even very near it. Gifts were received from about half the States of this country, as well as from Cuba and Canada. Scores of persons from other sections on visits to this city sent contributions. This year's appeal, though first published only two days ago, has also touched persons at considerable distances. One letter received yesterday by the State Charities Aid Association came from Edmund and McNeill Tyler of Gainesville, Va., and said:

"We are two little boys and we want to help little David, so are sending him our love and a Christmas gift."

Other contributions yesterday came from Binghamton, N. Y., and Atlantic City. THE NEW YORK TIMES received six letters containing contributions from persons now in hotels, and the charitable organizations received similar letters, indicating that outsiders are going to play their part in helping as they did last year.

Case No. 55 was the only one definitely closed yesterday. This was the story of a mother who had been a long time in a hospital and had run out of money, so that she could no longer keep up payments of $3 a week to keep her boy in a boarding home and prevent his removal to an institution. Pledges were received to care for some other cases. A considerable percentage of the money was sent simply "To the Hundred Neediest" without the designation of any particular case, and this will go to cases which receive less in direct contributions. Contributions for Case No. 42 should be sent to the State Charities Aid Association. It was erroneously listed yesterday as a case of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities.

Each appeal for the Hundred Neediest Cases in past years has resulted in the adoption of manyof the orphan children whose circumstances and needs have been told. One woman telephoned to the State Charities Aid Association yesterday and offered to adopt a child. Another woman telephoned that, while she was too poor to commit herself to the adoption of a child, she would give a home to one for an indefinite period, and she asked for a child who was in need of special care.

One woman who helped a little boy named Peter in the Hundred Neediest Cases of last year telephoned to the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor that she had given the boy a Christmas box last year and that he had written her a nice letter, concluding with, "I hope you won't forget me next year." She was told that Peter did not need it this year as much as hundreds of others, because his family, which was set on its feet by gifts to the Hundred Neediest Cases last year, had prospered remarkably since that time.

What is true of this boy's family has been the history of scores of other families helped in the last six years by the contributions for the Hundred Neediest Cases. Families, which would have broken up and scattered without immediate help, have been carried through a period of misfortune and in a short time made independent and self-supporting. The Charity Organization Society's study of the progress made since last Christmas of the thirty-nine families under its charge which were benefited by the appeal for the Hundred Neediest Cases of 1917, showed that in every case but one some permanent good had been attained.

Keep Their Interest Up.

Many who have helped families and individuals who have appeared in the Hundred Neediest Cases during the last six years have kept a watchful and friendly eye on their welfare since that time. One man is now sending through college a boy in whom he became interested when the boy's condition and promise were described in an appeal by THE NEW YORK TIMES last year.

Just after Christmas in 1916, an Ensign, now a Lieutenant in the United States Navy, who read the Hundred Neediest Cases when he was at another port, went to the offices of the State Charities Aid Association when he arrived in New York, intending to help one of the children for whom the appeal was made. When he was told that all the contributions called for in their behalf had been received, he wanted to help some other child. He agreed to give $10 a month to help an ambitious orphan girl and has done so now for two years, while the girl is going through High School and Normal School to equip herself for teaching. For several months past, he has been in the waters about England and an allotment of $10 a month from his pay has been received regularly from the Government for the girl's support.

Gifts can be made for the "Hundred Neediest Cases" to THE NEW YORK TIMES direct or to the charitable organizations which selected the cases as among the neediest. Widows for whom help is asked are only those who are ineligible for State pensions. The associations reporting the cases are as follows:

GERMANS ORDERED OUT OF POLAND

ACCUSED OF AIDING REDS

Gen. Pilsudski Urges Recognition by Allies with Help in the Form of Arms.

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 16.—Poland has severed relations with Germany, according to a telegram received in Berlin from Warsaw.

As a reason for the rupture Poland accuses the German authorities in occupied provinces of acting contrary to Polish interests and working with the Bolsheviki. At the request of the Polish Government, Governor General von Beseler and the entire staff of the German mission will leave the territory of the Polish Republic.

WARSAW, Dec. 15, (via Vienna,) (Associated Press.)—The Government of Poland should be recognized by all the allied powers in order to deal properly with the situation in Poland, General Joseph Pilsudski, military head of the present Government, told the correspondent today.

General Pilsudski is opposed by some groups on the ground that he is a Socialist, but he says he is a democrat. When only 19 years old he was arrested at Vilna, in Lithuania, his birthplace, and sent to Siberia, and his persecution by the Russian Government has endeared him to many Poles. His ancestors belonged to the nobility, but his long association with those who opposed Russia has caused some prominent Poles to declare that he is unsafe to conduct the Government.

General Pilsudski, while he is the military head of the Government, signs all Government decrees and is considered the civil head also. The correspondent saw him in the villa of Belvedere in the outskirts of Warsaw, where he lives with his staff. He conducts the business of the Polish Government in a suite of magnificently furnished rooms occupied until a month ago by the German Governor, General von Beseler.

The Polish leader is a slightly built, nervous man, bent with ill health, but keeps long hours at his post. His eyes are blue and his eyebrows are heavy. One month after he returned from solitary confinement in a German prison he was able to expel the German Governor-General.

"The Government is now in a period of transition," he said. "A permanent Government will be established after the January elections to the Diet.

"I am neither a Socialist nor a Bolshevik, but a Democrat. I think the Bolshevist danger is imminent in Poland unless we are able to erect up a fence against the Russian influence.

"Let me first say how happy I am that there is a united Poland. Our independence is due entirely to the Allies, otherwise it would always have been a fiction. Now we may realize cherished ideals. Our present task is to keep peace and order while waiting the elections.

"We need an army to avoid the danger of civil war and to guarantee the frontiers against Bolshevist agents or the infiltration of German troops, particularly those from the army of General Hoffman. Those factors constitute a menace unless we get help from the Allies in the form of arms. We have some arms which were taken from the Germans when they retired.

"There are several complaints against General Hoffman's army. The first is that the Germans prevent our officers and troops, even, in civil dress, from crossing the frontier and organizing the Poles at Vilna, Minsk and elsewhere against growing disorders. In the second place the Germans are selling and giving arms to dangerous elements. It is even declared that the Germans have delivered the city of Minsk to the Bolsheviki in return for 40,000 rubles. This has resulted in much suffering for the Polish population there and the burning of houses and chateaux.

"If the army of General Hofman breaks up, there is danger that the 200,000 men in it will drift over our frontiers, robbing and causing disorders. The Germans are inciting antagonistic elements in Lithuania and are creating trouble in Posen (German Poland.) Their troops of occupation in Poland are taking an offensive attitude toward the population, with the result that I have been compelled to send troops to various places.

"It is necessary that our Government be recognized by the Allies. At present there are certain difficulties. The Polish Committee in Paris represents parties not in accord with the others here, but this internal matter is being arranged. Personally I desire a compromise. It was my intention to go to France when I was arrested by the Germans in July, 1917. France is a country I love. At that time I foresaw that Russia was sure to break up and that Austria would follow.

"I am a strong admirer of America. It was my good fortune to visit there in 1905, although it was only for a few days during a jump across the continent."

In an interview today regarding reports of anti-Jewish outbreaks in Polish territory, Noah Prilucki, a prominent Jewish member of the Municipal Council, a leader of the Jewish Nationalist Party, and a lawyer, said:

"In regard to progroms, I have knowledge that they occurred at two places, Kielce and Lemberg. Four persons were killed at Kielce and 250 wounded.

"It is stated that 900 Jews were buried in Lemberg two weeks ago. am informed they were killed by the regular Polish Army because of unfounded reports, printed in a Lemberg newspaper, that the Jews were not neutral in the fighting there."

SEMENOFF MAY DROP FEUD AGAINST KOLCHAK

Allied Diplomats and Dutoff, Ural Cossack Chief, Settling Trouble in Siberia.

VLADIVOSTOK, Dec. 12, (Associated Press.)—The differences between General Semenoff, the Russian anti-Bolshevist leader in the Chita region, and Admiral Kolchak, the supreme head of the Omsk Government, are rapidly being adjusted through the efforts of French and British diplomats and military officers and General Dutoff, Hetman of the Ural Cossacks. General Semenoff has interrupted telegraph and rail communication between Eastern and Western Siberia for more than two weeks.

General Dutoff has sent a long telegram to General Semenoff exhorting him in the name of Cossack honor not to obstruct the passage of ammunition and war material. He points out that General Semenoff has recognized the form of government and does not oppose the Government, but only Admiral Kolchak. General Dutoff says that he and all the other leaders have recognized the Government, and expresses the hope that General Semenoff "will not permit the illustrious name of Hetman Semenoff to be pronounced with a curse on our steppes."

A sanitary train, carrying clothing, medical supplies, fourteen women nurses, chiefly Americans from Honolulu and Manila, and three doctors, left here today for Omsk. It was the fourth train to be dispatched westward since the allied occupation. It was expected that the train would be several weeks on the way owing to difficulties of transit. The organization of a fifth sanitary train has been begun.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Official advices to the State Department today indicate that the anti-Bolshevist Russian troops are making progress on the Perm front.

Another report quoted from an address by Admiral Kolchak, dictator of the Government of Siberia, delivered at Omsk at a banquet in honor of St. George's Day, eulogizing President Wilson's ideals and policies. Ambassador Regnault of France stated on that occasion that France would continue to help the Russians overcome the Bolsheviki.

SOCIETY'S BUDS IN GAY MUSICAL REVUE

"Hoorah for the Girls" Jingles Merrily with Both Frivolity and War Work.

ITS DANCES FASCINATING

Only Four Men in the Cast of Bright Play Made by Three Women in Aid of Devastated France.

Society took a fling at Broadway last night in a musical revue called "Hoorah for the Girls," which the leading débutantes and their friends staged at the Forty-fourth Street Roof Theatre under the auspices of the American Committee for Devastated France. A brilliant and fashionable assembly approved the revue, whose jingling songs and fascinating dances will amuse the public for the rest of the week.

It was a novelty to see a galaxy of pretty buds and society misses in what might be termed a typical musical comedy. The professional coaches, stage settings, and costumes helped to put the entertainment on a par with a Broadway production of its kind. Those in the cast and chorus have been serious war workers, and it is almost an all-girl show, just as the war camp musical comedies have been all boys.

There were three acts and many scenes, the first opening at a country club in America where everybody was engaged in the pursuit of pleasure, absolutely oblivious of the great war over in Europe.

A bevy of society girls burst into song at the opening to the effect that society is simply great. But that was before war was declared, which announcement came after Miss Dorothy Norris had appeared in a solo dance. Then the girls made ready to forsake the frivolous and to plunge into war work. There were only four young men in the cast, and one of these, Lemuel Hangback, was cast for the slacker, which gave a pleasant opportunity for Lieutenant Fairfax Burger to show his skill as a comedian and a conjuror.

Mrs. Helen S. Woodruff wrote the book, Miss Annelu Burns the lyrics, and Miss Madelyn Sheppard was responsible for the music, in all of which much originality and charm were shown. Mrs. Donald F. Jenks raced into favor with her songs, as Mary Munnymaid, the heroine of the plot, and was ably supported by Captain Anson Clark, as Gerald Grundy, the hero.

But, like all musical shows, some one is sure to catch the popular favor, and little Miss Grace Crossman earned the first encore in Act 1 in a fetching dance that captivated the house. She is as dainty as a bit of Dresden china.

Of course there is a climber in all society revlews. Mrs. Munnymaid was there in her raspberry red gown, jewels and bad French. James D. Leary, no doubt, began his stage career in a college show, and as Mrs. Munnymaid he was very fat and very funny.

Miss Hope Williams as Flirty, Miss Abbie Morrison as Mrs. Grundy, a scandal monger, and Miss Grace Bristed as Gossip, were entertaining and clever in their rôles. Miss Rachel Littleton appeared as Society-Propriety, Mrs. Katherine Van Ingen as Flattery, Miss Rita Boker as Outspoken, and Information was Miss Evelina Gleaves. Lieutenant Frank Hale assumed the rôle of Dr. Feegrab.

A song called "The Telephone Jazz," sung by Miss Gleaves and eight society girls, won favor, and the movies were reflected in "The Cinema Queen," in which the chorus, made up of Thedas, Arbuckles, Normands, and Chaplins, prepared the way effectively for a cinema burlesque, in which Miss Grace Bristed, as Mary Pickford, was tried and convicted before a female jury.

The band from Pelham Bay enlivened the close of the second act, said somewhere in France, with a rousing patriotic finish. Victory came in for its share in the last act, in which Miss Marjorie Clayton appeared in a monologue, Miss Crossman showed her skill as a harpist, and Miss Genevieve Babbitt played the mandolin. Miss Beatrice Byrne also danced.

Silvio Hein conducted, while Frank Smithson staged the production. As the hooray girls, athletic girls, and Southern girls, the chorus of pretty girls made a pleasing and animated background. Mrs. Lewis G. Morris, Mrs. R. St. J. McClellan, and Mrs. Adrian Iselin were Captains of the ushers last night. Brief speeches are to be made each night for the cause, but no soliciting for funds. Augustus Thomas, Captain Coningsby Dawson, Myron T. Herrick, and Lieutenant Dobelle are among the speakers.

MRS. W. K. VANDERBILT BACK

Leaves Canteen Work in France with Mrs. Vincent Astor.

The French liner Lorraine arrived yesterday from Bordeaux with 500 passengers and a big Christmas mail after being delayed two days on the voyage by storms and fogs. Seas swept away a lifeboat, one raft, and portions of the rail in a hurricane at night on Dec. 5, although the ship was reduced to less than five knots' speed.

Among the first cabin passengers were Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Vincent Astor, and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who have been engaged in war work in France. Mrs. Vanderbilt said that she was on a three months' leave from her canteen work, which she will resume early next Spring. She added that there was still work to be done for the American soldiers until all left France. Mrs. Vanderbilt had 450 women in her canteen.

Mrs. Vincent Astor said that her canteen at Brest was continuing, and she would go back to France if the demobilization took a long period. Vincent Astor is still with the American patrol fleet. Mrs. Roosevelt has been in the leave areas in France, where the soldiers go for their rest periods, and has no definite plans for her return.

FRAZEE MAKES HOT REPLY TO JOHNSON

DEMANDS HIS OWN PRICE

Boston Syndicate Has Made Good Offer and He Is Willing to Sell.

The verbal combat between President Harry H. Frazee of the Boston Red Sox and Ban Johnson, the head of the American League, was resumed when Mr. Frazee got back to New York yesterday afternoon. It seems that just as soon as Frazee left Chicago, Johnson announced that Frazee would be compelled to get rid of the club because of the gambling which is alleged to have taken place at Fenway Park last Summer.

When Frazee read Johnson's statement yesterday, the result was much the same as touching a match to a keg of gunpowder. Frazee delivered a strong tirade against Johnson, during which he said that the only way he could be driven out of baseball was for Johnson to pay him the price he asked for his club.

Frazee said that a Boston syndicate had made him a good offer for his club and he was willing to sell. Johnson sent a representative to him in Chicago and asked him for a price on his baseball property and Frazee said he quoted the same price offered by the Boston syndicate.

These are only a few of the things Frazee said: "It has seemed a war of extermination on the part of Mr. Johnson ever since I bought the Boston American League Club. The statements which Mr. Johnson has made that he would drive me out of baseball are too ridiculous to dignify with an answer. I had the courtesy to give the first opportunity to purchase the club to any prospective buyer Mr. Johnson might have had."

"If Mr. Johnson has been quoted correctly in quoting a section of the league constitution relating to gambling in baseball parks, he has placed himself in a laughable position. Why, he allowed the constitution of the American League to be absolutely disregarded and torn to pieces by the Cleveland Club in their refusal to play scheduled games in St. Louis on Labor Day. The excuse offered in defense of this action was too silly to discuss.

"I cannot understand how a man in Johnson's position, who is paid a salary to protect the interests of the league, can make such a statement as this last one. It looks as if it was just to vent his spite toward me, simply because I insist on managing my own business, in which my money is invested, without being dictated to by Mr. Johnson.

"The Boston public has been loyal to me and to the Red Sox, and I do not intend to allow the Boston Club to be used as a target by Mr. Johnson simply because I cannot admit that I have the same opinion of his wonderful abilities as he has himself. Mr. Comiskey and other owners in the league have the same feeling about managing their own affairs as I have, but Mr. Johnson seems to pick me out as his particular target."

"At the meeting in Chicago," continued Mr. Frazee, "Mr. Johnson was very careful to avoid any argument with me."

Mr. Frazee stated that both he and President Comiskey of the White Sox voted against the resolution of confidence which the league passed for August Herrmann as Chairman of the National Commission. Mr. Frazee says that they voted against Herrmann not for any personal reasons, but because they were in favor of a one-man commission.

Frazee says that he did everything in his power to stamp out the betting evil at the Boston baseball park. "As to the gambling situation in Boston," said Mr. Frazee, "I regret to say that the evil exists in other baseball parks. I have done everything possible to curb it. I have had several gamblers arrested, and several others have been barred from Fenway Park. I have employed detectives, and the Boston police have lent great assistance. So did Mr. Pelletier, the Boston District Attorney. We have all tried to stamp out this evil, which I consider a menace to the great national game.

"It is too bad," said Frazee in conclusion, "that Mr. Johnson could not be as militant toward me when I was in Chicago as he is now when there are a thousand miles between us."

SPEAR TAKES LONG MATCH.

Defeats John Low in 18.2 Billiard Tournament at Broadway.

George Spear, present champion, added another victory to his record in the N. A. A. B. P. Metropolitan Class C 18.2 balk line billiard championship tournament at the Broadway Academy last night. Spear defeated John Low by a score of 150 to 129 in a long-drawn-out game. The champion required forty-nine innings to complete his string, making an average of 3 3-49, with a high run of 18. Low's highest run was 15, and he averaged 2 33-48.

The contest, although slow, was close. Spear maintained the lead from the start, but made no great advance in points on Low, who always managed to keep within at least ten tallies of the title-holder. This was the way the players held together until Spear rounded out his 100th point, when the champion improved his stroke and gradually drew away.

BOYD SKATES TO VICTORY.

Wins Half-Mile Handicap at Ice Palace in 1:25 2-5.

Al Boyd of the Palace Skating Club made good use of an eighty-yard handicap last night in a half-mile skating race held at the 181st Street Ice Palace. Aided with this allowance, Boyd managed to score a close victory over S. Rowland, a clubmate, who started with seventy-five yards allowance. Joe Moore, who started from scratch, had to be content with third laurels. The victor's time was 1:25 2-5.

In a novice race at half a mile B. Ornsteat of the Palace S. C. registered a convincing victory in 1:41. Raymond Murray, a seven-year-old ice skater, speeded about the rink for three laps, and was clocked in 1:47 2-5, eclipsing his best previous time for the distance.

The summaries:

One-half Mile Race, Handicap.—Won by A. Boyd, Palace Skating Club, (80 yards;) S. Rowland, Palace Skating Club, (75 yards,) second; J. Moore, 181st Street Ice Palace, (scratch,) third. Time—1:25 2-5.

One-half Mile Race, Novice.—Won by B. Ornsteat, Palace Skating Club; J. Engle, Palace Skating Club, second; C. Kafino, Palace Skating Club, third. Time—1:41.

La Rue Has High Run of Seven.

George La Rue made a high run record for the three-cushion carrom billiard tournament at Doyle's Academy last night when he registered a cluster of 7 points in his match against L. Bassi. La Rue won by a score of 25 to 20 in thirty-two innings. Bassi had a high run of 4.

In the English billiard tournament E. Moss defeated M. Short after a close game by a count of 250 to 236 in seventy-seven innings. Short had the highest break of the game, a cluster of 19. Moss made a high break of 18.

COBB TO QUIT BASEBALL.

Detroit Star, Back from France, Says He Is Tired of Game.

Captain Tyrus Cobb, generally conceded to be the greatest of baseball players, arrived from the other side yesterday on the Leviathan, with the gloomy tidings that he may not play ball again. Cobb went to France in the gas and chemical service. He explained that when the armistice was signed he had just finished his training and was anxious to see some real action.

Cobb, like other ball players, considers that he is a free agent, because he was released on ten days' notice last Fall. He is anxious to retire from the game now while he is at his best. Here is what Ty had to say yesterday when he landed:

"I'm going down to my home in Augusta, Ga., and rest up for several months. I intend to break away from baseball. I'm tired of it. I've had fifteen years of it, and I want to quit while I am still good. There is the danger that the fascination of the game has its hold on me, but I shall make every effort to tear away from it, and not sign with any club again.

"When I say this, I naturally presume that the release that the managers gave us last Fall, with its ten days' notice, is binding, and that I have no legal strings on me now. I hope so, at least. I've made no plans whatever ahead of my rest. I haven't a profession because I left school at 17 to play ball." Cobb declared that the war had rejuvenated baseball, and that "it's going to boom this season as it has never done before."

Declaring that the American Army has "the finest personnel on earth, with every one on his toes and wide awake every minute," Cobb said that "a lot of that can be credited to baseball and its close association to the American boy." He added that "when my youngsters grow up all three of them are going to get army training."

N. Y. A. C. MAY LIFT BAN ON ATHLETICS

Board of Governors Preparing to Restore Competitions to Pre-War Basis.

The ban which the New York A. C. placed on its athletes competing as representatives of the Mercury Foot organization in championship sports during the war will in all likelihood be lifted at the club's next annual meeting, to be held Jan. 14. This will be among the first important decisions which will be rendered by the Board of Governors selected at the meeting.

Definite action toward restoring the athletes of the club to a pre-war footing has been held in abeyance until the outcome of the Peace Conference is made known. That the wearers of the Winged Foot will be again permitted to strive for titles on track and field, in swimming and other sports, however, is almost a foregone conclusion.

When the rescinding action of the Board of Governors will become operative is a matter of conjecture. No intimation on this point has been forthcoming from the club officials. It is generally accepted, however, that there will be no restoration in time to allow the club athletes to compete for national A. A. U. indoor championships in March. This would indicate that there is little likelihood of the New York A. C.'s emblem being seen in championship competition until the outdoor season next year.

The prohibition on New York A. C. athletes participating in championship sports was issued shortly after this country declared war on Germany. The attitude was taken that it was not absolutely fair to those athletes of championship ranking who gave up everything for the purpose of serving their country in the world war to have athletes of less promising ability struggling for titles in the absence of the stars who would ordinarily have greater chances of annexing the laurels.

While the club discouraged championship ambitions in its athletes as members of the organization, it did not attempt to forbid their participation in title contests as individuals. This was left to the discretion of the athletes themselves. In this way there was no interference with the club's ideals, for in order to strive for a title it was only necessary for a Winged Foot athlete to transfer his registration with the local A. A. U. to "unattached."

PLAN FOOTBALL LEAGUE.

Brooklyn Schools to Form Organization for Better Control of Game.

Final plans for the formation of what will be known as the Brooklyn Interscholastic Football League will be acted upon at a meeting of Brooklyn's scholastic athletic officials to be held Jan. 14. The movement to organize such a league to govern schoolboy gridiron games in Brooklyn has been under way for a considerable time. It is expected that the league will be formally launched at the coming meeting.

A committee consisting of Nathan N. Dickler, Boys' High School; John Battell, Erasmus Hall High School, and John W. Cunningham of Poly Prep is now formulating plans which will be submitted to the advocates of the league at the meeting. These plans will provide for the conduct of the game under the auspices of the league, the awarding of championships annually, and other details of the sport.

The matter of awarding on annual championship has caused considerable discussion. It has been proposed that the title be awarded to the team scoring the greatest number of points for a season, the tallies to be distributed on the basis of one for a victory and half a point for a tie. This course, while not formally adopted, nevertheless has attracted approval among the organizers of the league who advocate a systematic basis of determining the champion team. The title for the season recently closed will be awarded at the coming meeting.

It is expected that seven schools will be enrolled as members of the league: These are Erasmus Hall H. S., Boys' H. S., Commercial H. S., New Utrecht H. S., Adelphia Academy, Manual Training H. S., and Poly Prep.

OUIMET TO PLAY AGAIN.

He Is Anxious to Meet Vardon and Ray in Championship Next Year.

BOSTON, Dec. 16.—Lieutenant Francis Ouimet of Boston, the Western amateur golf champion, will take part in the national open and national amateur golf championships next year if the United States Golf Association votes to renew these events, according to announcement made tonight by Jack Sullivan, Lieutenant Ouimet's former business partner. Mr. Sullivan said that Lieutenant Ouimet, who is connected with the Quartermaster's Department, might remain in the army indefinitely.

"Francis was interested in reading that Harry Vardon and Ted Ray expect to visit America next season," said Mr. Sullivan. "He looks forward to meeting them again in the open championship."

Ouimet first gained national golf fame by defeating Vardon and Ray, the English professionals, in a play-off for the open championship at Brookline in 1912.

COLUMBIA LOSES FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

Lieut. Robb, Star of This Year's Team, Quits to Become a Farmer.

Columbia lost its football captain yesterday, when Lieutenant Harry Robb, leader of the 1918 eleven, received his honorable discharge from the army and severed his connections with the Columbia regiment of the Students' Army Training Corps. Lieutenant Robb will leave today for his home in Pittsburgh, Penn. He was one of the military instructors of the Columbia S. A. T. C., and in addition to being captain of the football team was athletic officer of the post.

Lieutenant Robb when leaving Columbia yesterday said he expected to return to Pennsylvania State College to complete his work for a degree in the agricultural school. He was captain-elect of the Penn State football team of 1918, but left college early in the Spring of last year to enroll in the Plattsburgh training camp where he was commissioned. He was detailed to the S. A. T. C. at Columbia and gained the consent of Major Herbert C. Earnshaw to play on the post football team. He reported to Fred Dawson and was assigned to play quarter back, a position which he held brilliantly throughout the season. He was the chief point getter of the team and in the game with Syracuse did much to hold the eleven together after it had shown a touch of stage-fright.

FARRELL RETURNS TO TEAM.

Columbia Basket Ball Star Takes Place on Squad Again.

Tom Farrell, a crack guard on the Columbia basket ball teams of 1916 and 1917, returned to the university yesterday and reported to Coach Fred Dawson at the university gymnasium. Farrell will not return to the university for the so-called "shuttle" term in January, but he will probably be back for the regular Spring session, which begins in February. He took his place yesterday in the squad of fifteen S. A. T. C. holdovers who are to report to Dawson for practice three days a week.

With Farrell's return some of Fred Dawson's troubles, especially those centring around the gathering of a nucleus of veteran players for his varsity five, have disappeared. C. C. Latour, Captain of last year's team, is a member of the squad and will probably get a place in the lineup. With Farrell back it would be possible for Dawson to develop a fairly strong team.

PETERSON HOLDS PRACTICE.

Columbia Wrestling Coach Back in Gymnasium, Following Injury.

Gus Peterson, Columbia's wrestling coach, who injured his knee a week ago in a practice bout with a candidate for the team, returned to the gymnasium yesterday and took up again his work of coaching. Because of his injury he was unable to give practical demonstrations and his instruction consisted merely of explanations of holds.

Peterson reported that in the last month he had put to rout a burglar who had entered his apartment and had also captured a janitor who had made a practice of stealing his milk. It might be added that he is also trainer of the Columbia football and basketball teams.

The Garden City lads showed the way in the scoring from start to finish. At the end of the first half they were leading Newtown by 8 to 2. This margin was maintained during the second half. Birch was the big factor in St. Paul's success. He scored three field goals and four from foul.

The lineup:

|---|---|---|
| Hobbs | R. F. | Platow |

| Metzger | R. G. | Moss |
| H. Tyson | L. G. | Fulgione |

Field goals—Hobbs, Birch 3, Vail 2, Metzger, H. Tyson, True 2. Goals from foul—Birch 4, Platow 6. Substitutions—For St. Paul's, Hinton for Hobbs, Olin for Hinton, Simmonds for H. Tyson, Adams for Simmonds; for Newtown, Delehanty for Fulgione, Fulgione for Steuart. Referee—Wm. Cook, De Witt Clinton H. S. Time of halves—Fifteen minutes.

WILL BOX FOR SOLDIERS.

Dundee, Reddy, Coffey, and Others to Appear at Camp Mills Tonight.

Dan Morgan, Ed Pollock, and Edward Mead, local boxing managers, will take a team of professional boxers to Camp Mills, Mineola, L. I., tonight, where a series of bouts will be held for the benefit of the soldiers stationed there. Six contests have been arranged, all of them for four rounds.

Johnny Dundee will box Battling Reddy; Joe Jeannette will oppose Jim Coffey, and Bill Brennan and Jack Giold will be opponents, as the three leading bouts. The other bouts are Walter Laurette vs. Young Carpentier; Young Lipsy vs. Young Harry Stone, and Jack London vs. Cleve Hawkins.

BURLESON PRESSES OWNERSHIP PLAN

Writes Moon That Wire Systems Can Be Paid for in 25 Years Without Cost to Treasury.

ECONOMIES WOULD DO IT

These Could Be Effected by Eliminating the Duplication in Plant and Operating Expenses.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Postmaster General Burleson today sent to Judge Moon of Tennessee, Chairman of the House Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, a long communication giving the Postmaster General's reasons for supporting the joint resolution, introduced Friday by Judge Moon, proposing to extend the period of Government control over the telegraphs and telephones until Congress shall determine otherwise. This is the measure which Judge Moon says the Postmaster General told him had the approval of the President.

In his letter Mr. Burleson reiterates his stand for Government control and eventual Government ownership. In the latter connection, he contends the entire wire system of the country can be acquired "without appropriating a dollar" from the public treasury, and argues that through savings by the elimination of duplications in plant and operating expenses the whole system can be paid for in twenty-five years.

At the end of his remarkable communication, the Postmaster General makes answer to the charge that the party in Governmental power might use private information passing over wire lines by citing that a law passed in October provides heavy penalties for divulging the contents of any message.

The letter reads in part:

"The principle which justifies Government control of the Postal Service applies equally to all electrical means of communication. The Constitution, in giving Congress control over Post Offices and post roads, obviously contemplated, not particularly physical structures, but the communication of intelligence.

"To establish and maintain means of communication is as much the function of the Government as is the provision for national defense. An established and widely extended means of communication, is, in fact, a part of the national defense. Moreover, it is essential to the development of the country and to the progress and prosperity of its people. It is a defense of the national interests as much in peace as in war.

Must of Necessity Be Monopoly.

"The authority given by the Constitution for Government control of the transmission of communication carries with it the implied obligation on the part of the Government to provide the means of communication. The function of transmitting intelligence in the service of the general public must of necessity be a monopoly so that it may be operated in a way to be accessible to the entire public.

"The wire service is a public utility of universal necessity and is adapted to the performance of no other function than that of conveying intelligence, and disregarding the divergence of views as to Government ownership of public utilities generally it must be recognized that electrical agencies of communication stand alone as an essential utility performing a Government function. The progress and prosperity of the nation are dependent upon expansive means of communication between and among the people.

"Extension of the wire service should be determined by public needs, not the opportunity for private gain. The wire systems are supported by the public because they are a necessity in social life and in all business enterprises, however wasteful they may be in their methods of operation or extravagant in the charges. Up to this time the charge for service has been greater and the service less extensive because of wasteful duplications and competition. The extent of the service under private ownership is restricted to areas where it may be operated profitably to the individual owners. The competition which it invites is that which is in pursuit of profit not in rivalry for public benefit and service.

"An extended survey of the situation has been made by the Post Office Department since the Government assumed control of the wire systems, and it clearly appears that unification of control and operation are necessary to eliminate the wastes and inherent defects of the competing and duplicating system which has heretofore existed. It would be as logical to have two or more Post Offices in the same town operating independently and where the patrons of each had no means of communication with the other, as to allow two telephone systems to operate in the same territory, for in either case the cost to the public is multiplied and the utility divided.

"Mr. Theodore N. Vail, President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and probably the highest authority on wire service in the world, in a communication of the 6th instant, in which he quotes extensively from his annual report for the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, says that the service should afford electrical communication, 'of every kind of intelligence from any one at any place to any one at any other place; that the service should be comprehensive, nationwide, economical, at a minimum price, so that potential business could be developed.

"'To do this effectively and economically requires the combination of every kind of electrical transmission of intelligence into one system over which the most efficient service could be rendered through the development of new and useful services, and the wire plant and facilities thus be utilized to their fullest extent.

"'To get the best result, therefore, the common control of this unified system should extend to the furthest possible limits; should cover our nation and the international communications to the boundaries of all other nations with which we have existing or potential relations.

"'Whatever may be done in the practical reorganization and operation of electrical communication, domestic or international, in or by the United States, whether "open wire," "cable," or "radio," there should be such close harmony of effort and operation, one with the other and all with the internal wire systems, that, in effect, there should be "one control" of all and the co-operation and co-ordination of all connected or related activities, including research, investigation, and experimentation. Only in this way can the greatest results in service, in public benefit, in economy, or in cheapness be obtained.'

Broad Organization Essential.

"The Government alone can safely exercise a right of monopoly such as the wire service calls for, but some plan of organization should be devised which will combine all the advantages and the authority possessed by the Government without losing the benefits of the experience of the best operation which our industrial world has demonstrated to be advantageous. The advantages of private initiative in research, investigation, and experimentation, and in other ways, where possible and consistent with Government monopoly, should not be lost in the inauguration of such a new system. I believe an effective plan to accomplish that result can be worked out.

"The information acquired through Federal control of the telegraph and telephone systems since Aug. 1 last enables me to assure you that the entire wire system can be acquired without requiring the appropriation of a dollar from the public treasury and that through the savings by the elimination of duplications in plants and operating expenses the entire telegraph and telephone systems of the country can be paid for through an amortization fund in twenty-five years without increasing the rates to the public and at the same time develop a national wire system available for the use of every community in the country co-extensive with the present postal service.

"The economic importance of the proposition to acquire the properties by the Government is very great. Private capital is invested in public service enterprises with the expectation of 7 or 8 per cent. and often a greater return upon the investment. This, of course, the public is expected to pay, while the Government can borrow money at 4½ per cent. The public, however, pays the charge in either event. The difference between 4½ per cent. and 8 per cent. for the money invested in the wire systems of the United States would maintain and pay for the property in eighteen years and nine months. The Government as owner would no more expect to charge for interest on the investment than it would for money invested in postal facilities, navy yards, or other public property, and as Mr. Vail has so well said:

"'In any utility the permanent plant and equipment are by far the largest items of capital investment, the maintenance of plant and the proper provision for depreciation and obsolescence and taxes are second only to the cost of wages.

"'If the uses of combined plant can be multiplied, extended, and utilized, it not only means reduction in the investment relative to increased utilization; it means one charge for taxes, maintenance, depreciation, and obsolescence, all of which will be reflected in the cost of operation, for, broadly speaking, upon the cost of operation charges for service are based.'

Mr. Burleson quotes from his predecessors in office since the telegraph was in its infancy in favor of its acquisition by the postal service and continues:

"More than seventy bills have been introduced in Congress since 1871 to secure legislation for the purchase or control by the Government of the telegraph lines, and more than a score of these bills have been reported favorably by Senate or House committees.

"The purchase, lease, or other forms of control of the telegraph and telephone have been advocated by many Senators and Representatives, and public men such as Henry Clay, Charles Sumner, Hannibal Hamlin, President Grant, Senators Edmunds, Dawes, Chandler, nearly all of the Postmasters General since the civil war, as well as the leading publicists and economists of the country, regardless of party or factional alignments, and there is absolutely no reason why the question should be made a political one at this time.

"The telegraph and telephone systems are now being operated by the Postmaster General for the duration of the war. Awards have been made for compensation, or compensation agreed upon, with the leading telegraph and telephone companies, and the properties are now being operated as one system. An opportunity is thus presented to demonstrate the advantage or disadvantages to the public of the joint operation of the telegraph and telephone systems and the Postal Service, which has been so strongly urged upon Congress in one form or another for over seventy-five years.

"The present control will, under existing law, cease upon the proclamation of the President of the ratification of the terms of peace. Many of the independent telephone companies could not take back the properties without serious loss to the investors and great detriment to the service. I find that many of these companies were operating at a loss, due to the waste incident to competition and diversity of State regulation, and that, owing to the failure to set aside proper depreciation funds, many of the properties were rapidly drifting into a condition where they could not give proper public service and had been operating under such conditions that new capital could not be provided for renewals—in fact, some of the larger companies are losing hundreds of thousands of dollars a year in some States in operating the properties under the abnormal conditions which have existed during the present war.

"The interest of the public and its investment and the maintenance of the properties all require that the telegraph and the telephone properties should not be returned to the owners in the present situation of affairs.

"One of the objections advanced against Government ownership of the telegraph and telephone systems is that the party in power would be able to make use of the private information contained in telegraph and telephone messages passing over the lines for political purposes. In this connection your attention is called to the fact that the act of Congress approved Oct. 29 last provides heavy penalties for divulging the contents of any telegraph or telephone messages. In fact, this law throws around telegraph and telephone messages all of the safeguards as to privacy that exist with respect to sealed communications passing through the mails.

"Some such legislation as the pending joint resolution would seem to be imperative in view of the facts stated."

Will Hear Telephone Complaints.

Complaints against the New York Telephone Company for failure to give service and for arbitrary charges came up before the Public Service Commission of the Second District yesterday for a hearing. It was decided to hear all the complaints at one time in Albany on Dec. 31. J. L. Swayze, of counsel for the company, admitted all questions of fact, and explained that the company was bound to adhere to orders issued by the Postmaster General. Among the complaints are a number for charges for installing telephones, for the restoration of service, and for refusal to furnish service.

Jean G. Bourdis Estate $184,803.

The estate of Jean G. Bourdis, who died on Dec. 23 last, was appraised yesterday at $184,803, of which $96,500 goes to French Government institutions for blind and hopelessly crippled French soldiers. The City of Lyons gets $19,300 for the purchase of pictures, and bequests of $5,000 each to the Asylum of St. Vincent de Paul, the Ecole Maternelle, and New York Hospital are reduced to $3,820 because the estate is too small to pay the bequests in full. The French Benevolent Society gets $7,800, and $3,900 each goes to the Italian Benevolent Institution and the Marianite Sisters of Holy Cross.

CARLTON NOW SUED FOR CABLE SEIZURE

Head of Western Union Accepts Service as Joint Defendant with Burleson.

MAY HASTEN COURT ACTION

Canadian Opinion Said to be Adverse to American Government Operation of Sea Lines.

Newcomb Carlton, President of the Western Union and recently appointed Federal Manager of the seized transatlantic cables, was made a co-defendant yesterday in the equity suit brought by Clarence H. Mackay, head of the Commercial Cable Company, to stop Postmaster General Burleson from continued control of the cables. Papers amending the original bill of complaint to include Mr. Carlton were filed in the Federal Court by Charles Evans Hughes and William W. Cook, counsel to the Commercial Cable Company, and at 4 o'clock Deputy United States Marshal M. Cohen went to Mr. Carlton's office, at 195 Broadway, and handed him a subpoena.

Mr. Carlton accepted service with a smile, and later said:

"I have no interest in the suit whatever. I am an operating official, and there are proper agencies of the Government to take care of this suit. I suppose I shall respond through the United States Attorney General—at least, I presume that he acts for the Post Office Department. You know, I might worry if the Attorney General was on the other side, but I can't summon up a single worry with him on our side.

"I am glad to announce," he continued, "that the westbound cables of the Commercial line were cleared of all congestion at 3 o'clock this morning and that the westbound Western Union cables were cleared shortly after. The eastbound lines of both companies were cleared at 9 o'clock. Of course, there is a certain amount of matter still in the censor's hands. The Commercial Cable Company is giving full and friendly co-operation; our Superintendents are working with their Superintendents, and everything is going smoothly. The idea is to keep a steady load on each cable, and this is the only thing that can be done to keep the cables working at maximum capacity.

"I haven't myself done anything toward clearing the cables; it is entirely the result of co-operation; it isn't legerdemain. No, Mr. Creel isn't getting preference in filling his cablegrams. He is taking his turn the same as the others."

When asked if the Commercial's assertion that the Western Union, with four cables out of service, didn't welcome the coming of the Government as a virtual partner to bolster things up, Mr. Carlton replied:

"So far as the Western Union is concerned, we could asked for no better financial returns than those of the last few months. As for Government ownership, my company is unalterably opposed to it, to which I add my own opposition."

What the Federal manager had said was read to William J. Deegan, Secretary of the Mackay Companies. His answer was:

"Mr. Carlton would like to have it appear that the fact that he became Director of all the cables late Friday afternoon was responsible for the cables being entirely clear of traffic early this morning. We would like to know how he explains the fact that the Commercial Cable lines were entirely clear of traffic not only early this morning but last Monday morning as well. Mr. Carlton is again indulging in camouflage. He is acting for Mr. Burleson, and Mr. Burleson has repeatedly said he wants Government ownership; how does Mr. Carlton reconcile his statement of opposition to Government ownership with the fact that he is acting as agent for the Postmaster General?"

As indicative of the feeling in Canada regarding the action of Mr. Burleson, Mr. Deegan read a dispatch from Montreal, sent out by Dow, Jones & Co., a Wall Street news agency. The report said:

"The strongest opposition has developed in political circles on the action of the Postmaster General of the States in assuming control of the cable lines. It is pointed out here (Montreal) that thirteen of the seventeen cables operating across the Atlantic land in Canada, and on this account the opinion prevails here that the United States Government cannot take over the operation of lines running from Canada to Great Britain. While the relationship between Canada and the United States is particularly friendly, it is held that if any such action was contemplated by the American Postmaster General he should have requested the Canadian Government to take over the cable lines running from Canada to Great Britain, because it would be impossible for the Canadian Government to allow a foreign Government to operate cables running from the Dominion to the mother country.

"It is believed in Canada that the real situation has not been made clear to the American people at all, and that when it is it will be found that the Postmaster General has done something which could not be considered entirely businesslike, especially at a time when the friendship tie between the two countries is so strong.

"In addition, the lines of the Commercial Cable Company handle about two-thirds of the total Canadian business, and in this connection it should be pointed out that the cities of Montreal and Toronto alone are the second largest producers of cable business on the continent, New York being the only one centre that surpasses them in volume of business. From the way opposition has grown in Canada, it is evident that the strongest action will be taken to prevent the United States Government from touching cables running between Canada and Great Britain. Just what an unfortunate situation has been created by the action of the Postmaster General can best be appreciated from the fact that at the present time the business between the Dominion Government and the British Government over lines from Canada to Great Britain, can only be carried out by courtesy of the United States Government representatives."

Among the cable lines taken by Mr. Burleson under his proclamation of Nov. 12 were the lines operated to Mexico and along the west coast of South America. These cables are the property of the Central and South American Telegraph and Cable Company, 66 Broadway. John Merrill, President of the company, declined yesterday to tell the corporation's attitude with reference to the seizure of its lines.

TELEPHONE RATES IN DOUBT.

Officials Here Only Know 5-Cent Minimum Is Not Likely to be Cut.

Officials of the New York Telephone Company and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company said yesterday that, pending receipt of the official schedule of rates fixed by Postmaster General Burleson in his announcement of reduced charges, it would be impossible to ascertain whether the companies would have to operate at a loss to meet the new requirements. One thing was certain, as the officials understood it, and that was that no charge would be less than 5 cents a call, the present minimum.

Discussing the Postmaster General's ideas as they had been informed of them, the officials said the new airline rate of 6¼ mills a mile would not apply to calls put in through an exchange for connection with a number listed in the same exchange—that is, a person at the Battery calling a number in Kingsbridge will not get the benefit of the per mile rate. It was the opinion, however, that calls to the suburbs would be on the airline rate.

It was said that the Postmaster General contemplated districting the country and that per mile telephone charges would be computed somewhat as the postal rates are fixed under the zoning system. Nothing definite on this scheme, however, has been received by the telephone people.

SMUTS QUITS WAR CABINET.

South African Says His Services Are No Longer Needed.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—Lieut. Gen. Jan Christian Smuts has resigned as member of the War Cabinet on the ground that the end of the war has terminated the need of his services, according to The Express.

General Smuts, who in January, 1917, had been appointed a member of the Imperial War Conference as representative of the Union of South Africa, entered the War Cabinet in June of that year. His service to the British Government since that period has been distinguished in many ways. Late last year Colonel E. M. House referred to him as "one of the greatest statesmen of the day."

Jan Christian Smuts was born in 1870, and has long been a figure in the political life of South Africa. He became a practicing attorney at Cape Town in 1896, and during the Boer War was in command of the republican forces in Cape Colony. In 1907 he became British Colonial Secretary for the Transvaal, and in 1916 became commander of British forces in East Africa, fighting against the Germans, his success in that campaign being remarkable.

JUDGES PLEDGE SEVERITY.

Agree to Give Maximum Terms to Break Up Lawlessness.

On account of apparent increase in crime in New York County all the Judges of criminal courts recently agreed at a conference that the extreme penalty should be applied. This was made known yesterday in a warning statement by Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions.

When the court was told Charles Perchand of 409 West 120th Street, who had pleaded guilty to stealing an automobile from John E. Cole of 128 East Ninety-fourth Street, that the prisoner had used a revolver, Judge Rosalsky said:

"You are the type of desperate criminal with whom the courts are required to deal severely. The lawless had better take heed, for it has been agreed that if they are convicted in these courts no Judge will flinch from passing the heaviest sentence possible." Perchand was remanded a week for sentence.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Present Strong Undertone, with Trading Light—Unusual Winter Wheat Outlook.

The firm undertone which the stock market displayed rather generally in yesterday's dealings denoted nothing in the way of new developments and the smaller turnover continued to indicate that professional operations dominated transactions. The oil stocks were strong, due presumably to the announced purpose of the Fuel Administrator to remove restrictions on the oil markets as rapidly as possible. This was about the only influence which had a marked reflection in the day's business and in the case of the other industrial issues and the railroad stocks buying and selling was of the desultory order, bringing more gains than declines. The upward tendency of the automobile stocks was the subject of attention, for one thing because an offering of $15,000,000 7 per cent. serial notes of the Studebaker Corporation was quickly oversubscribed. In the bond market certain of the traction companies securities which lost considerable ground last week turned about and scored fair recoveries. Call money loaned for the greater part of the day at 5 per cent. going as low as 4½ per cent.

Great crops of wheat on occasions in the past have spelled prosperity for the country and more than once have supplied aid in bringing about important changes in national financial and business conditions. Along this line it may be said that the December forecast and estimate of the Department of Agriculture yesterday presented possibilities truly amazing. The statement indicated the greatest Winter wheat yield in the history of the country. The crop forecast of 765,000,000 bushels stands in marked comparison with the actual yield of 558,000,000 bushels last season and the previous record crop of 684,000,000 bushels in 1914. The Department's report showed that 49,027,000 acres had been planted, an increase of about 16 per cent. over a year ago. In the December preceding the 1914 output a planted area of 37,128,000 acres was reported, a total nearly 12,000,000 acres less than is comprised in the present total. The condition of the crop on Dec. 1 last was 98.5 per cent. of normal, and on the same date in 1913 it was 87.50 per cent. There is room in these comparisons for considerable play of the imagination. The law provides that the price shall be $2.20 a bushels at the market, and, while there is no surety of course that there will be a demand for all the wheat, still current reports on the grain outlook in Europe, particularly in Russia, forecast an exceptional demand next year. In commenting on the wheat price last September, President Wilson made reference to the possibilities of decided changes in market conditions in case the war ended before the crop was sold and shipping conditions improve. It may be taken for granted that much more Australian and Indian wheat will reach the world's markets in 1919 than last year, a development which may have considerable effect on the exports of American grain. It remains to be seen whether the crop comes through the Winter in shape to fulfill the promise now made, but the high percentage of condition shows that the plant is entering into the period of low temperatures in excellent shape.

GLASS TAKES OATH AS TREASURY HEAD

Contemplates No Change in Personnel, He Says, Replying to Speech by McAdoo.

NAMES WAR RISK DIRECTOR

Lindsley Chosen Because of Overseas Efficiency—Bureau Mailing November Checks.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—In the historic office of the Secretary of the Treasury, crowded with members of the Virginia delegation in Congress, Treasury officials, and others prominently connected with the Administration, Carter Glass of Virginia today succeeded William G. McAdoo as Secretary of the Treasury. The oath was administered by Judge James Hay of Virginia, a member of the Court of Claims and for years a colleague of Mr. Glass in the House of Representatives.

In turning the office over to Mr. Glass Mr. McAdoo said:

"You come to its duties admirably equipped in ability, in character, in distinguished service to your country, to execute and perform those duties with signal distinction and honor. I am proud, Sir, to be able to turn over to you this splendid organization. I know it from one end to the other. Its personnel is more patriotic, more cohesive, more earnest, and more enthusiastic in the discharge of their duties and in the carrying forward of the work of the Government than any set of men and women with whom I have ever been associated. I could not say too much if I spoke a month in commendation of the character and quality of the officials and employes of the Treasury Department."

Mr. Glass in his remarks made it clear that he did not contemplate changes in the personnel of the department.

"'I have asked," he said, "that the usual formality of presenting resignations be dispensed with, because I have not in mind any change of policy and have no desire to make changes of personnel, except as circumstances and occasion may seem to suggest. I shall rely on the staff with which the retiring Secretary has surrounded himself, and I am sure I shall have your best wishes and your intelligent co-operation."

The first official act of the new Secretary was to name a Director of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, which for months has been under fire from members of Congress. The new appointee is Colonel D. L. Lindsley, who has served for a year on the staff of Major General Harboard as Chief of the War Risk Section of the Expeditionary Forces. He had charge of all war risk matters overseas and the successful manner in which he handled them resulted in his appointment.

Colonel Lindsley's appointment had been under consideration some time. Before the war Colonel Lindsley was for some years President of the South-western Life Insurance Company at Dallas and later served as Mayor.

T. B. Love, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, in whose department the Bureau of War Risk Insurance is, said all October checks were mailed by Dec. 1, and it was expected that November checks would be mailed by the end of this week. The October checks were not available for mailing until the end of the last day of the month. The December checks cannot begin to go out before Jan. 1.

Mr. Love said some recent delay was caused by influenza and shortage of adding machines, but the bureau was now well up with its work.

"I investigated the charge made by a member of Congress that 500,000 letters were dumped in a pile unopened, and I found no truth in it," said Mr. Love. "We have received no letters, I am informed, that have not been opened within twenty-four hours of their arrival."

Although the war had stopped, Mr. Love said that allotments and allowances were coming in at a heavy rate, 2,495 having been received on Dec. 13. Discontinuances were also adding to the work of the bureau, so that the volume of work to be done had not been cut by the ending of hostilities.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 4,331 packages. An advance of ½c was established on nearly all grades of fresh creamery, with the supply barely equal to current needs. Other qualities much the same as of late. EGGS.—4,701 cases. Arrivals continue light, and advices generally do not indicate as much increase in shipments as many receivers anticipated. Demand is still quiet and of a selective character, there is some accumulation of fresh gathered eggs in first hands, most of which is held with some confidence and more lots are not offering at present quotations. Supply available, however, is ample or more than ample for current light demand, and there is some weakness on average good and ordinary qualities. The full range of prices show little change. Storage eggs continue wanted beyond the supply available and prices rule firm. Nearby white eggs are in comparatively light supply, there are very few of uniformally large size and new laid quality, and most receivers report an outlet for such at sustained prices. Mixed qualities are very dull and weak. The greater part of the supply sells below 90c. Some very ordinary lots ranging all the way down to 75c. Some further sales of fancy California whites at 90c, but most of the supply here is of lower quality and without movement to establish definite selling values. Fresh gathered, extras, a dozen, 71@72c; extra firsts, 68@70c; firsts, 65@67c; seconds, 60@64c; Fall gathered, poor to prime, 50@63c; dirties, No. 1, 55@59c; No. 2 and poorer, 44@54c; checks, good to choice, dry, 46@48c; under grades, 40@45c; refrigerator, 43@53c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 69@69c; ordinary to prime, 75@85c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 75@90c; pullet whites, 70@75c; Pacific Coast whites, firsts to finest, 87@90c; lower grades, 80@86c; pullets, 68@72c; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 70@83c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby, hennery browns, 75@78c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 65@72c.

WOULD SEND ABROAD MORE TRADE AGENTS

Chief Cutler Says American Business Men Are Going to Feel the Need of Them.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Burwell S. Cutler, in his annual report as Chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, made public today, urges expansion of the Government's facilities for promoting foreign trade. Secretary Redfield, of the Department of Commerce, also signs the report.

Large appropriations are asked of Congress by Mr. Cutler, both to pay larger salaries, or give larger allowances, to present commercial attachés and to provide new posts; otherwise, at present rates of compensation, there is constant danger of attachés being forced to accept the offers of private positions. New attachés are asked for at Rome, Madrid, Ottawa, Mexico City, Santiago, Chile, Athens, and other places.

"I cannot overemphasize the increasing importance in our plan of foreign trade promotion of these residents in foreign countries," says Mr. Cutler. "Commercial inquiries are constantly reaching the department from business men. Frequently prompt investigation and cabled replies are necessary. This service can be rendered best by having a trained commercial expert in the foreign country who is there for the sole purpose of attending to these commercial matters.

"Another type of investigator abroad, especially needed at this time, is a resident trade Commissioner, who will travel from place to place reporting on the resources, the nature of present and potential trade relations, land and water transportation, and the other things American business men need to know in order successfully to do business with those countries. These trade Commissioners would operate without any staff and would of course not attempt to open an office. The countries now in view for such work are Colombia, Venezuela, the Dutch East Indies, Egypt, South Africa, and New Zealand."

A table attached to the report shows that not only has the value of the goods exported from this country greatly increased, but there has been also an increase in quantity all along the line, with the exception of lumber, raw cotton and tobacco. Oats advanced from 2,000,000 bushels in 1914 to more than 100,000,000 bushels in 1918. Coal climbed 6,000,000 tons from 1914 to 1918. There was a gain of 10,000,000 barrels in wheat flour. Steel cars quadrupled; exports of steel sheets and steel plates doubled.

FIRST TAX BILL VOTE BREAKS PARTY LINES

Senate, 36 to 16, Adopts Amendment Deducting Losses from Income Tax.

ATTACKED AS INEQUITABLE

Would Penalize Business Efficiency, Says Lenroot—Smoot Criticises Theory of Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—By a vote of 36 to 16, the Senate today adopted a committee amendment to the War Revenue bill by which deductions would be allowed to individuals and corporations in their income tax for losses incurred in the years 1917, 1918, and 1919. This, the first vote taken by the Senate on the war revenue measure, was entirely non-partisan.

Those voting against the amendment were Borah, Frelinghuysen, Gronna, Harding, Kenyon, Jones of Washington, La Follette, Nelson, Norris, Lenroot, Poindexter, and Sterling, Republicans, and King, Nugent, Kirby, and Vardaman, Democrats.

Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin attacked the amendment as meaning that taxpayers might reimburse themselves for losses at the expense of the Government. He spoke particularly of the provision for a refund in 1920 for losses incurred during 1919. It is manifestly unfair, he said, to "demand of a business which is properly run that it pay into the Treasury, while other businesses, mismanaged, are allowed to make up their losses and deprive the Government of a just tax in doing it." Mr. Lenroot said the provision would protect firms that engaged in speculation.

"If a man in business made a loss in 1919 he would be entitled, under this provision, to have paid to him out of the Treasury the amount of the loss from his profit of 1918, and, if that was not sufficient, to carry the loss over into 1920 and receive an additional refund," said Senator Lenroot.

Senator La Follette said it was estimated that the loss to the Government would be $100,000,000.

Potential Losses.

"If $100,000,000," continued Senator Lenroot, "is the estimate of the loss of revenue, on the assumption that business goes on as usual, it is fair to assume that, if depression does come, it will cost the Government $1,000,000,000. The theory of the income tax is that a man shall be taxed according to the income he makes each year. This provision would nullify that completely by permitting a deduction of losses over the three-year period.

"Where a man has made an excessive profit, it is not just to allow him a deduction for losses of two or three years back, when in the very same bill you impose excise taxes, which are not levied according to the ability to pay, but must be paid whether the taxpayer is able to afford it or not."

Senator Smoot also attacked the amendment.

"When it comes to an unjust, discriminatory tax, that imposes one tax on one concern and a different tax upon another in identically the same business and making the same profits, the business man," he said, "has the right to object. In some instances concerns have to pay four and five times as much as others in exactly the same business and with like profits.

"American business men will pay heavy taxes for years to come as a result of the war. It is essential, therefore, that a reasonable, equitable tax be imposed. It is impossible to impose an excess profits tax or war profits tax on the business organizations of the country without discriminating against some of them. No definition that ever could be written into the law would provide for all emergencies that will arise among thousands of businesses.

"The only way out is to have a straight war profits tax on gains made through war work. This tax ought to be assessed only against contracts or work still going on. The character of tax that I believe would be acceptable to all businesses is a normal tax that would reach all concerns making over 8 per cent. profit. Such a tax would do away with all inequalities. It is a notorious fact that some corporations today pay very little tax, and yet are making hundreds of millions of dollars of profit. That would be overcome by a straight normal tax."

The Utah Senator spoke of the estimated expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920, as $10,000,000,000, and declared that, to meet this, the Finance Committee had put a stipulation in the War Revenue bill for a maximum tax of $4,000,000,000.

"How is that going to suffice?" demanded Senator Smoot. "The only way out of it will be for the Government to issue bonds. The people might as well know the truth now."

Alleges a Partisan Scheme.

He asserted that the Democrats, in putting the stipulation in the bill, were scheming to put the Republicans in the position of having to pass heavy bond legislation. He declared that, with reconstruction, it would be necessary to revise the Underwood-Simmons tariff law.

"Does the Senator expect to substitute the Payne-Aldrich law for the Underwood-Simmons act?" asked Senator Jones of New Mexico.

"It would be a godsend to the country as compared with the one now on the statute books," retorted Senator Smoot. "Yet I will say there are rates in the Payne-Aldrich law that will never be enacted again."

Senator Simmons asked if the Utah Senator thought tariff legislation ought to be enacted at an extra session next year.

"I can only say that I believe it will have to come up very soon in Congress," said Senator Smoot. "We may have to do it at an extra session. Certainly it cannot wait long if we are to protect our markets."

Tells of 1918 Eclipse.

At the annual meeting of the New York Academy of Sciences last evening at the American Museum of Natural History all the officers were re-elected: Ernest E. Smith, President; Edmond O. Hovey, Frank H. Pike, George B. Pegram, and Pliny E. Goddard, Vice Presidents; Ralph W. Tower, Recording Secretary; Henry E. Crampton, Corresponding Secretary, and John Tatlock, Treasurer. Professor S. A. Mitchell of the McCormick Observatory, University of Virginia, related his observations of the eclipse of 1918.

The Passing Opportunity

The end of the war has removed a great uncertainty from the minds of investors. A real opportunity now exists to obtain investment bonds of unquestioned standing at prices which will return an unusually high yield over a long period of years. It is the best investment judgment that the possibilities favor a continuance of the advance in prices of conservative bonds.

Unless held for some specific purpose, securities maturing within a year do not allow the investor to take advantage of present possibilities. That is, in general, they do not yield the high return of securities running from three to five years nor do they offer the opportunity for the appreciation in price which may be expected to occur in long-time bonds.

We suggest the desirability of considering the exchange of short-time bonds or notes for longer term investments. To investors who desire to send us a list of their short-time securities, we will submit a comprehensive list of longer term bonds together with terms on which exchanges may be made. Such investments in maturities ranging from about three to fifty years can now be obtained to yield from 4½% to over 7%. These investments are offered with our recommendation.

WINTER WHEAT CROP TO SET HIGH RECORD

15.9% INCREASE IN ACREAGE

Officials at Variance on Question If Government Will Lose on Its $2.20 Guarantee.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—A huge Winter wheat crop, larger by 80,000,000 bushels than any other yield in the history of American agriculture, was forecast today by the Department of Agriculture.

The Government's appeal made before the coming of peace was in sight, saying an acreage of 47,500,000 was desirable, and the guaranteed price of $2.20 a bushel of wheat, stimulated extraordinary effort on the part of farmers, said the department's announcement. As a result 40,027,000 acres were planted during a long and almost perfect season, 15.9 per cent. larger than last year's acreage.

The Fall growing season has been one of the finest ever known, resulting in the crop being in the best condition ever recorded on Dec. 1 and giving promise of heavy yields.

Allowing for the average Spring abandonment of acreage due to Winter killing, the department announced that Winter wheat gave promise of a total production of 765,000,000 bushels. An average Spring wheat crop would place next year's production of wheat beyond a billion bushels and exceed the record crop of 1915. Last year's Spring wheat production was 363,000,000 bushels.

Condition by States.

For States that have sown more than a million acres of Winter wheat the percentage of increase or decrease and the condition of the crop on Dec. 1 follow:

*Decrease.

Washington showed the largest percentage of increase in acreage, it being 155, with the acreage 992,000. Iowa showed 100 per cent. increase, with 750,000 acres. In Oregon and California, the condition of the crop was 100, and the increase in acreage 25 and 42 per cent., respectively.

After the official forecast of record-breaking wheat production had been made public, there was considerable speculation as to whether the Government would sustain a loss in supporting the guaranteed price of $2.20 a bushel through the 1919 production year. Opinion on the subject apparently was divided.

Effect on Wheat Prices.

Some officials said the Government was assured of full return on all the wheat consumed in the United States, because of the control of markets and shipping, and that American consumption probably would be greatly expanded with all restrictions on its use removed. They also said it was not at all certain that even the prospective bumper crop of American wheat would produce a world surplus, with Russian sources shut off and the new Argentine crop being absorbed now by France and England as fast as it was threshed.

In other quarters it was said that with the war ended the great stocks of wheat in Australia and India would be available for world consumption, probably at prices below the American guaranteed figure. If these stocks prove sufficient for European requirements some see a possibility that the Government will lose on whatever surplus of wheat there is over domestic requirements.

In a summary of its report the Agricultural Department says:

"The rye acreage this Autumn is slightly larger than last, being 6,820,000, compared to 6,708,000 acres. The condition is 89.0 per cent., compared to 84.1 per cent. last year and 91.4 per cent. average, the condition being held down by poor conditions in the important producing States of North and South Dakota. This forecasts a somewhat larger production than last year's record crop of 89,103,000 bushels."

PROPOSES FINANCIAL UNION OF THE ALLIES

French Deputy Would Apportion War's Costs on Basis of Population and Wealth.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—The Government is considering, with a probability of presenting before the Chamber of Deputies on Dec. 24, a bill proposed by Deputy Jacques Stern to establish among the Allies an international financial union. The purpose of this union would be to distribute the epenses of the war among the nations on the basis of populations and power to contribute. The proposition is supported by 100 delegates of all parties. It is understood that a similar plan is under consideration by the British Government, but no definite steps have yet been taken in London.

It is estimated that the war expenses of the Allies totaled 424,000,000,000 francs, while the Central Powers' expenses aggregated 370,000,000,000 francs. Annual budgets at 5 per cent., with a one-half of 1 per cent. premium for amortization, would total more than 40,000,000,000 francs. To avoid international bankruptcy, it is declared such an association is necessary to float an international loan, estimated at 518,000,000,000 francs, to be distributed on a basis of population and production. Each State would guarantee its proportion from customs and other revenues.

M. Stern, the author of the bill, hopes that the Peace Conference will adopt the plan, at least in principle, leaving a special commission to arrange the details.

COTTON STILL ADVANCING.

Profit-Taking and Hedge Selling Absorbed in Strong Market.

Prices for all contracts advanced still further in yesterday's cotton market. First prices were 12 to 23 points higher than Saturday's closing, and stimulated by Liverpool cables evidencing a much stronger and higher market there, and with the Southern markets continuing to show stability, the local market steadily moved forward. The near months showed gains of between 52 and 58 points compared with Saturday's final quotations. The demand which has come from foreign buying commissions, coupled with good trade buying, caused a brisk bidding for options in the forenoon, and there was but slight decline in this activity until late in the day's session, when some profit taking and hedge selling induced a reaction of 15 to 20 points. This liquidation was very quickly absorbed in view of the bullish advices from the Southern spot markets and the strong character of the near months at New Orleans.

Exports for the day totaled 37,012 bales, by far the largest of a single day's clearances in some time. Most of the staple which cleared yesterday left from the South for England and other points on the continent.

BIG GIFT FOR COOPER UNION.

Institution Residuary Legatee Under Will of James R. Steers.

The appraisal of the estate of James R. Steers of 1 West Seventieth Street, who died on Dec. 1, 1917, leaving $576,460, shows that as residuary legatee Cooper Union will receive $405,305 after the death of the widow, Mrs. Katherine K. Steers, who gets the life interest in that sum, and $25,000 additional after the death of Mary S. Halvorson, a niece. The fund of $435,305 is to be used to establish the Steers Foundation for the institution.

The testator gave $10,000 each to the Presbyterian and the Sloane Maternity Hospitals, and $5,000 each to the Manhattan Eye and Ear Hospital, Woman's Hospital, and St. Andrew's Convalescent Hospital. The bulk of the estate consisted of $523,549 in stocks and bonds.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

The sale of a downtown business property and two good Bronx apartment house investments were the features of interest in the realty market yesterday. The lower Manhattan deal was the five-story building at 20 Beekman Street, on lot 24 by 85, btween William and Nassau Streets. It was held at $75,000 and was purchased by E. G. Mears Kemp from the Baltic Realty Corporation, which recently acquired it. The building will be altered for use by the firm of Lanman & Kemp, whose main offices will remain at 135 Water Street, where the concern has been for many years.

The Charles F. Noyes Company acted as brokers. Stoddard & Mark represented the sellers as attorneys.

Bronx Apartment Investments.

Apartment investments in the Bronx continue to be an actual feature of the market. The Morgenstern Brothers syndicate purchased the five-story apartment house at 2,109 Harrison Avenue on a lot 75 by 100 feet, adjoining the northwest corner of 180th Street. It was bought from Goebel & Schultz and was held at $90,000. The building is fully rented at about $14,000 a year. Fine, London & Rosenblatt were the brokers in the deal, the sellers being represented by Jacob I. Berman as attorney.

The five-story apartment house at 20 and 22 Arden Street was purchased by Frederick Brown from I. Flatau. It is on a lot 40.6 by 130 feet, showing a rent roll of $8,300 a year, and was held at $60,000. Nehring Brothers were the brokers.

Resale on East Twenty-seventh Street.

The three-story business building, 143 East Twenty-seventh Street, on a lot 20 by 98.9, has been resold by Norman S. Reisenfeld to an investor. The property, which adjoins the northeast corner of Lexington Avenue, was acquired from the Grimley estate about three weeks ago and is assessed at $20,000.

Resale in Harlem.

J. L. Van Sant purchased from the Nuvat Realty Company 245 Lenox Avenue, a four-story stone dwelling on a lot 19 by 80. The selling company acquired the property in a recent trade. P. R. Haughton and M. Kahn were the brokers.

Tenement Deals.

The Broadway Savings Institution sold to an investor 382 East 125th Street, a six-story tenement, with stores, on a plot 25.6 by 150 by irregular.

The five-story tenement 501 East Eightieth Street, on a lot 25 by 51, has been sold to an investor.

The Bronx Market.

Cahn & Pittman sold to Annuccio Santini the one-story brick taxpayer on the southeast corner of 157th Street and Third Avenue, known as 3,060 Third Avenue.

Brewing Company Sells Thirty-Seven Brooklyn Saloons.

For a total of $305,000 the Obermeyer & Liebmann Brewing Company sold at auction Saturday thirty-five of its saloon properties in Brooklyn. Many of the parcels sold were corners. There were thirty-seven properties in the original offering, but two were withdrawn from the auction and sold privately.

Brooklyn.

The four-story new law apartment house at 1,470 Forty-fourth Street, Borough Park, adjoining the corner of Fifteenth Avenue, on a lot 44 by 100 feet, has been sold by Morgenstern Brothers' syndicate to an investor. It was held at $33,000. Thierman & Gilbert were the brokers.

I. Salzberg sold for Mary Journeay to A. R. Olson the four two-family brick houses, 20 by 100 each, on the south side of Fiftieth Street, twenty feet west of Tenth Avenue, known as 982, 978, 976 and 974 Fiftieth Street.

Meister Builders, Inc., sold a three-story cottage on the northeasterly corner of Bath and Twenty-third Avenues on a plot 79.6 by 96.4, to a client for occupancy.

J. D. O'Connell, Jr., sold 135 Argyle Road, a two-story frame dwelling on a plot 65 by 100, for Alice A. Dana, to a client for occupancy. The property was held at $25,000.

Queens Borough Sales.

The Lewis H. May Company has resold for the Lawyers Title Insurance and Trust Company the Mulhearn property on the east side of Neilson Street, Far Rockaway, L. I., consisting of a Colonial house on a plot 50 by 175, to a client.

B. De Novollis sold to the Lancaster Sea Beach Improvement Company a plot 50 by 135 on the west side of Beach Avenue north of Mermaid Avenue, Far Rockaway.

S. Voris sold to C. Gerken a plot 100 by 132 on the northwest side of Hancock Street, southwest of Myrtle Avenue, Glendale.

C. Schuessler has sold to I. Schiffelin a plot 125 by 137 on the west side of the Merrick Road, south of Remsen Street, Jamaica.

The three-story dwelling with store on plot 25 by 90 on the north side of Borden Avenue, 400 feet east of West Avenue, Long Island City, has been purchased by Sigmond Feldman, the present tenant, from James H. Cruikshank. William P. Jones was the broker.

Three New Building Projects.

M. Groh & Sons are the buyers of the old tenements 245 to 251 West Twenty-seventh Street. The site, 75 by 98.9, will be improved with a ten-story warehouse and salesroom to cost about $250,000.

As a site for a shipbuilding plant, acreage has been accumulated from various owners along the Kill van Kull, Staten Island, between Port Richmond and Mariners Harbor. The enterprise is to be undertaken by the Kill van Kull Realty Corporation, formed at Albany last week with a capital of $250,000, and composed of interests represented by Gilbert & Gilbert, attorneys. The site was acquired in the name of Walter J. McCarthy, and comprises the Nolan, Croak, Simonson, and New York Bridge and Dock Company properties. A large piece of land under water is to be reclaimed, and some of the buildings now on the property will likely be utilized in the project.

Shampan & Shampan have filed plans for seven high class stores and nine brick residences to be erected on the block bounded by Surf Avenue, West Twenty-fourth and West Twenty-fifth Streets, Coney Island, to cost $100,000, for the Manhattan Plaza Realty Company, as owners.

Commercial Leases.

Cross & Brown Company leased the entire building at 225 and 227 West Sixty-sixth Street, for a long term of years, to the Brooks Astruk Company, Inc., builders of bodies for Rolls Royce automobiles.

Sweet-Orr & Co., Inc., manufacturers of men's and women's work clothes, leased the building situated at 217 and 218 Riverdale Avenue, Yonkers, N. Y., which is to be equipped with 200 machines and will afford employment to about 250 persons.

The store and basement of the Transit Annex Building, 6 East Forty-third Street, has been leased by Cushman & Wakefield, Inc., for a long term, to Clark & Gibby, Inc., office furniture, for their uptown showrooms.

Henry Ford will abandon his automobile plant on Jackson Avenue, Long Island City, after the Government turns it back to him and concentrate his eastern activities at his new plant on the Newark Meadows.

The Long Island City property, which consists of an eight-story building, containing about 500,000 square feet, has been placed in the hands of Joseph P. Day for sale. It was erected five years ago and used as the Eastern assembling plant, employing several thousand men. All of this work will now be done at the Newark Meadows plant, according to Mr. Day; the Long Island City property is held at $2,000,000.

If General Sherman had lived until Today and seen the beautiful place where he frequently visited his cousin Mrs. Louisa Dash—The place where Theodore Roosevelt lived for two summers when a boy and played around in his "Teddy-bare" feet—divided into lots and sold for the ridiculous prices they are apt to bring Today

Owing to the bad weather, the time of year and the decline in real estate—General Sherman would have said not alone "War is Hell" but "War is Hell on Real Estate!"

From present indications, it looks as if the lots would be sacrificed and tremendous bargains picked up.

Advance Footwear Fashions

THE Style Observer already finds smart shoes of Gray Kid prevailing as a keynote in the harmony of footwear fashions. The trend is evident wherever well-dressed women congregate.

Gray is the colortone and "F. B.& C." Gray Kid No. 24 is the leather mode for street and functional wear during the winter and early spring. Both color and leather combine fine points of style with strong points of serviceability.

The vogue of "F. B. & C." Gray Kid No. 24 will continue until warm weather ushers in the all white shoe of "F. B. & C." White Washable Glazed Kid "No. 81," an early summer style already forecast by the tide set of Fashion at Southern Resorts.

"F. B. & C." White Washable Glazed Kid "No. 81" is the accepted leather for Southern wear. It is the leather which "Fits on the Foot like a Glove on the Hand" and requires no mussy dressing to preserve its spotless appearance.

F.B&C. KID NEW YORK. TRADE MARK REGISTERED UNITED STATES PATENT OFFICE

If you winter at home in gray kid shoes, look for this mark on tags attached to the shoes you buy or stamped on the leather inside the shoe. It is your guide in choosing accepted footwear modes and "The Best There Is" in leather.

WASHABLE "FB&C" KID WHITE GLAZED No. 81 Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

If you follow the white shod throngs to Southern Beaches, look for this mark on tags attached to white kid shoes or stamped on the leather inside the shoe. It is your guide in choosing accepted footwear modes and "The Best There Is" in leather.

Important Shopping Note

Both "F.B.&C." Gray Kid No. 24 and "F.B.&C." White Washable Glazed Kid "No. 81" are made from imported kid skins—assembled from all parts of the world. With leather shipping facilities still impeded and "F.B.&C." Kids in greater demand than ever, the scarcity in Fashion's favorite leathers is increasing daily.

The Style Committee advises you, therefore, to buy immediately.
